INTRODUCTION.

THE following pages comprise, I believe, the first serious attempt at compiling what may be called a biographical history of one of our ancient educational foundations; in the sense of not only giving a chronological list of all the members, but of affording also some information as to their subsequent career. It need hardly be added that neither of these objects has been entirely secured; and that in the case of the latter, success has fallen considerably short of what was desired.

As regards the completeness of the list of members of the college: from 1559 onwards, thanks to the foresight of Dr Caius, our Entrance List may be considered as nearly perfect; at any rate we have no ground to suppose that more than a few names of the ordinary students or of those graduates who came to reside as fellow-commoners, have been omitted from the register. Those who first entered the college as fellows, it is true, were not included; but they are very few in number, and can generally be ascertained either by the inclusion of their names in the account-books, or by some reference to them as tutors. Practically, therefore, the name of every member of the college, in the modern sense of the term, is certainly known from 1559[1]. This leaves an interval of about 220 years from the first foundation, which can only partially be filled up. The University matriculations commence in 1544, and therefore carry us a few years further back; but their information is defective in two respects. They only assign the college at which a student matriculated, but give no hint of any subsequent migration. Moreover they give the names only, omitting all account of birthplace and parentage. They are also far from complete, as many students, especially those who did not contemplate staying for a degree, altogether omitted to matriculate.

For the two centuries which lie behind this period, our sources of information are fewer than we could wish. They consist principally of our older bursars' account-books; of title-deeds and early leases in our Treasury; references in the wills of early masters and fellows; ordination records at Ely and Norwich; names of donors and benefactors recorded in the Annals; and other miscellaneous sources. It seems certain that complete lists of the members on the foundation must have existed from the commencement, for the various account-books could not fail to give the names of all those to or from whom payments were due. But unfortunately these books now only commence in 1422, and are missing during a good many subsequent years. The foresight of bishop Bateman had indeed provided another source of information which, if his regulations had been properly carried out, would have yielded a quantity of interesting and valuable material. In his statute De Sociorum nominibus Episcopo Norwicensi et Capitulo annis singulis intimandis he enacts that the master, after celebrating in Norwich Cathedral on or about Michaelmas Day, was to hand to the bishop, and to the prior of the convent, lists, sealed by the college, of the names, surnames, and degrees, of the fellows, with an account of those who had died, or left the college, during the past year. The object is expressly stated to be that the bishop and the chapter might appeal to these fellows for help or advice according to the post they occupied, or the academic degree which they had attained. An oath was exacted of every candidate, on admission to a fellowship, that he would never in any way act against the bishop or chapter, "sed cum eis pro justo et competenti salario, cum extra exercitium scholasticum fuerit, quando et cum legitime fuerit requisitus." He was to be, in fact, their standing counsel in Civil and Canon Law, and in Theology: whether they had a similar claim on the medical skill of the physician is not stated. That such lists were duly sent for very many years to the bishop and the prior, and, after the Suppression, to the dean, is certain from our own records. But unfortunately, after repeated enquiries in the proper quarters, I have failed to find any trace of their present existence.

[1] In early times not only every college servant was reckoned to belong to the University, and allowed corresponding privileges, but also many tradesmen and other townsmen whose business brought them into close relation with the students. Their wills are proved at the University Registry, and their names are sometimes to be found in the Matriculation lists.

The names of the other early members of the college, that is, of those who were not on the foundation, are extremely difficult to recover. They were probably not numerous, for colleges were not originally founded for this class of students; and, as a general rule, their names can only be recovered when, owing to their subsequent celebrity,—as in the case of Lyndwood and Gresham,—the details of their early life were likely to be noted. The names of the remainder, and consequently all information which could thus be obtained as to the number and the social status of our early students, are, with one exception, beyond hope of recovery. This exception, however, deserves notice. During a few years,—principally from about 1500 to 1523,—our earliest bursars' accounts give a list of pensioners at the end of each half-year's return. They are not numerous, and only the surnames are given. If the reader will turn to the years in question he will find all that I have been able to ascertain about them; it is sufficient here to remark that they largely consisted of monks sent hither from their respective monasteries for the purpose of study. Of course if anything in the way of an Admission Register of one of the more popular hostels could ever be found we should learn much more than we are ever likely to know as to the residence and the social position of what would now be called the "ordinary student." One of these institutions, Physwick's Hostel, was a sort of annexe of Gonville Hall, and from what Caius says in the Annals must have accommodated a large number of students. But of its occupants nothing is known, except from the references to two or three of them which occur in the University Grace Books. Those who only know the printed Graduati will probably suppose that information could be procured from the lists of degrees. These, unfortunately for our present purpose, are of but little use. They only commence in 1454, that is, a little earlier than the corresponding lists at Oxford: at first they give only the surnames; and for many subsequent years the colleges, as a rule, are not recorded. These lists have of course been consulted[1],—the earliest volumes are now in process of publication by the Cambridge Antiquarian Society,—and it has been attempted to extract all the information they can yield for the purpose of this work. We may sum up, with practical accuracy, by saying that for three and a half centuries (reckoning backwards) every name is known; and that for the preceding two centuries we have a very great majority of those on the foundation, and a large proportion of the pensioners.

As regards the other part of the task, viz. the subsequent identification of the students; roughly speaking, about five-sixths of them have been in some way or other accounted for. By this is meant that some clue concerning their career, other than that contained in the Admission entry itself, or in the Degree lists, has been discovered, such as may be of use to the historian or genealogist. If the phrase 'identification' is extended so as to include election to a scholarship, or subsequent graduation, the proportion of failures will be reduced to something like one in eight or nine. Most of our identifications are reasonably certain; some are only probable: but I have thought that to reject the latter would be to miss an opportunity of being useful, so I have inserted them with an expression of doubt. At worst they may serve as suggestions, which those who are interested in the particular names in question may care to follow up: and in any case they will be of service to those who undertake similar work for other colleges.

The opportunities of thus tracking the various students in after-life vary widely in the different professions. Our information, in this respect, concerning the law students is much the most complete and precise. Not only are the admissions at the Inns of Court recorded for more than three centuries; but the practice of assigning the father's name, profession, and residence, is an additional aid to identification, and a very important aid where the surname is a common one. The Admissions to Gray's Inn have been published by Mr Joseph Foster, who some years ago was good enough to allow me to consult his MS. list of the admissions at the other three Inns. The names therefore of those of our students who have entered at an Inn of Court ought to be tolerably complete. The fact of such entry is of course no proof that the students were eventually called to the bar,—the records of these latter I have not been able to consult,—but it renders it highly probable that they did not adopt any other profession. If they did not take seriously to the law they probably, after a year or two of nominal study, settled down as country gentlemen.

[1] I extracted those which concern our own college many years ago, and have carefully compared them with the information yielded by our own records. But it may be well to state that until the general degree lists have been verified by the supplicats, compared with the matriculations and college admissions, and printed, absolute certainty will be impossible. From 1625 we have lists of the graduates at our own college, in the Admission Register. These may be thoroughly depended upon, and they show,—what is evident on other grounds,—that there are many omissions in the University lists.

The identification of the clergy stands next in readiness and completeness. The lists of institutions to livings given in the various County Histories are of course familiar to every student; but what I have mainly resorted to is a source of information which seems to have been generally overlooked, viz. the lists of ordinations. Those who wait for the clerk until he obtains a benefice can expect to secure a portion only of the class to which he belongs; but those who seek him at his ordination are watching at a portal by which all must enter. There is also the further advantage that whereas presentation to a living may take place at any age, ordination was almost always conferred within a year or two of the canonical age[1], and this is frequently a help to identification. Moreover, from a certain date,—very variable in the different dioceses,—the degree and college are assigned in the bishops' books, and not unfrequently the age and birthplace. The earliness and completeness of this sort of information vary greatly; though, broadly speaking, it seems to me that much more care was taken in pre-Reformation days than was shown for a century or two afterwards. In some dioceses the ordinations are recorded in separate volumes from an early date; at Exeter, for instance, from about 1570, and at London from about 1550. In other dioceses they are found scattered about in the bishops' Registers and Act Books, and apparently quite capriciously in some only of these. In certain dioceses these lists appear to be almost entirely missing until comparatively recent times. For the convenience of others who may undertake a similar search,

[1] Not, however, that this age is an inferior limit. If the age given by a student on admission to college is correct it is certain that very many were ordained before they had completed 23 years, and not a few before they had completed 22. In some cases indeed the candidate for deacon's orders could hardly have been more than 21. See, for instance, Chr. Wragg (p. 448). He was admitted Ap. 25, 1673 "adolescens 16 annorum"; and was certainly ordained deacon in London Feb. 24, 1677-8, and priest, May 26, 1678.

it may be remarked here that where the ordination lists are not forthcoming their place may often be supplied by the books of "subscriptions for orders," signed by the candidates a day or two before the ceremony. These again differ widely in the nature and amount of information which they furnish. Judging by the condition to which they are sometimes found reduced, and by the difficulty occasionally experienced in discovering them at the Registries, one may conclude that they were long regarded, in most places, as little better than lumber. I have consulted these and various other ecclesiastical records—for instance the bishops' visitations—wherever possible; paying of course especial attention to those which concern the Eastern Counties, for it is found that in some Western dioceses (e.g. Hereford and Worcester) one may search through a hundred years, during the 16th and 17th centuries, without lighting upon a single entry which concerns our own, or any other particular Cambridge college. On the whole, I should judge that the list of those who have taken holy orders is approximately complete for the last two centuries, and that a very large majority of those before that period have also been determined. I must take this opportunity of expressing my cordial gratitude to the various diocesan registrars who have so kindly granted me facilities for search, and particularly to Dr Bensly, of Norwich, for the many days he has allowed me to spend amongst the records under his charge.

The ordinations have of course been supplemented by reference to the various lists of institutions to livings. For special counties these are best obtained from local Histories; for their information being obtained from the bishops' Act Books they will probably give the academical degree of the incumbent, and whether the vacancy was caused by death or resignation. For the remaining counties the easiest plan is to consult the Books of Institutions and First Fruits at the Record Office: I have however also had the advantage of seeing Mr J. Foster's MS. transcripts of these, in which the names are alphabetically arranged.

The identification of the medical men has been a matter of somewhat more difficulty. Munk's Roll of the College of Physicians is of course complete for its purpose, but is practically confined to University graduates who practised physic in London. The earliest general Medical Directory appears to date from no further back than 1845. The lists of L.S.A.[1] have been published from 1815. Those of M.R.C.S. are printed since 1777, and can be consulted at the Library of the College of Surgeons. These seem very scanty sources of information compared with those of the other learned professions mentioned above; but practically they are much more complete than might be supposed, for the special purpose here in view. Till quite recent times it seems to have been a very unusual thing for a University student to practise with any other than an academic qualification. This would naturally in most cases be the M.B. or M.D. of his own University. If he went elsewhere for his diploma, his choice would most likely be, in earlier times, Padua (as was the case with Dr Caius); or in later times Leyden, of which not a few examples will be found amongst the students of our college during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. The Leyden admissions have been published by the Index Society, and have of course been consulted for the purpose of these volumes. As is well known, the bishops formerly had the right of granting licences to practise medicine and surgery: in fact such a licence was necessary (I believe) in the absence of academical qualifications. Many such licences will be found in the various Act Books and Registers, and the holders duly appear, or should do so, in the visitations of the diocese. On these occasions they had to show their licences, just as the incumbents and curates had to show their letters of ordination. In the Norwich diocese, where the "Consignation Books" contain the reports of these visitations, such licences are numerous; but, so far as I have found, University graduates are almost entirely absent. Several of our students who qualified as M.B. or M.D. had fathers who thus held the bishop's licence, these being generally described in our register by the title 'medicus'; but of the students themselves I have found but two or three with this qualification. One of these was the rector of a parish, who seems to have combined a little medical practice with his clerical duties, and it is not certain that the others were not also clergymen. For these reasons, therefore, I apprehend that the great majority of those who took to the practice of medicine will be found to have been identified. It may be remarked, however, that the taking of the M.B. degree is no certain index to the pursuit of a medical career, not a few who thus qualified afterwards taking orders: possibly the medical degree was then an easier one than that of arts[1].

Till comparatively recent times, that is, till about the end of last century, the three learned professions above mentioned would scarcely require to be supplemented by more than one other class, namely, that of the country gentry. There were no 'upper class emigrants' worth taking into account, who had to be enquired for in the Colonies: the solicitor's profession, instead of being, as now, almost as largely followed as that of the barrister, was quite outside the student's prospects in life; he very seldom went into business or into the army; nor were his parents' means often sufficient to enable him to spend his subsequent time in the amusements, travel, or amateur pursuits which are summed up in the words "of no profession." As regards the country gentry I have of course consulted the familiar sources of information. Most of the various County Histories which deal with the districts from which our men mainly came have been carefully consulted by the helpers who have worked for me; Blomefield's Norfolk, in particular, having been systematically gone through. The extreme predominance of the two counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, whilst diminishing the general interest of such a search, has rendered it possible to devote the necessary time and attention to some of the MS. sources of information at the British Museum. Amongst many which have thus been consulted, the collections of Davy and Cole are perhaps the most important for this particular undertaking.

[1] It was expressly enacted (Gesta, July 4, 1771) that Tancred students who had passed the M.B. degree should be refused the college testimonial for holy orders; and, if fellows, should not be appointed to a college living.

As these introductory remarks are intended to be of a general historic character, it will be well to go somewhat more fully into two or three distinct enquiries which have been incidentally suggested above: such as the comparative social status of the students, the districts from which they came, and the careers they subsequently pursued.

As regards the comparative social status of University students, a careful appeal to statistics tends, I think, to throw much doubt upon one very prevalent assumption. It is still supposed by many persons, and used to be confidently asserted at the time of the discussions which led to the first Commission for University Reform, that both Cambridge and Oxford had widely departed from their original design and from their healthier practice in early times; and that from being teaching places for the poor they had been diverted into idling places for the rich. In attempting to solve this question statistically we must limit the enquiry to post-Reformation times. Before that period we simply have not got the requisite facts in our possession. There are no mediæval Matriculation Lists or Admission Registers in existence. We know the names of but very few of the students, and can obtain personal details about none but those who became eminent. And if we could obtain such details it would be futile to attempt a comparison, of the kind proposed, between times like ours, one of the prominent characteristics of which is the existence of a very numerous and tolerably cultivated "middle class," and times in which such a class was scarcely to be found. All that we can certainly assert is that if there is any truth in the often repeated statement as to the numbers at Oxford in mediæval times a very large proportion of them must have been drawn from amongst the really poor, for other classes could not have furnished the numbers.

From about the commencement of Queen Elizabeth's reign these difficulties are much lightened. Our Admission Register gives some description of the father of each student; and it shows no hesitation in calling the grocer and the tailor by those names[1]. For a period therefore of more than three

[1] The description must of course be received with some criticism, and should be compared in each case with the remarks in the paragraph which follows it. A man is repeatedly described as 'agricola,' 'yeoman,' or, 'mediocris fortunæ,' who was technically a gentleman in the strictest sense, as being included in the Heralds' Visitations (see, e.g., the Lowdes, pp. 200, 241). I may centuries we are able to assign with some exactness the social status of the students. Of course when we endeavour to compare former times with later, we encounter the difficulty already hinted at. In regard to certain social classes the analogy is easy. It would be agreed that the 'esquire' or 'gentleman' of Elizabethan days comprises the 'country gentleman' of the present day, but may be considered to include also the higher professional, literary, and leisured classes of our time. The clergyman and the barrister may be considered as standing in their former position. The yeoman and the husbandman correspond to the farmers of to-day. And the trading classes offer no difficulty. Each class may have greatly advanced in respect of wealth and culture, but that is not the question: all that we want is to decide how a man, under any given designation, is to be fitted into his relative place in the social fabric of his day. The general conclusion as regards the status of our students, to which I have been led, is that there has been on the whole no perceptible change. No stratum of society which used to feed the University has shown a disposition to abandon it, and no fresh stratum in the country has been tapped. The sizar and the fellow-commoner have indeed disappeared from the college table; but the class which supplied the former has so advanced in wealth that the old aids are less required, and the equalizing influences of modern society have almost obliterated the latter. So far as statistics can be appealed to, they certainly seem to establish the fact that the Universities have been fed from the same classes of society during the last three or four centuries; and that if the wealthy upper middle class preponderates now, the fact is due not to this class supplying larger relative numbers, but to the great proportional growth of this class itself.

When we pass on to the geographical, rather than the social origin of our students, we find a very different state of things. There can be no question as to the change here; for whereas county extraction was once the dominant element in determining the composition of a college, it now counts for practically nothing whatever. As between the two Universities local proximity was the main determining element, the Eastern Counties gravitating to Cambridge and the Southern and Western to Oxford; whilst the Northern were divided between the two, with a decided preponderance towards add that the practice of keeping the Register in Latin down to 1833 is often very misleading, owing to the want of distinctive terms. The word mercator, for instance, may stand now for 'mercer' or 'merchant': we can only decide by the context. If he lived in a village he probably kept a small shop; if in Lynn or Yarmouth, and sent more than one son to college, it is better at once to call him a merchant. So with the words argentarius, aurifaber: in a small town they doubtless stand for silversmith or goldsmith, but the father of Charles Lloyd, a well-known banker in Birmingham, is called argentarius in 1798. The father of Charles Moss, bishop of St David's, was a 'grazier' (pecuarius), but his position in life can hardly have been such as the name suggests. His brother Robert was dean of Ely, and Charles, who was his uncle's heir, left a fortune of about £140,000.

Cambridge. The difficulties of travel in early times are abundantly sufficient to account for this. Of course such a tendency was gradually intensified; for the son was naturally sent where the father had been before, and when endowments were founded they were commonly established in the University known to the founder, and were often confined to the district with which he was connected.

When we come to enquire what were the causes why a youth from, say, East Anglia, went to one college rather than another in Cambridge, we find that the determining element was very often to be found in the restrictions of scholarships and fellowships. In the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries the members on the foundation were relatively far more numerous than they are now, and they mostly had a decided inducement to go to one college rather than another. Thus, with us, a large proportion of the scholarships and the great majority of the fellowships—including all the senior fellowships and the mastership—were held to be confined to Norfolk and Suffolk men. This was quite sufficient to account for the preponderance of students from these counties, a preponderance actually amounting at one time to nearly seven-eighths of the college. But it deserves notice that this characteristic was of gradual growth, and did not become excessive till the eighteenth century. In Elizabethan times the college offered a decidedly more picturesque aspect from this point of view than it did in the days of the earlier Georges. We have, for instance, a very appreciable contribution from two such remote counties as Devon and Yorkshire. Whereas, broadly speaking, the numbers diminish with the distance, these two counties offer a marked contrast, even after due allowance has been made for their relative population and wealth. Thus whereas during some 120 years (1560—1680) Somerset furnishes only seven students and Wilts only five, the remoter county of Devon sends up during the same period no less than 65; and this in spite of the powerful attraction offered halfway by the presence of Exeter College, Oxford. There is no founder or benefactor to account for this preference, which seems to me to have arisen by what may be called accident. These Devonshire students mostly came from one district in the county,—the neighbourhood of Tawstock,—and I can find no other original cause than the settlement in that district of one or two influential persons who probably recommended their own college to others. Once let a connection be started in this way and family influences tend to perpetuate it. In this case I apprehend that William Bourchier, Earl of Bath, furnished the primary impulse (v. p. 81). He sprang from Hengrave in Suffolk, but had an estate at Tawstock, where he resided and died. His college tutor (William Hinson, also an East Anglian) became his agent, and settled there. Twenty-eight years later the sons of the earl and the agent came up as freshmen together; and thus, as it seems to me, was started a connection which lasted for at least a century.

In the case of Yorkshire there is a more substantial reason. In the same period of 120 years no less than 200 natives of this county entered our college. They came from all parts of the county. Many of them would in any case have come to Cambridge, but there was not a single scholarship connected with any Yorkshire school to account for their selection of our college. The explanation is rather to be sought in another direction, and is connected with that very interesting religious episode of which I shall have to speak more particularly presently. In the reign of Elizabeth, as is well known, the north of England was still largely Roman Catholic; and our college, in comparison with others at Cambridge, had a decided reputation in this direction. Dr Caius, it is supposed, never became a Protestant; and his successor, Dr Legge, though not a Romanist, seems to have had strong sympathies with the old form of faith, and introduced, as one of his principal tutors, a man of like views with himself, Dr Swale. These two—both Yorkshiremen—gave the college a distinctly marked ecclesiastical character. We know that this very fact was made a ground of complaint by Abp. Sandys, who wrote about this time to the Chancellor of the University, strongly objecting to the way in which Dr Legge was misleading the young gentry of his diocese. "All the popish gentlemen in this country send their sons to him. He setteth sundry of them over to one Swayl, also of the same house, by whom the youth of this country is corrupted." (Strype, Annals, II. ii. 342.) It needs but a glance amongst the entries between 1570—80, and the notes which I have appended, to understand the grounds of this complaint.

Most of those who consult such a work as this will doubtless do so in the pursuit of private family history. But there are wider interests than this involved, and to me certainly the main interest has been one of a general historical kind. For many centuries each of our more ancient colleges has been, up to a certain point, a fair reflex of English life in general. No public event, no wave of feeling or of thought, can occur on the wider stage without its being reproduced in miniature within our walls. Never having been merely the seminaries of a priestly or other special professional class, our colleges have shared in all the thoughts of the age, and have sent out their sons to take their part in all the various activities of the day. The amount of such participation has of course varied from period to period; but in the worst of times neither the theory nor the practice of Academic institutions has suffered them to drop entirely from their ideal of being the training places for the higher forms of culture, thought, and action. Moreover, owing to the long prevalence of peace, there has never been any complete stoppage of college life. Even the Plague, in its many invasions, never entirely dispersed our students. Cambridge has never been besieged or assaulted: and the utmost effect of the Civil Wars, in respect of academic life, was to diminish somewhat the number of residents, and to cause a forcible change of about half the staff of fellows. As regards earlier times, during the Wars of the Roses, the struggle mostly raged in distant parts of the country; and the University seems to have been no more affected by it than is the farmer in Cambridge by a storm in Yorkshire.

It is an impressive illustration of the continuity and peacefulness of our national life that, so far as can be ascertained, college residence and college work have never, during century after century, been altogether interrupted. Indeed, until the days of railways, and the consequent facilities for escape at holiday times, it is quite possible that no such entire interruption occurred even for a single day. For five centuries and a half student has succeeded student in the same rooms. Each generation has overlapped its predecessors, and has entered upon the heritage of tradition, of sentiment,—and we may add, of slang. Piece by piece the material structure has been changed: fresh courts have been added; buildings have been altered, enlarged, and improved; but, with the exception of the library, hardly one has had its site altogether changed. If a fourteenth century student could suddenly some day be replaced in the Gonville Court, he would know which way to turn in order to reach the chapel, hall, kitchen, buttery, and master's lodge. The 330 years which have elapsed since Dr Caius built the second court have seen practically no change in its appearance, beyond the refacing of the chapel. If he could emerge from his tomb and revisit his own court he would note with satisfaction that his directions against erecting any buildings on the south side have not been infringed; and as he looked around he could assign to each room the occupant whom he remembered there as a colleague or a pupil.

The detailed illustration of the continuity and variety of national life above alluded to will be obvious to anyone who cares to skim through the pages of this volume; but a brief outline of the more prominent characteristics may be offered here. At the outset, and for the following century and a half, the main function of the college appears to be that of breeding ecclesiastics for Church and State employment. The layman and the monk are conspicuously absent, and the ordinary parish priest, in the form of the "poor parson," is rarely to be found. The reader will notice how much fuller, on the average, are the notices we have been able to give of these men, than of those who follow somewhat later on. The reason is that the college was doing just the sort of work which such foundations were intended to do. The statutes make it plain that the object of the endowments—and the admission of none but those on the foundation was contemplated—was to secure to the poor student the leisure and other opportunities which should fit him for the higher work of Church and State. He was to reside here for the time requisite to study Theology, or Civil or Canon Law, and then he was to go out into the world and make use of his knowledge. It was never intended that he should spend his life in his college, as the monk did in his cloister, or that he should employ his energies in educating others or in "researching" for himself; still less was it intended to give him a "start in life" in the modern sense of affording the young schoolmaster or barrister a liberal addition to his income[1]. He was as a rule a resident student, and if he did not reside he received practically no stipend at all. If we study the after career of these early students we shall see what a large proportion of them attained to prominent positions, or were employed in important work.

As time advanced a new class of students appeared, viz. the 'pensioners,' corresponding to what were afterwards called fellow-commoners. They paid for their rooms and their commons, and shared their meals with the fellows. At first these pensioners consisted largely of monks, and in the entries concerning them we have an illustration of an interesting phase of monastic life. All the greater monasteries in East Anglia, such as the Benedictine Priory at Norwich, the magnificent foundation of Bury, and (as a large landowner in Norfolk) the Cluniac House at Lewes, seem generally to have had several of their younger members in training at our college. To these must be added the Augustinian Priory of Wheatacre, which was mainly frequented (as Dr Jessopp tells us) by the sons of the Norfolk gentry. The Visitations[2] of the Norfolk Monasteries by the bishop, between 1494 and 1532, give us a mass of information on this head. Thus at Norwich (1532) several of the monks complain "quod scholares non exhibentur more solito in Universitate." At Wheatacre (1494) we are told that Thomas Oxburgh "est in studio Cantabrigiæ." In 1520 the number of the canons is short "quia tres in Universitate"; and so on. Where the monastery was too poor thus to support a student he was sometimes provided for by his friends. Thus at Butley, in 1514,—a small house, and at that time in debt,—we are told that "Thomas Orford est bonus grammatista et deditus literis, et amici volunt exhibere eum sumptibus suis;" which the bishop directs should be done. In 1526 their resources had improved, and it is ordered "quod exhibeatur scholaris in Universitate sumptibus domus." It deserves notice that this house of Butley had a special arrangement with Gonville Hall for the reservation of a suitable room ("honesta camera") for these young monks.

The technical name for the stipend of such students was exhibitio: a term still in use at the University, but which has long come to be applied to a scholarship which, from the shortness of its tenure or from some other cause, is not considered to rank with the regular foundations of the college. One object of those who underwent a University course was to qualify for teaching the novices at their own house; for after they have graduated and returned to the monastery we not unfrequently find them described as "idoneus preceptor pro confratribus," "idoneus pro noviciis et junioribus," &c. But, beyond this, the academic degree would be for the regular churchman, as for the secular, the natural portal for further advancement. It needs but a glance at the subsequent careers of these monk-pensioners to recognize how frequently they rose in after years to posts of dignity and importance.

[1] An enquiry, twenty or thirty years ago, showed that, at one of our colleges, about half of those in receipt of fellowships were either engaged as busy and well-paid schoolmasters, or were pursuing the calling of a barrister. As Seeley once sarcastically remarked, on the theory that the fellowship was meant to give the deserving young man a start in life, it ought to be confined to those who had not had the advantage of a high degree and of the capacity and training which led up to this.

[2] Published by Dr Jessopp, for the Camden Society, 1889. The reports comprise accounts of breaches of discipline,—mostly of a trifling character,—given in by the priors and others in authority; complaints, by the monks, of curtailments of their privileges; and similar matters.

An amusing indication of the occasional consequences of this selection for University education is given in the Visitation of Norwich Priory in 1532, when two of the brethren are complained of: "scolares dedignantur ceteros confratres: sunt inflati spiritu alti cordis, et indebitantur in Universitate." Repetitions of this complaint show that these youths were decidedly unpopular on their return. At the Benedictine Abbey of Hulme, in 1514, Roger Multon is complained of: "quod est inceptor brigarum, et fuit in Cantabrigia per septem annos, et nihil boni fecit." For the credit of their house these selected students doubtless insisted that their dress and appointments should be quite up to the mark[1]. Thus Robert Bekham (see p. 21) complains, in 1514, "ipse deponens studiens Cantabrigiæ percepisset pro uno anno VIII marcas pro victu et vestitu suis, et quod recepit nisi XL^{s}." Their outfit in the way of books probably also counted for something. Thus Dr M. R. James (Camb. Ant. Soc. XXVIII., p. 85) referring to Dugdale's statement that the monks of Bury, who studied at Cambridge, went to Gonville Hall, considers that "this helps to explain a phenomenon which had struck me very much in my inspection of the MSS. in Caius College. Very many of the bindings and some of the handwritings are marked by characteristics of Bury St Edmunds...One is inclined to conjecture that the students brought their books with them and presented them to the college." One or two of the Bury monks can be certainly identified as residents at Gonville Hall; but the exemption of this Monastery from episcopal visitation deprives us of the interesting personal details furnished by Wheatacre and Norwich.

With the Reformation, of course, all this came to an end, and we can well understand that this sudden stoppage of what, in the aggregate, was a considerable source of supply to the University, was seriously felt. On the old system, as we have seen, the promising students were selected by their monasteries, and supported in college at the expense of the house. As the author of the interesting account of Durham Priory[1] says, "If the master did see that any of them (the novices) were apt to learning, and did apply his book, and had a pregnant wit withal, then the master did let the Prior have intelligence. Then, straightway after, he was sent to Oxford to school and there did learn to study Divinity."

Side by side with this stream, for several years before it thus dried up, flowed another, springing from a very different source, and which for a short time formed the dominant current. If the reader will turn to the entries between 1520—35, he will understand the force of bishop Nix's saying about Gonville Hall[2], that no clerk came from the college but savoured of the frying-pan, spake he never so holily. It is true that no martyr can be found amongst our students. We cannot rival Pembroke or Clare in the honour of claiming a Ridley or Latimer; so that if there was a savour of the pan there was no scorching of the fire. But in the second rank; of those who were active in their support of the reformed doctrines or who suffered imprisonment or even torture in defence of their faith, the list of names which can be recovered is no short one. Foremost amongst these, in point of celebrity, was bishop Shaxton; though in later life he deserted the opinions of his youth. John Skipp, master of the college, and Edward Crome, for many years a fellow, belong also to the category of those who took an active part in the early days of the Reformation. Amongst the sufferers may be mentioned Sygar Nicholson, Simon Smith, and Pathmer. The former was for some time University printer, and appears to have suffered both imprisonment and torture for his opinions. The others are fairly typical instances of those who suffered short of death for conscience' sake. Others, like Simon Ockley, the friend of Ridley, were doubtless suspected in their day, but died before any occasion for suffering arose.

The critical and changeful period which followed this—the days of Edward and of Mary—is one of which we would gladly have fuller details, but our records are too defective at this time to enable us to study the changes as they affected the inmates of our college. But the succeeding period, from about 1559, when our excellent Admission Register commences, is one of great interest. Queen Elizabeth had just commenced her reign, and the pendulum had made its final swing towards Protestantism. But the oscillations had been so rapid and recent that almost every senior member of the college had either had to change his opinions or to suffer for not having changed them. Dr Caius himself is supposed to have remained a moderate

[1] Commonly known as The Rites of Durham. Published by the Surtees Society, 1842. It was written long after the Suppression, but by one who had himself been an inmate of the house.

[2] "There is a Collage in Cambrige called Gunwel Haule, of the foundation of a Bishop of Norwich. I here no clerk that hath commen ought lately of that Collage but saverith of the frying panne tho he spek never so holely." (Letter to Abp Warham, May 14, 1530: given in Strype, Mem. p. 696.)

Romanist; but he was spared when nearly all the other masters were ejected, probably owing to his great scientific reputation and his splendid services to education. One of the neighbouring masters, Dr Cosin, of St Catharine's, anticipated his expulsion by voluntary retirement, and took refuge as a fellow-commoner at Caius. He acted as tutor to a youth who had been already under his charge, and whose family were doubtless of sympathetic views,—John Dorington of Stafford. There was about this time quite a small group of senior men who had been admitted to holy orders in former reigns and under another régime, who, we may conclude, had temporarily accepted a refuge in college, under the difficulty of obtaining preferment or the uncertainty as to when the next change might occur. There is no parallel to this state of things at any other period. John Stradlyng, admitted in 1560, had been ordained acolyte in the days of Mary. William King, 1561, had been archdeacon of Northumberland. Richard Hall, 1561, seems to have been one of those who were making up their minds. He had been a fellow of Pembroke, but resigned; shortly afterwards he definitely threw in his lot with the Roman church. George Gardiner had been a fellow of Queens': he sided finally with the Protestant party, and took his fill of subsequent preferment. Henry Stile, 1562, had been a fellow of Trinity, and afterwards a monk. He soon reverted to his former career, and died at a monastery in Flanders. Henry Mann, aged 64, had been many years at Trinity. Vincent Tuke, aged 30, had been some time at Pembroke. As he was not ordained deacon till 1563, it looks as if he too had been waiting the turn of events. Another significant fact at this time is the appearance of foreigners at Cambridge. Thus in 1562 John Vulpe, of Fünfkirchen in Hungary, is admitted fellow-commoner. In the same year Sebastian Roccatagliata, born and trained at Genoa, enters at the scholars' table. Both were between 30 and 40, and both seem afterwards to have taken Anglican orders.

Another interesting characteristic of these times must be borne in mind. In later days, as I have elsewhere said, the college became overwhelmingly East Anglian; in the dull period, about the middle of the last century, nearly nine out of ten of our students came from the Norwich diocese alone. On the other hand, in the years immediately following Queen Elizabeth's accession, that diocese can scarcely claim more than four out of ten. What is the cause of the difference? The influence of statutable restrictions, in the way of scholarships and fellowships, was nearly as powerful at one period as at the other. I cannot but think that the cause must be sought in the intellectual tone of the time. The students of the eighteenth century acted by routine, frequenting the college where their relatives had been, and looking for the same privileges and rewards which they had obtained. But in those days of intellectual ferment men looked far and wide for sympathy in religious feeling, for companionship with an honoured teacher, for a place where the restrictions on their opinions would be less galling. It was for this, more than for endowment, that they were in search; and consequently it seemed a light matter for a youth to journey from the remotest counties of England, or from foreign countries, in order to seek admission at some particular college, or, when he had made experience of one, to migrate to another if he found that this would better suit his needs. Hence, I apprehend, the picturesque variety in respect of age and origin, of belief, training and profession, which characterises the brief period in question.

The next period of any marked interest occurs a few years later. It is the last in which purely religious convictions are the dominant motive, and marks the final protest, so far as the University is concerned, of the old faith against the new. If the reader will glance at the entries during the fifteen years or so, centreing about 1580, he will be struck by the remarkable proportion of the students who were open or concealed Catholics from the first, or who, as converts, joined the Romish Church during their stay in college. This period,—what is sometimes called the Counter-Reformation,—has only recently begun to attract the attention of the ordinary student of English History; and I must confess that I was startled by the fact that whereas our college does not seem to have furnished a single martyr during the reigns of Henry and Mary, no less than four or five of our students suffered death for their opinions under Elizabeth and James, and at least a dozen underwent imprisonment, or had to take refuge in flight, or to seek concealment for a time. Doubtless this tendency prevailed throughout the University; though, for causes already mentioned, it was especially prominent in our own college, and I have therefore taken some pains to ascertain the facts and to indicate the principal references[1]. Of course such a state of things could not last long. The severity of the penal laws, and the establishment of purely seminarist colleges on the Continent, soon cut off this source of supply; and thus one of the constituent currents in our national life was, for three centuries at least, so far as the University was concerned, diverted from the channel in which it used to flow.

The fifty years which follow, say from 1590 to 1640, represent a period the religious and political characteristics of which are too familiar to the reader to allow of any general discussion here. The period during which the politicians and the clergy of the Civil Wars and the Commonwealth were being trained must necessarily be one of great interest. But I may, without impertinence, direct attention to one or two points here which the general student of history may have overlooked. In the first place, few persons have adequately realized the commanding position which had then been attained by our Universities[2]. Absolutely,—not relatively merely,—the number of

[1] I have given some account of this episode, so far as the facts were then known to me, in the Caian (No. III. 1). But much information subsequently obtained will be found introduced into the biographical notes.

[2] I can only speak with confidence of Cambridge; but I believe that the conditions at Oxford were very similar.

graduates in the years about 1625—30 was greater than was ever attained again till within living memory. When allowance is made for the growth of population it must be frankly admitted that, so far as concerns the supply of trained men sent out into the country, the old Universities have not yet regained the position they occupied two centuries and a half ago[1].

It would be ridiculous to suggest that anyone should "read" the contents of a volume like this, in the sense in which a continuous narrative is read. I cannot but entertain the hope, however, that even professed historians who may glance through the entries referring to the periods above mentioned may pick up a few new facts, or at least fresh evidence for the facts already familiar to them. The design of this work has obliged me to study a number of records in the various episcopal registries which are very seldom consulted, and which the regular historian has hardly found it worth his while to consult at all. And, it must be remembered, the number of cases with which we are concerned, though dealing only with a single college, are still sufficiently large to claim the steadiness and generality which may be called statistical, and therefore to furnish a tolerably fair sample of what was going on throughout the country. It is often overlooked that the enquiry is really a statistical one, and that if we are ever to know the relative numbers of the clergy sequestered during the Interregnum, or ejected after the Restoration, it must be by an aggregate of enquiries of which a small sample is offered here. We know what Walker on the one side, and Calamy on the other, state and imply, but what are the actual facts? and, equally important, what are the relative numbers of a third class, viz. of those clergy who submitted to the successive changes, and retained their livings undisturbed throughout? Again; as regards those who obtained episcopal ordination during the period when episcopacy was abolished, it has always been known that there were some of these; but has it been sufficiently realized how numerous they were, or what proportion of them obtained their orders before or after institution to a living by the Parliamentary Committee[1]?

[1] Nor is the force of these considerations diminished when we examine the after-career of these students. Take for instance the case of the clergy: what number of graduate clergy did the Universities then furnish for the Church? The question is too intricate to be worked out in a note, but the main facts can readily be given. At the period in question, say from 1617 to 1637, the average number of those who proceeded to the B.A. degree at Cambridge was 266. To ascertain what proportion of these took orders I examined two successive batches, of 100 each, from our college. In the first case I found that 61 almost certainly did take orders, and 7 almost certainly did not; 32 being left unknown. In the second case the corresponding numbers were 69, 11, and 20. Now how are the unknown to be divided? Statisticians would naturally say, 'In the same ratio as the known,' and would therefore reckon the per-centage of the ordained as respectively 90 and 86. But, in order to be within the mark, we will assume that only half of the unknown became clergymen. The percentages then become 77 and 79; giving an average of 78. That is, we may safely suppose that 78 per cent. of our graduates then took orders. There is no reason to suppose that our college was exceptionally theological; on the contrary, it was probably less so than some others. Presumably therefore Cambridge then supplied an annual contingent of about 207 graduate clergy. It now supplies (taking an average of the last 20 years) about 230. And yet the population is supposed to have multiplied fourfold. On the same data it will be found that the actual numbers at Oxford have only risen from 172 to 219.

The picturesque and dramatic interest of this period is of course unmatched by anything which other times can show. We glance through the names of the youths who came up together as freshmen, to worship together in the same chapel and to dine together in the same hall. We turn to examine their careers, and find them drifting widely apart, until in a few years one of them, as a "godly and orthodox divine," displaces his old comrade who has now become a "malignant"; or, perhaps, as a bishop or official of the Restoration ejects his contemporary from his living. Readers of Woodstock will remember how the two divines, Dr Rochecliffe and Nehemiah Holdenough, meet each other in the guard-room, as prisoners under sentence of death; and how, on their sudden recognition of each other, the memory of their youthful pranks breaks through the stern realities of their then position. "Dost thou remember Dr Purefoy and Caius College?" "Marry do I," said the Doctor, thrusting his arm through the Presbyterian divine's, and guiding him to a seat apart from the other prisoners, who witnessed this scene with much surprise. "Remember Caius College? Ay, and the good ale we drank, and our parties to Mother Huffcap's." "Vanity of vanities," said Holdenough, smiling kindly at the same time, and still holding his recovered friend's arm enclosed and handlocked in his. "But the breaking of the Principal's orchard so cleanly done," said the Doctor, "it was the first plot I ever framed, and much work I had to prevail on thee to go into it." "Oh, name not that iniquity," said Nehemiah...[2] (Chap. xxxvi.).

Meetings of this kind must have been frequent enough, considering how freely the vicissitudes of after-life arranged old comrades upon opposite sides. Thus L. Playters, rector of Uggeshall and Sotterley, was sequestered in 1644, and his place was soon taken by his old college contemporary, H. Younger:—as Holdenough had succeeded Rochecliffe. Edmund Hickhorngill and William Dell were chaplains in the Parliamentary army, and Thomas Gunter to General Monk, whilst William Watts was

[1] From a study of the Norwich Consignation Book of 1662, I am inclined to think that there was no period, through the Interregnum, when those who were resolved to obtain Episcopal orders could not readily do so. Joseph Hall, at Heigham, close by Norwich, continued to ordain uninterruptedly till his death in 1656: and the names of the bishop of Exeter (Ralph Brownrigg), of Kilmore (Thos. Sydserf), of Ardfert (Thos. Fulwar) and others, repeatedly occur. Nor was such ordination any hindrance to institution or admission by the Parliamentary Committee; as the reader will see abundantly exemplified.

[2] This reference to Caius,—perhaps the only mention of any Cambridge college in all Scott's writings,—is curious, and possibly not made at random. Dr Purefoy and Mother Huffcap are of course inventions, but, as many of my readers are aware, there is a "president's garden" in the front court, and it has a well-known old apple-tree in it.

long a chaplain to Prince Rupert. Thomas Bedingfield and Edmund Reeve had not improbably known each other in college, for they were both, within a short period, "pensioners at the bachelors' table." They both became judges. Reeve sided with the Parliament; Bedingfield, "upon the murder of King Charles, laid down his place and all public employments, and retired into private life." Sometimes the subsequent meeting was of a more friendly kind, as when the former pupil (v. Punter, p. 302) affords a refuge to his old tutor on his expulsion, and is reported to the Parliamentary Committee as "harbouring malignant priests."

With the Restoration the gate of admission was still further narrowed; and, as the Romanist had been excluded some eighty years earlier, so the Puritan was excluded now. For nearly two centuries, from this date, I can discover only one avowed Nonconformist who issued from our college, and not a single Romanist.

The only subsequent episode which can in any way be compared with the foregoing is the change of allegiance which called forth the self-sacrifice of the Non-jurors. The crisis was by comparison slight, but relatively speaking our college was considerably affected. Unlike St John's, indeed,—where about half the body of fellows were ejected,—only one member of our foundation was even for a time inclined to hold out; but not a few former members suffered for their convictions. One of these, Jeremy Collier, was a prominent leader of the party; and some half-dozen others seem to have shared in his convictions and temporarily or permanently to have seceded from the Anglican communion.

And now a period of slow but steady decline set in; one which affected not Caius College only, nor Cambridge only, but University life in England generally. For more than half a century the numbers, as estimated by the aggregate of degrees conferred, gradually dwindled, without a trace of any effort at recovery. Anyone who, in 1760, endeavoured to infer the future from observation of the past might well have come to the conclusion that in another century Cambridge and Oxford would be nearly extinct. And this decline seems to me to have affected the quality as well as the quantity of our students. Great names occur still, of course; and men in high place, especially in the Church, are bound to occur, for they are taken from those of academic training. The deficiency is mainly found amongst men of another rank; amongst those who did not come to college from mere routine, or as part of a necessary preparation for a professional career. It is the miscellaneous class, including the cultivated, the eccentric, the adventurous, the enthusiastic, whose absence represents so great a loss to the biographer and annalist. At Caius this uniformity is aggravated by a characteristic already alluded to. The college, in fact, enters upon a stage which must seem to any one who does not himself spring from either of the two principal

Eastern counties, one of dull monotony. Of seven-eighths of our students we can say little more than that of Norfolk and Suffolk they are, and unto Norfolk and Suffolk they return. They are the sons of the country gentry, clergy and yeomen of those counties, and of the tradesmen of the county towns. They have all been trained at Norwich, Ipswich, Bury, and the other schools of the district; and they almost all return to their own county, sometimes as squires, but far more often as clergymen. The eighteenth century has been often found fault with for its lack of enthusiasm, and all else which this implies or suggests. As regards England in general this charge, like most of such sweeping generalizations, probably needs much qualification, but as regards the University, so far as definite statistics can be appealed to, it seems to need very little qualification indeed. We do not find that the student of this period disappears after a year or two, migrates to Douay or to Rome, and reappears a little later, at much hazard of his neck, as a seminarist priest. He does not settle down into a country living under one ecclesiastical order, to suffer ejection a few years later under another. Even the Non-juror episode, relatively small as it was compared with the preceding religious crises, has no counterpart in the next century. The nearest approach to any disturbance arising out of religious convictions is to be found in a little splutter of Deism which agitated the authorities in 1734. But so far as our college is concerned, nothing more came of this than the expulsion of one not very respectable junior fellow (T. Ducket), much against his own will, and in spite of his assurance that he had repented of his evil thoughts and sayings; whilst one of his comrades, "a hero of the truth," soon settled down into a country living. The Georgian student does not interest his annalist by emigration, by adventurous travel, by entering into Court service, by killing others in duels, or getting killed himself, by risking his life in war. He had his merits, unquestionably, and they must not be overlooked. He dressed for dinner, and an early dinner too; powdering his hair, and donning pumps and silk stockings; but we cannot feel any keen interest in his career. If destined for the Church, as he generally is, he plods through his three years here, graduates, is ordained by the bishop of Norwich,—probably in London, to save his lordship trouble,—and spends the rest of his life in accumulating preferment in his native county. The average number of livings held by him at his death is nearer three than two. As I have already hinted, it must not be supposed that these remarks have any wider reference than that which strictly concerns us here. Our countrymen were engaged in plenty of exciting and adventurous work in other parts of the world; only those who carried it on had not begun life by admission at college. For instance, so far as our students are concerned, during some fifty years in the middle of the century, one would hardly suspect the existence of either India or Canada; and, except for an occasional sermon or pamphlet directed against the holders of such errors, one would scarcely gather that there were any other recognized forms of faith than the Anglican.

In the latter part of the century, say about 1780, things began to improve; and I think we can recognize a greater variety of career, and a higher standard of enterprise, ability, and learning. So far as this exists it must be attributed to national rather than to academic causes, for neither the masters nor the tutors seem to have possessed any appreciable intellectual influence; and even the religious revival, distinctly associated as it was with Cambridge, through the name and influence of Simeon, did not, I believe, find a single resident representative within our walls.

The tendency towards variety of career thus indicated, has in certain respects displayed itself much more strongly of late. Whether there is the enthusiasm and faith and readiness for sacrifice of former days it is no business of an annalist to judge, but there is at any rate the old picturesqueness and variety of career. The "professions," instead of accounting for nearly all besides the country gentry, now account for barely one quarter. The others have to be sought in business at home or in the colonies; in the army; as travellers or settlers in foreign countries; as lay schoolmasters or professors at provincial colleges; as writers for the press or professional literary men; and as "of no profession," but living on inherited incomes. Hence the somewhat paradoxical result that it is distinctly more difficult to give an account of the careers of a batch of, say, 100 students who entered the college thirty years ago, than of a similar batch who entered a century earlier.

With two exceptions, one of these being but slight and temporary, I know of no special characteristics which have distinguished the college in later times. During the tutorship of Charles Clayton, 1850—63, we certainly acquired the reputation of being "the evangelical college"; and the blue velvet on the gown became conspicuous at certain churches, and at religious meetings. But this was due entirely to the personal influence of the tutor, and did not last long. The medical reputation of the college is of course a much more permanent characteristic, and of late years has shown a strong tendency to increase. It dates from far back, for Fuller spoke of the college as having been, even before his time, "a little Montpellier." It rests largely on tradition, for the direct encouragement to the medical student was till lately of the slightest possible description. I shall discuss this more fully under the head of Endowments and Lectureships, and need only remark here that with the exception of the senior fellowship assigned to Medicine by Bateman and by Caius,—which can have had little or no influence on young students,—no endowment whatever was assigned to medicine till some small scholarships were thus set apart in 1839, and no special instruction was given to the medical students till about the same period. The proportion of such students is now large, and special attention is paid to their requirements.

It would clearly have been desirable that the Annals of a college, so closely connected with Norfolk, should have been undertaken by some native of that county who was well versed in its family and local history. But the ideal editor, after long waiting for him, has not made his appearance; and one less suitably equipped for the task has therefore done his best to take the place. I am of course in a general way responsible for the accuracy of the whole work; and, as a matter of fact, nearly all the research required amongst our college records, at the British Museum, and at the various diocesan registries, has been performed by me. But much investigation has had to be carried on at the University Library, for which I am largely indebted to Mr E. Heawood, and the Rev. F. W. G. Sidebotham, both of the college, and to Mrs F. Rye. Much has also been done for me by Mr F. Johnson, of Yarmouth, who has not only carefully revised the greater part of the work in MS., and corrected, and added to, the biographical notes from many local sources; but has also supplied nearly all the information derived from the wills at Norwich. I must also thank my friend Dr H. J. Hunter, of Bath, for revising the proofs. His wide knowledge of antiquity, and his hereditary accuracy, have been of much service to me. I also owe a debt of gratitude to Mr J. W. Clark, University registrary, for his never failing courtesy and help. As regards the many others who have helped me, principally in respect of individual information, I have endeavoured to make due acknowledgement by giving the initials of my informants' names. These will be explained, together with other abbreviations, in the Index.

One word in conclusion to the reader. As most of those who are likely to consult such a work as this will be in a position to make additions or corrections, they are particularly requested to communicate these at once, so that they may be inserted in the third volume.

BIOGRAPHICAL HISTORY

OF

GONVILLE AND CAIUS COLLEGE: 1349—1895.

Gonville, Edmund. There has been a curiously persistent error as to the parentage of our first founder, only cleared up by the researches of the late Dr Bennet (Hist. of Rushworth College; 1887). He was not the son of Nicholas, as often stated, but of William de Gonville, an alien, who acquired the manor of Lerling, Norf., about 1295; and who is described in a deed as "natus de potestate reg̃ Franciae, commorans in Anglia." Edmund was the second son. He was rector of Thelnetham 1320: rector of Rushworth 1326: Rector of Terrington St John, Norf., 1342. Steward to Lord Warren and the Earl of Lancaster. Commissioner of the marshlands of Norfolk. Founder of Rushworth College, 1342. Founder of Gonville Hall, 1349: his deed of foundation is dated June 4, 1349. Died in the year 1351. For some account of his statutes, and general design, see the Introduction. (D. N. B.)

Ufford, John. Fuller (Hist. of Camb. p. 109) states that John Ufford, Chancellor, and nominated as Archbishop of Canterbury, was a pensioner in Gonville Hall in its very earliest days. This however is impossible, for he died in May 1349, some weeks before the foundation of the college. The man in question must be John Ufford, son of Robert, Earl of Suffolk; rector of Hingham, Norf., and preb. of Salisbury and Lincoln. Archdeacon of Suffolk, 1366–8. His will, dated Aug. 10, 1375, at Cambridge, and proved Dec. 5, 1375, is printed in full in W. Rye's Norf. Miscellany, I. 376. This date will agree with the statement in an early note in our MS. No. 714 that he was the donor of one of the windows in the college chapel. He gave legacies to Richard Pulham and William Elmham.

1353–4. A deed of gift by Bp Bateman, to the college, of the manor of Triplow, Cambs. (Feb. 27, 1353–4) mentions the "custos et socii" as follows. The fellows had presumably been appointed by Bateman in 1351.

*John of Tyrington: master: chaplain to Bp Bateman.
*William Rougham, M.D.
*John of Tyrington.
*William of Lee.
*Richard of Pulham.

*John of Tyrington, the master; better known as John Colton. Appointed master by Gonville in the deed of foundation, June 4, 1349, and retained this post till 1360. He is said to have been introduced to Gonville by Bp Bateman, whose chaplain he was. Graduated D. Can. Law, 1348. Rector of Terrington, 1350. Prebendary of Bugthorpe, Yorks., 1377. He was already in Ireland in 1372, when he raised 26 knights at his own expense, and defeated a body of plunderers who had burnt the priory of Athy in Kildare. Dean of St Patrick's, 1374. Chancellor of Ireland for a year or so about 1380. Archbishop of Armagh, 1381–1404. Died April 27, 1404: buried at St Peter's, Drogheda. The record of his connection with our college is an entire blank. His name occurs as 'custos' in two or three early deeds and charters, but there is no evidence how long, if at all, he resided. He was the author of Provincial Constitutions: also said to have written two treatises against the Papal Schism. His Visitation of the diocese of Derry in 1397 was edited by Dr Reeves in 1850. (D. N. B.)

*Rougham, William. A doctor of medicine. Succeeded as master, 1360 to 1393. He finished the college chapel, and the rest of the buildings on the north side of the court, at his own expense (Annals). There was formerly an inscription on one of the chapel windows (the first on the left), Orate pro anima Willm^i de Rougham qui fecit istam capellam fieri: and a similar inscription on the E. window: all relics of this kind have of course long disappeared.

*John of Tyrington, the fellow, was rector of Osmundeston (Scole), Norf., 1354–61. He was apparently the first donor to the college library, to which he gave two MSS., which we still have; viz. a volume of Peter Lombard (No. 279), and one of Scotus (No. 300), "in perpetuum mansurum in Aula de Gunvile ad usum magistri et scholarium." He was the representative of the college in the letter of attorney assigning the advowsons of Foulden and Wilton, 1354.

*Pulham, Richard. Master of the college, 1393 to 1412. He also added two MSS. to the library, viz. of Aristotle (Nos. 458 and 509). He was ordained deacon, on the title of the college, by the Bp of Ely, May 27, 1374. A legatee under John Ufford's will, 1375.

*Elvedon, Walter: probably a fellow. Rector of Icklingham St James till 1347. Rector of Elveden, on the presentation of the Abbot of Bury, 1347. Rector of Snetterton, 1352–9. Rector of Shropham, 1358–60. Archdeacon of Sudbury, 1349. Precentor of Hereford till 1358. Vicar general to Bp Bateman, 1351–5. Died about 1360. An obit was established in his memory, "infra quindenum proximum post Idus Junii" (Sheriffe's Register), presumably in return for the Calendarium, and gift of MSS. Leland says (Comment. de Script. Brit.) "Extat ejus Calendarium cum tribus cyclis decemnonalibus et argute et significanter compactum." Bale and Pits simply repeat this statement; but according to Tanner (Bibl. Brit.) there is a note in Bale's MS., probably by Brian Twyne, "calendarium ejus vidi, factum A.D. 1327." A MS. in the Bodleian (Laud. 662) by Nicholas de Leuca, claims to be a continuation of Elvedon's calendar, extending from 1387 to 1463. The Calendarium was for centuries carefully preserved in our Treasury, but all trace of it seems now to have disappeared: unless it be identified with an Astrolabe, found in our library with a few early records moved thither from the treasury in 1876, and which Mr Knobel (of the R. A. S.) has shown to be of "the early part of the fourteenth century." If this be not so, it is highly probable, from the date, that this astrolabe came to us from Elvedon. Our MS. No. 242, Speculum judiciale, contains a "tabula copiosissima" composed by him. He gave us five MSS.; the Breviarium Johannis filii Serapionis; two volumes of medical tracts; extracts from Cyprian, Ambrose, &c.; and the Organon of Aristotle. He was also a benefactor to Trin. Hall. His name is joined with that of the master in a deed of 1353; and in others about the same time; and he was the representative of Lewes monastery in the letter of attorney assigning the rectory of Hockwold to the college in 1354; where he is described as Dr of Laws.

Wate (Vateus), John. Assigned by Pits and Leland (Comment. de Script. Brit.) to Gonville Hall. A contemporary and associate of Elvedon. Author of Tabulæ in æquationes domorum. Tanner (Bibl. Brit.) seems to identify this with a MS. in the Bodleian (Digb. 97); Canones et tabulæ æquationes planetarum ad merid. Oxon.

*Somersham, William. Fellow in 1376 when he was ordained on that title; deacon (Ely) Sep. 20, and priest (Ely) Dec. 20, 1376. Vicar of Wilton, Norf., 1386–93; his resignation of this, dated in the college chapel, Dec. 12, is copied in Sheriffe's Register. It is suggested by W. Adamson in the Reg. Mag., p. 85, that Somersham accepted and afterwards resigned this living in order to facilitate its new appropriation to the college by bull of Boniface IX. Rector of Hevingham, Norf., 1393–1416. D.D. 1412. Master of the college, 1412–6. Will dated Oct. 6, proved (P. C. C.) Oct. 27, 1416. There has been a curious mistake about the date of his death, and consequently about that of Rickingale's accession as master. He was supposed to be mentioned as custos, in a deed as late as Nov. 1423, the date assigned in the Camb. Calendar and elsewhere, and probably originating in the Annals of Dr Caius. The mistake seems to have arisen from assuming that the "3d of Henry," in the deed, refers to Henry VI. and not to Henry V. The evidence of the probate of his will is of course conclusive. He desires to be buried in the chapel of the college. He leaves to the college "unam murram cum cooptorio et unam tabulam argenteam ennameld, et unum pouder box de argento." To his successor as master, "unam zonam argenteam deauratam." To each fellow 6^s 8^d, and "unum cochlear argenteum." There are gifts to the poor of Hevingham, and a capucium to the parsons of Mattishall, Foulden, and Mutford. Henry Foulden and Peter Neylond executors.

*Elmham, William: a fellow. Ordained acolyte, as fellow, by the Bp of Ely, March 29, 1376. A legatee under John Ufford's will, 1375.

*Tunstall, Robert: a fellow. Ordained acolyte, as fellow, by the Bp of Ely, March 9, 1380–1: deacon, Sep. 21, 1381. Rector of Gt Dunmow, Ess., 1406–19. Will dated May 12, 1419; proved (P. C. C.) Jan. 11, 1419–20. He seems to have acted as Somersham's 'notary' in his resignation of Wilton (v. above), where he is described as 'Robert of Brandon, LL.B., and rector of Dunmow.'

*Osborne, John: a fellow. Ordained acolyte, as fellow, by the Bp of Ely, at Downham, May 16, 1383; sub-deacon, Ap. 7, 1386; deacon, at Ely, Ap. 6, 1387. The will of one of these names was proved (P. C. C.) July 18, 1426. He was rector of St Ewe, Cornwall, and prebendary of Ashill, B. and Wells.

Naylond, Simon, LL.D. Seems to have held the office of a chaplain in the college. Licensed by the Bp of Ely, Dec. 24, 1392, to celebrate and hear worship in the "College of the Annunciation," for two years. Warden of King's Hall, about 1378–84. Ordained acolyte (Ely) March 5, 1383–4; sub-deacon, March 26, 1384; deacon, Sep. 6, 1384; priest, Feb. 1384–5. Rector of Elsworth, Cambs. In 1389 he had license of three years' non-residence. In 1394 he was appointed "confessor" with license of two years' absence. In June 1401 he exchanged livings with Henry Granelry, rector of St Mich. Queenhithe, London (J. H. C.).

*Derham, Richard. By a deed dated Dec. 12, 1393, it appears that he was at that time fellow of the college. Warden of King's Hall, Cambridge, about 1401–13. Chancellor, 1389, 90, 99, 1402–8. Probably King's chaplain in 1402, when he was empowered, with others, to conclude a marriage between the Prince of Wales and the sister of the King of Denmark. Was D.D. in 1412 when the Pope addresses the Prince of Wales, desiring credence for him (Cal. of Rymer's Foed.). Archdeacon of Norf., 1412–7. Dean of the college of St Martin le Grand, London, 1409–16. Probably died 1417.

*Kenynghale, Roger: fellow. Acted as attorney for the college in 1393, on the resignation of Dr Somersham (Deed). He is styled "socius et scholaris."

*Northgate, John: fellow. Ordained acolyte (Ely) on that title Ap. 7, 1397; sub-deacon, March 23, 1397–8; deacon, June 1, 1398. Rector of Ingworth, 1408–10: vicar of Roudham, 1410–3: vicar of Dilham, 1426–9 (all in Norf.).

*Osborne, Henry: fellow. Ordained acolyte (Ely) Ap. 7; sub-deacon, June 16, 1397. On the first page of our MS. 82 (Polychronicon of R. Higden) is a note "Caucio M^ri^ Henrici Osborne expos. ciste Lyng....1408": i.e. it was one of those pledges to the University authorities for payment of fees or performance of exercises, of which there are so many entries in the early Grace books. It was also pledged in 1400. A legatee under the will of the master, Somersham.

Foulden, Henry. Not improbably a member of the college, as he is named as a legatee, together with H. Osborne, in the will of Wm. Somersham, 1416; and is appointed one of the executors.

*Atwood (Wode), Thomas. Fellow in 1399, when he was ordained; acolyte (Ely), Sep. 20, 1399: sub-deacon, Dec. 20, 1399: deacon, March 13, 1399–1400. He was master of the college, 1426 to 1454. Instituted to Lopham, Norf., Sep. 17, 1446. Chaplain to the Duke of Norfolk. Vicar of Mutford, 1452–6. Rector of Elsworth, Cambs., at the time of his death. Will dated there, March 7, 1455–6; proved (P.C.C.) 1456. Desires to be buried in Elsworth, with the inscription, "Orate pro animabus Mri Thomæ Atwoode, et Agnetæ matris suæ." Leaves small legacies to Elsworth, Boxworth, Lolworth, and Overstrand Churches. A book to John Hill (De Lira super Novum Testamentum). Legacies to St Michael's, Cambridge, to Mutford, to the four mendicant orders in Cambridge, and to St Rhadegunde's nunnery. During his mastership he contributed to the college buildings, viz. to the hall and the library, on the west side of the college. For this gift an obit was established in his memory, "in crastino Purificationis beatæ Virginis" (Sheriffe's Register).

Aylward, Thomas, a native of Hants.: probably of the college. Dean of Bocking, 1392–1413. Rector of Havant, Hants. Named as executor in Bp Wykeham's will, July 4, 1403. Benefactor: he gave £20, of which £10 was to be kept in an iron chest and lent out to the students and fellows. His exequies were celebrated on St Etheldred's day. The chest was remaining in the time of Caius, but the money, owing to the negligence of the masters in not reclaiming the debts, had disappeared; though Dr Caius states that he had himself recovered certain sums. In 1493 the capital had been replaced by Lady Eliz. Clere. The gift must have been made during Aylward's life-time: there is no reference to it in his will, dated Oct. 7, 1413; proved at P. C. C.

*Creuch (Crowch, Croucher), John: a fellow. Ordained by the Bp of Ely: acolyte, Sep. 24, 1407: sub-deacon, March 31, 1408: deacon, June 9, 1408; priest, Dec. 22, 1408. He was one of the earliest donors to the University Library: "The gem of our original (University) library is a copy of Chaucer's translation of his favourite Boethius...it well deserves to be looked upon as the patriarch of the place, and the donor, Mr John Croucher, to have a place in our recollection as the founder of our English library" (Bradshaw). He also gave a glass window to the college hall. He was rector of Feltwell, Norf., 1430: rector of Babingley, Norf., 1430–5: rector of W. Bilney, Norf., 1430–5. Dean of Chichester, 1426: died before 1460.

*Fenge, John. Probably a fellow sometime between this date and the death of Robert Heylys in 1497. The latter leaves a book to the library in memory of himself and his friends Thomas Atwood and John Fenge.

*Harlston, Thomas: a fellow. Ordained by the Bp of Ely: acolyte, Dec. 21, 1420: deacon, March 8, 1420–1: priest, May 17, 1421. Vicar of Foulden, Norf., 1421–8, when he resigned. Vicar of Narburgh, Norf., 1428–31. Rector of Framingham Pigott, 1431–4.

*Thomson (Thomston), John. Vicar of Leeds, Yorks., to 1430. Probably a member of the college, as he bequeaths "omnes libros meos non legatos" to Gonville Hall. Will proved at York, Aug. 31, 1430: given in Misc. Gen. Vol. II. Our MS. no. 104 (Theological Tracts) has the notice, "Liber Joh. Thomston, vicarii de Ledes." Perhaps rector of Ingworth, Norf., to 1416.

The above few names are all that can be recovered from deeds, ordination records, and similar sources, during the first seventy years. The possible additions however to the list would not amount to much, as the residents were probably confined almost entirely to those on the foundation, viz. to the master and four fellows. What we now call scholars did not exist till long afterwards, and there were few or no pensioners. With the commencement of our regular college records we begin to get somewhat fuller information, though for many years only surnames are furnished. The earliest extant equivalent to a bursar's book commences with the Computus of Lady Day, 1423: it contains the following list of those on the foundation:—

Custos.
Crome.
Thomston.
Whisham.
Cotman.
Salmon.

The custos is John Rickinghale, D.D., master from 1416 to 1426, when he resigned, "in crastino translationis S^ti^ Benedicti," i.e. July 12. Ordained acolyte (Ely) in 1376, when he is described as of Little Shelford, Cambs. Rector of Thorpe Abbots, Norf., 1381–99. Vicar of the Mediety of Fressingfield, Suff., 1399–1421. Archdeacon of Northumberland. Chancellor of York, 1400. Dean of St Mary's College, Norwich, 1405–26. Chancellor of the University, 1415–22. Bishop of Chichester, 1425–9: where he was buried, in the N. aisle. Consecrated bishop at Mortlake Church, June 3, 1426. Said to have obtained the office through the interest of John, Duke of Bedford, to whom he was confessor. "In public affairs he seems to have taken no part, nor are any of his episcopal acts recorded." (Stephens: Mem. of Chichester.) Will dated Ap. 2: proved (Lambeth) July 14, 1429. (For more see under Masters.)

*Crome, Walter: fellow: first appearance (deed) Dec. 12, 1420: remains on the list till Christmas 1427; but is absent in the next entry, at Mich^{s} 1429. Received the minor orders from the Bp of Norwich, Dec. 23, 1412; and priest's orders soon afterwards, on the [1]title of the House of St Faith, Horsham, when he is described as a native of Norwich. Vicar of St Peter's, Colchester, 1427–33. Vicar of Broomfield, Ess., 1433–7. Rector of St Benet, Sherehog, London, 1442–52. He was a large donor to the University Library, to which he left 93 volumes; having previously given books in 1442 and 1444, still in the collection. He also left seven volumes to our college library, six of which are still there, amongst these being a celebrated MS. of the Epistles of Ignatius. The books were to be kept bound with chains, "cum catenis ferreis, more aliorum librorum eiisdem librariis...ligabuntur." There is a note by him in one of these that it was not to be taken out, "sed remaneat in libraria non solum ad sociorum sed aliorum fide dignorum ingressum et solamen." Will proved (Bp of London's Court) Aug. 5, 1452.

*Thomston (Thomson). Doubtless John, mentioned above.

*Whisham, Guy. B.D. Ordained priest (Norw.) March 20, 1421–2, on his title as a fellow, "a suo diocesano sufficienter dimissus." Fellow till Mich^{s} 1423. Doubtless the man referred to in the "Letter from the Duke of Exeter (Thomas Beaufort) to the University, recommending his clerk, Guy Wiseham, for the degree of B.D., earlier than usual, before going to the General Council,"—i.e. of Constance. Dated Jan. 10, 1415–6. (Univ. Registry, Vol. I. 86: printed in Camb. Ant. Soc. III. 273.)

*Cotman remains on the list of fellows till Lady Day 1426. He resigned in June or July.

*Salmon, Robert. Ordained acolyte (Ely) June 7, 1422. Remains on the list of fellows till Mich^{s} 1433.

*Gydon, ... Appears as fellow from Mich^{s} 1423 to Mids^{r} 1425.

Walsingham, Thomas: a pensioner in 1425.

At the Computus of Lady Day 1426, the following names appear:—

Totil.
Cobald.
Beverley.
Warner.
Hill.
Clint.

*Totil, Henry. Ordained priest, on his title as fellow (Norw.), July 18, 1427. Remains fellow till Mich^{s} 1434. There is an entry in our old Computus of 1440, of a payment of 40 shillings "pro libris M^{ri} Henrici Totchyld": perhaps the college bought them.

*Cobald (Cabold), Edmund: fellow till Midsummer 1434.

*Beverley, John. D.D. Fellow till Lady Day 1441. Perhaps B. Can. Law, 1459. Preb. of Lincoln Cathedral. He gave books to the college library which were reckoned at about £40 value. There is a deed in the Treasury (dated Oct. 2, 1463) by which the college undertakes, in return, to establish an obit or anniversary in his memory, on the vigil of St Gregory. If at any time this should be neglected the chancellor was to be at liberty to claim the books for the University Library. The volumes, 15 in number, are carefully named and described. We still have 14 of them, viz. 12 commentaries on Scripture by Hugh of Vienne, Gorham on St Paul, and the Reductorium morale. In place of the missing one (John of Lathbury on the Lamentations) is a work by Albertus Magnus.

[1] As Dr Jessopp remarks, it seems to have been a custom in the Norwich diocese that, "except in the cases where the applicant for holy orders had been presented with a living, every candidate gave the name of some religious house as his title for ordination." (Hist. of Norw. diocese.)

*Warner, Thomas: fellow to Mids^{r} 1432. One of the donors of glass windows to the college hall,—the second on the E. side (v. Annals; where he is mentioned with Creuch). One of these names was rector of Frenze, Norf., 1404–8. Perhaps the same whose will was proved (P. C. C.) Nov. 5, 1473: chaplain of the chantry in 'Burgh' church.

*Hill (Attehill), John: fellow till Christmas 1455, when our lists cease for some years. Ordained by the Bp of Norwich, on that title; sub-deacon, Oct. 10, 1431: deacon, Jan. 11, 1431–2: priest, Ap. 1432. A legatee under Atwood's will, 1456. Died before Oct. 2, 1461 (deed).

*Clynt, John: fellow till Christmas 1453. D.D. Vicar of Walden, Ess., 1452–62. He gave two windows (the second and third on the E. side) to the college library. Probably the Mary Clynt, and her brother Henry, who gave a window to the old hall, were relatives of his. Will proved (P. C. C.) June 16, 1463. To be buried in the chancel at Walden. Leaves vestments for the four altars there; a legacy to the abbot of Walden, and to Bluntisham church.

*Spark, Geoffrey: fellow, Mids^{r} 1426 till Christmas 1427.

Botlesham (or Bottisham), Nicholas. Probably at one time a member of the college, as his name is mentioned in an early note (MS. No. 714) as being inscribed, as donor, on a window in our old chapel (the second to the left). The only man of this name whom I can find was prior of the House of Carmelites in Cambridge, and died in 1435. For a list of his works see Tanner.

*Furbishon, John: fellow from Mich^{s} 1429 till Mids^{r} 1434. M.A. Ordained sub-deacon (Norw.) March 1432–3, on the title of Westacre Priory, Norf.

*Awson (Ausyn), Richard: fellow from Mids^{r} 1434 till Mich^{s} 1444. Ordained sub-deacon (Norw.) Sep. 20; deacon Dec. 20, 1438; and priest Feb. 28, 1438–9. Described then as 'of Ipswich: M.A:; and fellow of Gonville Hall.'

*Champney, Geoffrey. D.D. Fellow from Mids^{r} 1434 to Mich^{s} 1451. He was ordained sub-deacon (Norwich), on the title of St Giles' Monastery, May 30, and deacon Oct. 8, 1439: priest March 12, 1439–40. He was then M.A. Vicar of Cromer, 1450–62. Vicar of St Stephen, Norwich, 1462–72: buried in the chancel there. Benefactor to the college library: his name, and a few notes, are recorded in MS. 330. He gave one of the library windows. His will, proved at Norwich Ap. 2, 1472, is curious. As to his body, "corpus putridum, quia onus est, et in cineres convertibile, terre feculente vermibus esca fiat"; to be buried where his executors will. Leaves small legacies to the prior, and to each monk, of the Charterhouse, and of Sion. To Gunvyle Hall, 40^{s} for the repair of the chapel or library; his 'Repyngton' to the college library,—we still have these Homilies of Rippington; and other books to the University library. Mentions his parents, sister, and brother John.

*Grene, William: fellow from Mids^{r} 1434 to Mich^{s} 1448. D.D. Vicar of Mundon, Essex, 1422–7. Vicar of Boreham, Essex, 1429–33. Rector of Salcott and Virley, Essex, 1443–7. Rector of St Andrew's, Holborn, 1447–78. By his will, proved (Bp of London's Court) June 10, 1478, he desires "to be buryed in the South Syde of the Quere of St Andrew's," leaves "to the collegge called Gunvyle Hall 12 volumys markyd in the begynning and entytled Gunvyle Hall." Of these we still have five; the Polychronicon of Higden, Works of Augustin, Glosa super Psalterium, &c. He had previously given a window to the college library.

Lyndwood, William: the well-known author of the Provincial Constitutions. At one time a member of the college. He gave two windows to the library, the second and third on the W. side. Bp Wren states (MS. in Pemb. Coll.) that there was an inscription, in a window in the library of Gonville Hall, to pray for the soul of Bp Lyndwood, "hujus collegii quondam commensalis." He was at one time fellow of Pembroke Hall. Ordained acolyte (Ely) Feb. 17, subdeacon Feb. 23, deacon March 15, 1403–4; priest March 12, 1406–7; when he was LL.D. (of Oxford). Rector of Walton on the Wolds, Leics., to 1409. Rector of All Saints', Bread St., 1418. Preb. of Salisbury, 1412. Preb. of Hereford, 1422. Archdeacon of Oxford, 1433. Dean of the Court of Arches, 1426. Bishop of St David's, 1442–6. He was employed on several important missions to France and Spain. Died Oct. 21, 1446: buried at St Stephen's, Westminster. His will is printed in the Archæologia, XXXIV. 418; where all the known facts about him are collected. (D. N. B.)

Archdeacon of Norfolk; appears in our old Computus book (p. 186) as a pensioner, 1434 to 1447. William Sponne, archdeacon 1419–48. He gave the south window to the ancient hall. Rector of Hevingham, 1419. Rector of Blofield, 1418–20. Chancellor of Norwich, 1419.

Lane: pensioner, about the same time.

Smith, John, canon of St Osyth, Essex: pensioner, 1440 to 1444.

Rykman, Peter: pensioner in 1441.

Powle, Richard. Probably a member of the college, as he was vicar of Foulden, 1443–79, and a benefactor. In his will, dated March 27, proved (Norwich) May 26, 1479, he desires to be buried in the new porch on the N. side of the church. Legacies to Norwich Cathedral, and to the nunneries at Cambridge, Wiggenhall, and Thetford. To Gunvyle Hall "the messuage or site of the old vicarage, and 12 acres of arable land in Paynescroft and elsewhere in the town and fields of Fouldon, on this condition, that they keep my obit or anniversary on the first day of May for ever, and that they pray for my soul and for the souls of all brothers or fellows of the said college deceased": if this was not fulfilled the lands were to be sold and disposed of in prayers for his own soul. Henry Costessey, the master, appointed supervisor. Dr Caius, in the Annals, by an apparent oversight calls him vicar of Mutford.

*Calton, Robert: appears as fellow from Mids^{r} 1449 to Christmas 1466: but not in 1472. Ordained priest (Norw.) on the title of the college June 19, 1451. He receives a payment of £1 in each of the years 1461–4, for presiding in the Civil Law Schools (Grace book); and in 1459 receives 6^{s}. 8^{d} for riding to the executors of Sir John Fastolf to procure money for the new buildings in the University. Vicar of St Stephen, Norwich, 1471–1500. Rector of Bircham Magna, Norf., 1481–1500. Preb. of the college of St Mary in the Fields, Norwich, 1492–1500. Will proved (Norw.) March 15, 1500. He desires to be buried in the chancel of St Stephen, by the grave of G. Champney. Leaves money for church purposes: to Bircham "a red velvet chasuble," to the cathedral £1, £10 "to purchase a common antiphonar" for St Stephen's, legacies for the lepers, &c.

*Clement. Appears as fellow Mids^{r} 1449 to Christmas 1455: but not in 1466. Presumably the Clement Rudd referred to in the will of Thomas Atwood (the master), who leaves him his best portiforium. Rudd is to celebrate for him for two years, "si contingat eum exonerari ab onere collegii ad quem (?) promotus fuit."

Medfield, of Physwick Hostel; graduated B.A. in 1460.

*Pyamour, George: fellow, Mids^{r} 1449 to Christmas 1455: but not in 1466. He is frequently entered simply as "George." In 1463 he received 20^{s} for presiding in the Schools of Civil Law and Philosophy (Grace book). There was a similar payment to him of 30^{s}, "pro conductione cujusdam scholæ," for a year and a half, in 1459.

*Boleyn, Thomas. Brother of Sir Jeffery, Lord Mayor of London; and therefore grand-uncle of Queen Anne Boleyn. Master of the college, 1454–72. Ordained deacon (Ely) March 8, 1420–1; priest (Norw.) 1421:—at that time fellow of Trinity Hall. Rector of Hackford, Norf., 1436–7. Rector of Chelsea, 1442. Preb. of Hereford, 1441–7. Preb. of St Paul's, 1447–51. Sub-dean of Wells, 1450. Master of the College at Maidstone, 1458–75. One of the framers of the statutes of Queens' College. On May 7, 1434, he received the King's letters of protection for half a year, being about to accompany Edmund Beaufort to the Council of Basle. He gave a window to the college hall:—the first on the E. side. See more under Masters.

*Heyles (Heylys): fellow from Mich^{s} 1454 to Christmas 1455; but not in 1466. Probably graduated M.A., 1456. In 1460 he seems to have presided in the schools, as there is an entry in the Grace Book of £1 paid to him "pro firma scholæ philosophiæ." Doubtless Robert Heylys, referred to in the will of Thomas Atwood, who leaves him "bibliam meam...si completo anno suæ regenciæ in artibus voluerit se convertere ad studium Theologiæ." Vicar of Cromer, 1462–97. Will proved (Norw.) Oct. 2, 1497. Leaves to his successor at Cromer a hanging laver in the hall to remain there always, also a volume of Januensis and other books. Numerous silver cups to friends and relatives. To Gunvyle Hall library his Summa Predicantium "ibidem pro studentibus permansurum" in memory of Thomas Wood (Atwood), John Fenge, and himself.

*Flyght: fellow, Mich^{s} 1454 to Christmas 1455: but not in 1466.

Bonne, John. Apparently a resident fellow or M.A. in 1458. Referred to in the Proctor's Accounts: "In solutione facta Johanni Bonne pro conductione cujusdam scholæ in qua solent Magistri artium disputare, quam scholam ipse conduxit de collegio de Gonwell ad usum Universitatis: viz. in plena solutione pro eadem schola a die conductionis usque ad Mich. 1458, præter 10^{s} qui debentur in eodem festo, 4^{li}." 'He got the advowson (? next presentation) of St Mich. Coslany settled on himself and trustees after much trouble, and in 1464 presented Thomas Drentall to it.' (J. J. S.)

*Drentall, Thomas. M.A. 1460. Said (in the Annals) to have been a fellow. Rector of St Michael Coslany, Norwich, 1464–1501. Contributed, about 1470, to the completion of the college chapel, £14. 13. 4. Executor in 1484 to Dame Margaret Paston (Norf. Arch. III. 176). Will proved (Norw.) Dec. 2, 1501. To be buried in St Michael's. Bequeaths "a pyxte of sylver and gylte to put in the sacrament to the value of £4," also "myn antiphonar," ..."provyde alweye that if he that shall succede me in this my benyfice trobill or vexe myn executors be ovyr moche axyng of delapidacion that then I revoke and renounce the gyffte of myn antiphonar...". Leaves five marks to Gunvyle Halle "to the making of a walle &c.," under the same condition. He presented, for that turn, Edmund Albon to Garboldisham, 1478. Gave Rippington's Sermons to the church of St Mich. Coslany.

*Plumme, William. Appears as fellow, Lady Day 1466 to 1472. B.A. 1466–7. M.A. 1470. Probably the same who contributed 20s to the building of St Mary's, Cambridge, in 1493: was rector of Terrington St Clement, Norf., 1499–1504; and elected one of the first fellows of Jesus College in 1499. Chosen as curator or supervisor of their new buildings, and by Grace of the Senate was excused attendance at congregations, processions &c., during the progress of that work. Will proved (P. C. C.) Ap. 11, 1505. Described as rector of Fladbury, Worcs., and of Terrington. Desires to be buried at Fladbury. Leaves £20 for repair of the church of 'Newanton,' and many small legacies.

Dogget, John; "archdeacon of Chichester"; is assigned as donor of a window in our old library, and was probably therefore, like the other donors, at one time a member. Presumably the preb. of Lincoln, 1474–1501; treasurer (not archdeacon) of Chichester, 1479–1501; chancellor of Salisbury, 1486–1501; chancellor of Lichfield, 1489–1501; provost of King's College, 1499–1501. Buried in Salisbury Cathedral, 1501.

*Albon, Edmund. Appears as fellow, Lady Day 1466 to 1475: but not in 1483. B.A. 1460–1: M.A. 1464. Probably graduated in medicine, 1475–6; and is called M.D. Rector of Framlingham, Suff., 1476. Rector of Garboldisham, Norf., 1478–85, when he resigned: he was presented by Thomas Drentall. Preb. of St Paul's. Preb. ('Edward') of Lincoln, May to Oct., 1485. In his will, dated Sep. 23, proved (P. C. C.) Nov. 22, 1485, he desires to be buried in St Paul's, London. Leaves vestments "to each of my churches in England, to each of my churches in Wales, and to either of my churches of Garboldisham": the first of his livings falling vacant to be given to Thomas Croppe, and the next to Mr Lynne. Leaves two houses in and near London, under certain conditions, to the college "for the exhibition and finding of two bible clerks":—which do not appear to have come to us. His exequies were celebrated on the vigil of St Edmund, every fellow present to receive sixpence out of the rents of Linton's close, Barningham, which he had bought and given to the college (Annals:—but there is some difficulty here, as the date of the gift is assigned to 1518). According to the Annals he gave 90 marks to the college during his lifetime: presumably to establish a chest like that of Aylward (p. 4), as there are several references, in the early bursars' accounts to the cista of E. Albon.

*Carter, John: son of John Carter; probably of Thornham, Norf. Appears as fellow, Michs 1466 to 1475. B.A. 1455: M.A. 1458. Probably B.D. 1471–2. Owing to an error in the Annals, he has been persistently called Henry in our Commemoration Service, and elsewhere (v. Ath. Cant.). Described as "scholaris ejusdem aulæ" when appointed as attorney by the college, in a deed of conveyance dated Nov. 20, 1467. Rector of Burnham Thorpe, 1465–88: rector of Titchwell, 1486–1516: vicar of Swaffham, 1488–1514; all in Norf. His exequies were celebrated on the day of Epiphany. By a deed dated Aug. 12, 1504, he gave lands in Titchwell and Thornham to the college; they in return after his death were to celebrate "a Dirge and mass of Requiem" for his soul, and that of his father and mother, choosing "an honest priest or scholar of the college" to pray for them. He also gave "8d, to be expended amongst the fellows at their dinner or supper in amending of their repast, and then to remember the souls aforesaid." There is a note in the Reg. Mag. p. 239, "The college was constrained to recover these lands by law, and a new purchase, therefore the conditions were not fulfilled."

Mark, archdeacon of Norfolk. As he is recorded as the donor of one of the old windows in the college chapel, he was probably like most such donors (v. Archd^{n} Sponne) at one time a resident. Thomas Mark, Archd^{n} of Norf., 1459–76; and of Norwich, 1476–83. Also archdeacon of Cornwall, 1462.

*Sheriffe, Edmund. Master of the college, 1472–5. Preb. of Lincoln Cathedral, 1458. Rector of Lit. Billing, Northants., 1467. Archdeacon of Stow, Lincs. Died Sep. 29, 1475. He was, in a way, the first historian of the college, his Register having probably served as the foundation of the Annals of Dr Caius, who describes him as "custos probus et frugi vir." This volume, which was for some time supposed to be lost, is now in the college library. It is a vellum folio containing transcripts of many early deeds, charters and licenses, not a few of which have long been missing. Amongst these are the original Statutes proposed by Gonville, but superseded by those of Bateman. On the first page is the entry, "Johannes Caius hunc librum vetustate dissolutum et neglectum colligari fecit cura sua atque refici, in vetustatis memoriam et futuri temporis exemplum, anno Dni 1564, mense Augusto." Sheriffe states that the writing of the Register was commenced on Oct. 21, 1472. In 1472–3 (Grace Book) he obtained leave of absence from congregations, processions, &c.

Booth. "N. Bothe" is recorded, in our old Computus Book (p. 192), as having violently contested the mastership with Sheriffe in 1472, and appropriated college property: it is then added that he was afterwards Bp of Exeter. Dr Caius, in the Annals, repeating this statement, calls him Laurence Bothe. It is difficult to clear up the confusion here. The Bp of Exeter was John Booth, who was already bishop in 1465; and his brother Laurence was already master of Pembroke in 1450 and Bp of Durham in 1457. Each had also been chancellor before 1472; so the story can hardly be true of either of them. I can find no N. Booth.

*Barly, John: fellow from Mich^{s} 1466. Master of the college, 1483 to 1504. B.A. 1460–1: M.A. 1465: D.D. 1475. He contributed largely to the building of the walls, &c., round the college, giving £5, and excusing the repayment of £50 which he had spent (Annals). Rector of Barningham Winter, 1459–66. Vicar of Mattishall, 1466–79. Rector of Winterton, 1479–1504 (all in Norf.). Rector of St Michael's Coslany, Norwich, 1501–4:—"he built the parsonage there, from the ground, wainscotted the chambers, and glazed the windows, and gave to it much household stuff and many books, as appears by his inventory thereof" (MS. Miscellanea, in library; prob. by Dr Brady). This inventory is in the Treasury. Will dated June 14, 1504; proved (P. C. C.) Feb. 16, 1504–5. Desires to be buried in the chancel of St Michael Coslany. The wills of his father, mother, and brother William, to be carried out before his own. Leaves £10 to Winterton church, and £5 to Somerton. The residue of his property to be expended for his own soul, and those of his father, mother, and brothers. Gives 40^{s} for repairing the pavement by St Michael's, commonly called "the Cokyhede." Edmund and Walter Stubbe, and his brother Thomas Barley, executors.

*Crome, Edmund: appears as fellow, 1475 to 1483. B.A. 1468–9: B.D. 1474–5. Will dated March 1, 1510–11; proved (P. C. C.) May 18, 1517, of Edmund Crome, clerk, canon of Sarum. He says that "memor Verbi D^{ni} ad Ezechiam regem" he leaves all his disposable property, at the discretion of his executors, for the good of his soul.

*Croppe, Thomas: appears as fellow, 1475 to 1483: but not in 1488. Probably of Aylsham (v. will of T. Croppe: P. C. C.; 1530) M.A. 1472. Ordained deacon (Norw.), as a member of 'Gunvylehalle,' June 8, 1476: priest, Sep. 21, 1476. B. Can. Law, 1482–3. Will dated June 27, 1488; proved (P. C. C.) July 12. To be buried by St Paul's Cathedral, "as nigh Mr Edmund Albon as it may be." A priest to sing for his soul by the space of one year; 10 marks if he sing in London, £9 if in Cambridge and be a scholar in Divinity. Legacy to the high altar of St Botolph, Billingsgate.

*Costessey (Cossey), Henry. Master of the college, 1475–83. B.D. He was of Norwich: ordained deacon on the title of the monastery of St Giles, Norwich, March 11, 1440–1; priest, Ap. 14, 1441. Rector of Banham, 1452–83: rector of Wilby, 1476–83: rector of Bixton, 1472–83 (all in Norf.). He was admitted master of Rushworth College, on the election of the brethren, Feb. 27, 1472 (Bennet), and held the post till his death. A deed in the Treasury, executed by him, is dated at Rushworth June 24, 1482. Died July 20, 1483. "A mass of requiem" was established for his soul on 'the eve of the 11,000 virgins.' MS. 109, in the college library (Liber Physicus; in the printed catalogue) belonged to him. It illustrates the difference between the objects of Gonville's two foundations that Costessey seems to represent the only personal link of connection between the two. The obit in his memory was established in return for his benefactions to the college buildings. There appear to be two of these: one of £200 given by him, John Awdry, alderman of Norwich, and John Owdolf, clerk (deed dated 1481), "to the behoof and building of the college"; and another of 240 marks (probably in 1475) with two aldermen of Norwich for the same purpose. According to a very early note at the back of the deed of 1481, the money was employed in building the north and south parts of Physwick's Hostel, the walls of the college garden, the "domus stabuli et domus pro focalibus in collegio, et ementur etiam picta vestimenta Aulæ...." Tanner (Bib. Brit.) seems to identify him with the author of Expositiones in Psalmos, and other works; but this man was a Franciscan friar, and died in 1336 (Pits).

*Stubbe (Stubbs), Edmund. Fourth son of John Stubb of Scottow, Norf. B.A. 1473–4: M.A. 1477: B.D. 1507. Fellow, 1480–1504. Master of the college, 1504–13. Rector of St Mich. Coslany, Norwich, 1504–13: where he bought land at the back of the parsonage, and built the stable (Reg. Mag.). In 1503 he presented to the University "duos bilances, unum ad ponderandum cauciones in jocaliis, alterum ad ponderandum aurum et ponderá eiisdem attinentia." Died 1514 ('paulo post Festum S^ti Mathæi'). Will dated 1513; proved (P. C. C.), 1514. Desires to be buried "pauperrime et sine pompa" in the churchyard of St Michael Coslany, or elsewhere where he may die, at a cost not exceeding 13^s 4^d. Leaves a legacy to support priests, and provide bread and wine, at St Michael's. Legacy to the Abbey of St Benet Hulme. Leaves to Gonvile Hall "meum suplectile de motley": books to Mr Swayn, and legacies to various relations. Mentions his brother Walter (v. Vis. of Norf.; 'Stubby').

*Lynne. Elected fellow in 1480: not on the list in 1488. B.A. 1473–4: M.A. 1477. Probably Gregory Lynne, who was one of Thomas Croppe's executors; and to whom E. Albon left a living.

*Cabold (Cobald), Thomas. B.A. 1476–7: M.A. 1480, when his 'cautio' is described as "una pecia argentea cum pede murre deaurato, xx^s" (Grace book). B. Civ. Law, 1486. Fellow, 1480 to April 1505. He was sent by the University on some mission to Rome (Grace book, 1499–1500) for which he was paid 40^s, "pro negotiis Universitatis Romæ expendendis." A grace was passed next year "ut admittetur ad eundem gradum in quo stat Romæ," but it does not appear what this was. Our MS. 45 (On the Decretals) has his name in it. The master, E. Stubbe, directs by will (1514) that the books and "lintheamen" of Cabold, in the college chest, should be sold.

*Rythwyse, William. B.A. 1473–4: M.A. 1477. Fellow, 1480 to 1483: but not in 1488. Vicar of Foulden, Norf., 1497–1502: rector of Hockwold, Norf., 1497–1502: he had a bull from the pope, 1495, to hold the two benefices together. Will proved (Norw.) July 3, 1502. He leaves considerable sums for church purposes: £5 for the repair of Hockwold, £5 for a new vestment at Foulden, £4 for one at Wilton and for one at Salle, &c. Bequeaths to the college library, "Duns upon the four books of the Sentences, with the quodlibets, and Francisci Conflatus, and that they be chened in the liberary there at my coste." The latter of these (No. 463) has his name in it. Walter Stubbe is an executor.

*Barley, William: appears as fellow, 1483 to April 1502. He was nominated in the deed of gift of Lady Eliz. Clere, as the first fellow of her foundation. Probably brother of the master, and the same who graduated B.A. at Trin. Hall, 1460–1; and B. Canon Law, 1467–8. Ordained priest (Norw.) on the title of Trin. Hall, June 8, 1465. Our MS. 74 (Sermons by Ap Januensis) belonged to him. He was already dead at the date of his brother's will, 1504. Styled "Dr of Decrees" when acting for the college in a dispute about tithes at Hockwold in 1485 (Deed).

*Buckenham, William. B.A. 1482–3: M.A. 1486: B.D. 1502: D.D. 1506–7. Fellow, Mich^{s} 1488 to Mich^{s} 1513. Master of the college 1513 to 1536. His deed of resignation (Coll. Treasury) is dated at St Michael's Coslany, June 12, 1536, to be revoked in case the person elected by the fellows should not be approved by the chancellor. Vice-chancellor, 1509 and 1510. In 1533 he was excused attendance at congregations, exequies, &c. Said to have been the compiler, when vice-chancellor, of the "old Black Book," a MS. volume containing an account of the charters and other records in the University Registry. Arbitrator between the University and Barnwell Priory, 1506. Vicar of H. Sepulchre, Cambridge, 1512. Rector of St Michael Coslany, Norwich, 1514–40. Died at St Michael's parsonage, June 18, 1540; where he bought "a little piece of land to enlarge the yard where standeth the coope for capons" (Reg. Magnum). Will proved (Norw. C. C.) May 9, 1541: Mr Elwyn, of the college, chantry priest of St Michael's, one of the executors. Part of the college buildings, viz. the chambers next the chapel on the E. side of the Gonville Court, were erected by his brother Nicholas about 1516, who also gave lands at Haddenham and elsewhere in Cambs. It seems (Annals) that these lands were claimed by William Buckenham, and sold by him to the college in 1524, the college buying them with the money left by a Dr Bailey. Buckenham somehow became executor to the trust of Reginald Elie, who had left money in 1471 for the foundation of almshouses; and added £4. 12. 0 to the legacy. Buckenham's deed transferring these almshouses to the college is dated from Norwich, Ap. 1, 1539. As regards his family, he seems to have been a younger son of Hugh de Bokenham, of Gt Livermere; and brother of Nicholas, of Fressingfield, who died in or about 1524. (C. B.)

*Dew (Dowe), John. B.A. 1484–5: M.A. 1490, when his caucio was "unum missale." Fellow, 1488 to 1500. President of Physwick Hostel, 1499. Vicar of Mattishall, Norf., 1500–17.

*Whyght, John. M.A. 1490. Fellow, 1488 to about 1499. Proctor, 1497–8. D.D. 1510. Rector of Filby, Norf., 1505–12; and vicar of Wroxham, Norf., 1509–14.

Stowe: pensioner, 1489–91.

Yutforth: pensioner, 1490–1. A Nicholas Woodforth was canon of Beeston Priory, Norf., at the visitations of 1494, 1514, and 1532; possibly the same man; as monks, and especially canons, were the principal pensioners at this time. Signed the acknowledgement of Supremacy at Beeston, 1534.

De la Pole, Humphrey. Pensioner, 1490–1500. A son of the Duke of Suffolk. Probably B. Civ. Law, 1496–7; and B. Can. Law, 1500–1: Grace for Dr of Can. Law, 1501. Ordained acolyte at Downham, by the Bp of Ely, Sep. 29, 1491. Rector of Hingham, Norf., to 1513. Rector of Leverington, Cambs., 1500. Preb. of St Paul's: resigned in 1509. He presented, Sep. 8, 1498, an early printed Sarum Manuale (1497) "ad usum capellæ et scholarium" (v. Collett's Catalogue). Perhaps resident again in 1521, as Dr Caius (Annals), mentioning one of the not uncommon faction fights of the time, describes how the North England party, mostly from Gerard's Hostel, then invaded Gonville Hall, destroying the food, throwing the plate into the well, and attempting to set the gate on fire. He says that the quarrel was mainly directed against Humphrey Pole: but I do not find his name amongst the pensioners then; and Blomefield implies that he died in 1513.

Alleyn: pensioner, 1491–1505. Perhaps the same as Aleyn of p. 16.

Bards, Adrian de: pensioner in 1491. A Florentine. Treasurer of Hereford Cathedral, 1478–86. Preb. of Hereford, 1479–80. Preb. of Lincoln, 1480–1501.

Stow: pensioner, 1491.

Farewell: pensioner, 1497–9, his name remaining for many years as in debt to the college. Probably M.A. 1496; B.D. 1506. A John Farewell was vicar of Camberwell, 1526–56; and vicar of Bermondsey. Preb. of Llandaff, 1537. Will proved (P. C. C.) Oct. 8, 1556: leaves legacies for the churches of Weasenham and St Martin's Rainham, Norf.; Rotherhithe, and Llanarmon. One of the same name was vicar of St Mary in the Marsh, Norwich, 1507–14.

Attleborough, John: pensioner, 1497–9. A monk from Norwich Priory. Mentioned in the bishop's visitation, 1492. Custos of the cell at Hoxne, 1492; and of that at Yarmouth, 1502–4.

Beverly, Robert: pensioner, 1497.

Lynn, Richard: cook, 1497–1505.

Woodbridge; canonicus; pensioner, 1497. John Woodbridge (alias Hawes), canon of Pentney. Appears in the visitations of 1492 and 1514. Prior of Pentney in 1520.

Wolman, John: a monk of St Alban's; pensioner, 1497.

Ward. A member of the college in 1498–9, when he is permitted by grace "quod non arceatur interesse congregationibus." Perhaps the same who appears in our books as resident 1506–10.

*Tanne, John. Fellow, Mich^{s} 1499 to Mich^{s} 1510. B.D. 1506–7. University preacher, 1507. Probably president of Physwick Hostel in 1500 and 1503. Bursar of the college in 1509; in which capacity he seems to have died in debt, as there is an entry for several years of money due from his executors. Instituted to All Hallows, Honey Lane, 1510; and died a few months afterwards.

*Warner, William. Fellow, Mich^{s} 1499 to L. Day 1517. B.A. 1497–8: M.A. 1501, when his caucio was Cowton super Sentenciis. B.D. 1509: D.D. 1513. One of the band of early Cambridge reformers. President of Physwick's Hostel, 1503. Rector of Winterton, Norf., 1515–45. Appointed fellow of Corpus in 1545, by Matthew Parker, when he is said to have resigned Winterton. Buried at Paston, Norf., Dec. 24, 1546. Present to comfort the martyr Bilney at his death in Norwich in 1531. Bilney went "accompanied by one Dr Warner whom he did choose as his old acquaintance, and parted with the words 'Farewell good master Doctor and pray for me': and so Warner departed without any answer, sobbing and weeping" (Foxe:—v. also Ath. Cant.).

De la Pole, Geoffrey. In our MS. No. 5 (Decreta Gratiani) is the note "ex dono reverendissimi domini Galfridi de la Poole, legum doctoris, et hujus collegii commensalis, 1499." This may be a mistake for Humphrey above (as suggested in Ath. Cant.); as may also the grace, 1494, to admit to congregations William de la Pole, son of the same duke; for neither of these names occurs in the pedigrees. On the other hand Dr Caius (Annals), enumerating certain distinguished members of the college, after mentioning Humphrey Pole, adds that there were two sons of the Duke of Suffolk whose likenesses were represented in a window on the staircase to the library and master's room "in doctorali habitu." Again, Leland mentions (Itin. II. 7) a son of the De la Pole duke "that was scholar in Gunvile Haul, and lyith buried at Babraham":—can there have been a Geoffrey or William who died young, and has dropped out of the pedigrees? Fuller (Hist. p. 110) says that the second was Edward, archdeacon of Richmond.

Davy, Richard. Pensioner in 1500–1. There is a reference to him in the Grace Book, 1498–9; "solvitur M^ro^ Davy de Aula Gunvel xx^s^, pro recompenso in riota."

Cawmbridge; a Norwich monk, pensioner 1500–3. John Cambridge of the Benedictine Priory. Described as "refectuarius" in the visitation of 1514.

Reed; pensioner, 1500–5. Perhaps Alan Reed; B.A. 1502–3: M.A. 1506, when he was excused one term's exercises on account of absence "propter pestem." One of this name, son of John Reed, is said to have been prior of Waltham in 1507.

Aylsham; a monk; pensioner, 1500–2. Doubtless John Aylsham, of the Abbey of St Benet's Hulme, Norf.; mentioned in the bishop's visitations of 1520 and 1526.

Dobbs; pensioner, 1500–15. A grace was passed, 1502–3, for Mr Dobbs "de aula Gunwell, ut possit stare eodem gradu quo stetit Oxoniis": but his name does not appear in the Oxford lists. Perhaps John Dobbs, priest, of All Hallows, Barking, whose will was proved (P. C. C.) Sep. 3, 1546.

Hegge. Graduated M.A. from Physwick Hostel, 1501. Perhaps Edward Hedge, fellow of Corpus in 1509: rector of St Benet's, Camb., 1512–32. Died 1532 (v. Masters' Hist.).

Catton, Robert; a monk from Norwich Priory, pensioner, 1502–3. Alias Brand and Brond. Ordained sub-deacon at Norwich, by the Bp of Clogher, March 30, 1499. Mentioned in the bishop's visitation of 1492: prior 1504 to 1529. Custos of the cell of St Leonard near Norwich, 1518. He succeeded Wolsey as abbot of St Alban's, where he was deprived Jan. 1537–8. Vicar of St Mary in the Marsh, Norwich, 1526–8. He placed his own effigy in the E. window of Catton church, with his arms; where there is a brass to his parents. Will proved (P. C. C.) 1552.

Waller, Robert; pensioner, 1502. B.A. 1504. Will of Robert Waller, clerk, of Chichester, proved (P. C. C.) 1541.

*Carleton, Robert: fellow of the college when ordained, on that title, acolyte and deacon, May 21, 1502, by the Bp of Norwich. Vicar of Foulden, Norf., 1502–8, when he resigned. Presumably the "Dr Calton" who gave ten marks to the college about 1516 (Annals).

Webber: pensioner, 1503–8.

Galfridus; a Norwich monk; pensioner, 1503. Probably Geoffrey (Galfridus) Aylsham, who appears in the visitation of Norwich Priory in 1492, together with Langrake.

Landrake; a Norwich monk; pensioner, 1503. Henry Langrake, mentioned in the visitation of the Priory in 1492. Prior of Yarmouth cell in 1515, when he reports all well.

*Moore, William; fellow, 1503–9. B.A. 1501–2: M.A. 1505. Probably rector of Bradwell, Essex, 1534–40; of W. Tilbury, 1524: vicar of Walden to 1540: Suffragan bishop of Colchester, 1536–40: preb. of York, 1537–8; archdeacon of Leicester, Sep. 14, 1539. Held the Abbey of Walden in commendam. Died 1540; adm^{n} granted to his brother John More, of Whaddon, Cambs. (v. Ath. Cant.).

*Swayne, Thomas; fellow, Mich^{s} 1503 to Mich^{s} 1517. B.A. 1500–1, when his caucio was Cowton super quatuor libris Sententiarum: M.A. 1504: D.D. 1511. Proctor, 1506–7: University preacher, 1506–7. College bursar, 1512–3. Canon of Lincoln, 1517–9. Buried at Bishops Woburn, Bucks. Will dated Dec. 12, 1519; proved at V.C. Court, Camb. Dr Stubbs left him by will his "capam doctoralem," and two books.

Garron (Garrard); pensioner, 1503–12, and apparently again 1516–7. Doubtless Edward (Edmund) Garrard; B.A. 1500–1: M.A. 1504: B.D. 1512. University preacher, 1510–11. One of the first two appointed "Knight's priests" or "salarists," by the deed of foundation, Oct. 20, 1538. Presented to Pattisley, Norf., by Sir John Heydon, Feb. 20, 1521–2; whose chaplain he not improbably was. Died in 1544.

Alablaster, Thomas; pensioner, 1504–12. B.A. 1501, when his caucio was "unus annulus de auro" and [1]Cowton super sentenciis: M.A. 1504: B.D. 1512. University preacher, 1509. Vicar of S. Lynn, 1535–43; and perhaps rector of Bale, Norf. A legatee under the will of Agnes Alablaster of Worstead, 1525.

Aleyn: appears as a resident 1505–9: at Physwick's Hostel. B.A. 1502–3: M.A. 1507, "de domo Gunwell." Can he be the Godfrey Alan, "principal of St William's Hostel," who obtained a grace for M.A. in 1506? If so, William Physwick has by inadvertence been canonised. As Dr Caius tells us (Annals), Physwick's Hostel had two principals, one appointed by the college and the other by the resident students. Edward Crome held the former post in 1509, so presumably Aleyn held the other. If so, he is the only known holder of the post.

Gayton, Paul: pensioner in 1505. One of the prebendaries of the college of St Mary in the Fields, Norwich. Mentioned in the bishop's visitation of 1492.

*Meadows; fellow, 1506–8. Probably B.A. 1505–6.

Ricpaine (Rimpaine): pensioner, 1506–9. B.A. 1498–9: M.A. (Rumpeyn) 1502. Probably the John Rumpyn, M.A., who was rector of St Pancras Soper Lane, London, 1508–59.

Sigo, William; pensioner, 1506–9. Described in the Annals as "grammatices professor," i.e. he had taken the old degree in grammar. A benefactor; founder of the first "scholarship." He gave for this purpose, by deed dated June 12, 1507, his house at Castle End, Cambridge, and lands in the county; the scholar to receive 20 shillings annually, and to be of the Norfolk diocese. Several of his name were members of Gonville's college of Rushworth; and one, Thomas, was master there. Buried in the college chapel (Annals).

[1] Was this the common pledge for members of the college? (v. Warner and Swayne).

Butts, William. B.A. 1506–7: M.A. 1509: M.D. 1518. Physician to Henry VIII. Described by Smith, Prof. of Law, his contemporary, as "the refuge of all students, and chief guardian and ornament of this University." (Mullinger II. 131.) In 1524 he appears to have been principal of St Mary's Hostel. Member of the College of Physicians, 1529. He had an extensive grant of Abbey lands about 1544. He married Margaret Bacon of Cambridge. Died Nov. 22, 1545, and buried at Fulham, where there was a monument to him. Dr Caius dedicated his work De medendi methodo to him. He states that being with Butts at Dover, the latter got leave from the king for him to go to Italy for his health. Apparently they went to Padua together. Dr Caius states (Annals) that Butts was with him at our college: Cooper calls him a fellow, but his name does not appear in our lists. Will proved (P. C. C.) 1545. Pedigree in Vis. of Norfolk (v. Ath. Cant. and D. N. B.).

Gale, William; a benefactor, and not improbably a member of the college. Will dated Oct. 2, 1506; proved (P. C. C.) Nov. 9, 1509. Described as of Eye, clericus. Desires to be buried in the monastery of Eye: and leaves XII^{d} to each of the convent present at his mass and dirge. "Also I will have a priest to sing in Gunwyle Hall for my soul by the space of one year," or in the Hostel, "such a priest as Mr Stubbs will have." "Also I will that the land bought by Mr Edmund Stubbs the college called Gunwyle Hall shall have it upon conditions ordained by Mr Worter Stubbs; that Richard Smith my child, and Gylys Webster shall be founded at Cambridge by the space of five years with the money that shall come from Gunwyle Hall": i.e. they were to be the first scholars. "All my lands &c. in Cowling and Cartelyng to mine executors of a certain indenture made between me and Gunwyle Hall." He had already given the lands, by this deed dated Sep. 7, 1504: one of the provisions was that if the sum of £4 yearly was insufficient to support a priest there should be two scholars instead. He had also given, the year before, lands in Hinton, Cambs. His exequies were celebrated on the 12th February.

*Crome, Edward. Appears as fellow, Mich^{s} 1506 to 1529: B.A. 1503–4: M.A. 1507: B.D. 1518: D.D. 1526. Bursar of the college in 1515. University preacher, 1516. In 1527 (Grace Bk.) he received £1. 6. 7 for a journey to Bp Gardiner, the chancellor, on University business. Principal of Physwick Hostel, 1509–11. A friend and associate of Latimer and Bilney, and known as one of the early reformers. In 1531 he appeared before the king and some of the bishops, on a charge of heresy. Rector of St Mary, Aldermary, 1534–62: there is a letter to him from Anne Boleyn (May 20, 1534; in Cal. of State Papers), who "marvels that he has hitherto deferred taking the parsonage of Aldermary, which she has obtained for him." Rector of St Antholin's, London. In 1539 Cranmer recommended him for the deanery of Canterbury: "I know that when he was but president of a college in Cambridge (i.e. of Physic Hostel) his house was better ordered than all the houses in Cambridge besides." (Strype: Mem. III. i. 160.) He presented a Greek-Latin Bible to the library. He was chosen, with Shaxton and Skipp, amongst "the twelve best learned men in Divinity," appointed in 1530 to examine heretical books. He is mentioned by Strype, along with Simon Smith, Shaxton, Skipp, and Sygar Nycholson, amongst the reformers who frequented the meetings at Cambridge. He was repeatedly in trouble for his opinions, and was imprisoned in 1554, but recanted. Died June 26, 1562, at St Antholin's; aged 80. Will proved

(P. C. C.) 1562. He desires to be buried in the chancel of Aldermary," "under a marble stone having certain sayings of Job graven in latten plate." Dr Caius was one of the witnesses to the will. A copy of Erasmus' New Testament, in our library, was his gift: it has his name, with the date 1561 (v. Ath. Cant. and D. N. B.)

Edmundus; "cocus." The cook: his name is placed at the end of the list of fellows from Mich^{s} 1508 to Lady Day 1519.

Repps. A monk; resident as pensioner, 1509–13. William Repps (or Rugg), son of William Rugg, of N. Repps, Norf. B.A. 1504–5: M.A. 1508: B.D. 1509: D.D. 1513. Sacrist of Norwich Priory, 1514. Custos of the Cell at Yarmouth, 1520. Custos of St Leonard's Priory, Norwich, 1515. Sub-prior of Norwich, 1526. Abbot of St Benet's, Hulme, 1530. Bishop of Norwich, 1536 to Jan. 31, 1549–50, when he resigned. One of the authors of the Institution of a Christian Man. As bishop he has borne a bad reputation. "He was consecrated bishop June 28, 1536, and from the day of his appointment he set himself to make all he could of whatever was saleable, even to the extent of trying to alienate the very palace at Norwich" (Jessopp, Hist. of Diocese). Leland however, who knew him well, says that he was "theologus ad unguem doctus" (v. Dugdale, III. 65). Died Sep. 21, 1550: buried in the choir of the Cathedral. The administration of his estate was granted to his brother Roger Rugg, and Andrew Abbes, Sep. 22, 1550. Pedigree in Vis. of Norfolk. (v. Ath. Cant., and W. Rye's N. Erpingham, p. 143.)

Crome; pensioner, 1509. As he is bracketed with Repps he is presumably Walter Crome (Crowmer), of the same house, the Benedictine Priory of Norwich; one of the six monks selected for canonries on the new cathedral foundation in 1538, as 'Grime alias Crowmer.' He held this till 1540. Perhaps Rector of Claydon, Suffolk.

Mace; pensioner, 1508–11. Doubtless George Mace, Augustinian canon, of whom a number came to the college from Westacre Priory, Norfolk. B. Can. Law, 1511; and Dr in the same faculty, 1522. Had studied arts five years, and canon law four years, here; and canon law eight years in his monastery. University preacher, 1522.

Borow, Robert; pensioner in 1508. There is an entry in the Grace Book, 1508–9, "cautio M^{ri} Boros, de aula Gunvill, pro non legendo, XIII^{s} IV^{d}": he had probably not kept his due exercises.

Pet; pensioner in 1509. Perhaps the same as Simon Petyt who graduated B.A. from Physwick Hostel, 1500–1. M.A. 1504. Rector of Herringby, Norf., 1532–41.

Willelmus; pensioner, 1509.

Some (Solme); pensioner, 1509, 1511. B.A. 1508: M.A. 1511. University preacher, 1514–5. A Robert Some was vicar of Stalham, Norf., about 1531. Solme, a priest, was imprisoned on account of the Six Articles in 1541 (Foxe); perhaps the Thomas Solme whose book, The Lord's Flail, was prohibited by Bp Bonner in 1546 (v. Ath. Oxon.).

Englisch; pensioner, 1509–13, and again in 1517. Probably "frater Johannes Anglicus, ordinis predicatorum"; university preacher, 1516; B.D. 1518: D.D. 1522.

Her; pensioner in 1509. Presumably Nicholas Hare; who is assigned to our college by Cooper, but not identified by this name. Reader, and afterwards bencher of the Middle Temple. M.P. for Norfolk, and Speaker of the House of Commons, 1540. Master of the Rolls, 1553–7. Married Catherine, daughter of Sir John Bassingbourn of Woodhall, Herts.; two of his sons being afterwards admitted to the college. Died Oct. 31, 1557, and buried in the Temple Church (v. Ath. Cant.; and D. N. B.).

Smythe, Richard: scholar (bibliotista), Mich^{s} 1509 to Mich^{s} 1510:—the first reference to a "scholar" in the modern sense. William Gale (see back) in his will, dated 1506, alludes to Richard Smith as "my child," desiring that he should be "founded by the space of five years" with the proceeds of his endowment. One of these names was B. Civ. Law in 1519.

*Butler (Boteler): scholar, 1510–1, and afterwards fellow till Mich^{s} 1518. Robert Butler, B.A. 1509–10: M.A. 1513. President of Physwick Hostel, 1513–5. Vicar of Mattishall, Norf., 1517–38. Buried in the chancel there. Will proved (Norw. C. C.) May 4, 1538. He leaves his copyhold at Mattishall to his successors there: £6 a year, for two years, to "Sir John Wallet, priest, towards his exhibition at Cambridge": "to ich of the felawes of Gonville Hall, ich of them to there owne severall uses, one silver spone": to the reparation of the college, 20^{s}: legacies to Swaffham, and other churches in Norfolk, &c.

*Shaxton, Nicholas. Fellow, Mich^{s} 1510 to Mich^{s} 1534. B.A. 1506–7: M.A. 1510: D.D. 1531. President of Physwick's Hostel, 1512–3: bursar, 1516. One of the band of Early Cambridge reformers. Imprisoned more than once; and accused in 1546 of denying the Real Presence. Condemned to the stake, but recanted and preached the sermon at the martyrdom of Anne Askew and her companions. Master of St Giles Hospital, Norwich, in 1546. Presented to Mattishall, Norf., 1516. Rector of Hadleigh, Suff. Treasurer of Salisbury, 1533–5. Bishop of Salisbury, 1535; but resigned on the passing of the Six Articles, July 1, 1539. Suffragan bishop of Ely, 1555. His last years were spent in college, where he died Aug. 5, 1556; and was buried in the chapel. By his will (proved V. C. Court) he bequeaths to Gonville Hall, "to solace the company at home yearly at Christmas," the rent of a house in Cambridge: to every fellow and pensioner 12^{d}: "the hangings of his chamber of green say" for the hall: the rest of his property to Thomas Alablaster of Hadleigh, Suff., "for the behoof of his (Alablaster's) lad, by him named Thomas Dratsab." He also left many books for the library, mostly theological, and of "the new learning." His exequies were celebrated on St Boniface day (Feb. 12):—at least that is the day given, amongst other exequies, in the Annals, but after two years this must have become a Protestant 'commemoration.' For more about him, and a list of his works, v. Ath. Cant. and D. N. B.

Clerk: pensioner, 1510–2. Doubtless William Clerk: B.A. 1506–7: M.A. 1510. University preacher, 1510–11. One of the University bedells. There is a grace (1517–8) to allow him "incedere capite coperto temporibus hiemalibus et aliis temporibus frigidis propter diversa incommoda et egretudines quæ perveniunt sibi ex frigitate accepta in capite."

Harman: pensioner, 1510–2. Probably Walter Harman, B.A. 1504–5: M.A. 1508.

Norwych, Edmund. Pensioner in 1510, and again 1514 to 1518. B. Canon Law, 1520. A Benedictine monk of Norwich priory, and one of those who signed the surrender, July 28, 1534: probably the same who was prior of the cell at Aldeby in 1526, and prior of the cell at Lynn in 1535. As "Edmund Drake, alias Norwich" he was prebendary of the cathedral, 1538–48; being appointed in the charter converting the convent into a cathedral chapter. As prior of Aldeby he was again in residence in 1533. Will proved (Norw. C. C.) 1549.

Household: pensioner, 1510 to 1516. B.D. 1513. A Cluniac monk of Castleacre (a dependency of Lewes) and one of those who signed the surrender, Nov. 22, 1537:—the name is doubtfully given as 'Howrhowd' in the Cal. of State Papers. Vicar of E. Barsham, Norf., 1538–51. There is a sealed license from the prior of Castleacre to John Howsehold, to proceed in Divinity and to take the required oaths to the University, 1513 (Univ. Registry). In 1514 he was excused further residence in the university. His will, dated Oct. 27, 1543; proved (Norwich) July 24, 1551, is interesting. He bequeaths "to the colledge in Cambrydge called Gunvyle Hall, my longer table clothe, my two awter pillowes with their bears of black satten bordered with velvet pirled with goulde...." the residue of his books not bequeathed to E. Barsham "to the sayde colledge, protesting that whatsoever be founde in my books I intente to dye a veray catholical christen man, and the king's letheman and trewe subjecte." Also to the college "a frontelet with the salutacion of our Lady curely wroughte with goulde; and besides two suts of vestments having every thinge belongen to the adorning of a preste to say masse; the one is a light grene having white ends and the other a duned Taphada" (Taffeta?). "Also a cofer of bourde to lye in my corse, and also a marble stone to cover my grave... and a plate on it having this Epitaphie, John Howsholde in holie Dyvynitie bachelor, twyse prior, after thryse celleraur, by grace (?) sent here vicar here doth lye, obiit anno Domini 1543, supplying the yere and addyng the daye."

Knyvett: pensioner, 1510 to 1513.

Walan: pensioner in 1511. Perhaps rector of St Mary in the Marsh, Norwich, 1507–14.

Aldrich: pensioner, 1511 to 1519. Perhaps William Aldridge (Allregge) B.A. 1501–2: M.A. 1505.

Reder. Occurs, in our accounts, as bible-clerk in Physwick Hostel, Lady Day 1512 to 1513. Probably John Redar, who was B.A. 1510–11: M.A. 1516.

*Medowe. Fellow, Lady Day 1513 (probably) to 1533: bursar in 1530. William Medow, B.A. 1511–2: M.A. 1515. President of Physwick Hostel, 1515–8. Proctor, 1520–1. From the allowance to him for bread, wine, and wax, he seems to have been chaplain, 1514–23. From the dates he was probably the chaplain of Bp Gardiner, whose examination, as a witness at the trial of the bishop in 1551, is given by Foxe (VI. 202). He was then 60 years old, and had been chaplain 20 years. Was master of the Hospital of St Cross, rector of Stoke, and prebendary of Winchester. He had accompanied the bishop five times on foreign embassies; to the Emperor, the French King, &c. Presented to Weymouth, Winch. diocese, 1531; and to Calbourne, I. of Wight, 1537. There are two letters from him in the Cal. of St. Papers, one (1536) dated from Valence, and the other (1537) from 'Millyoum.'

*Skipp, John. Scholar, Lady Day 1513 to Mich^{s} 1516. Fellow, Mich^{s} 1516 to 1536; Master of the college, 1536 to 1540; when he resigned in June. B.A. 1514–5: M.A. 1518: B.D. 1533: D.D. 1535. President of Physwick Hostel, 1519–21. Commendator of Wigmore Priory. Vicar of Thaxted, 1534–9. Rector of Newington, Surrey, 1538. Offered, but declined, a fellowship at Cardinal College, Oxford. Chaplain and almoner to Anne Boleyn. Archdeacon of Suffolk, 1536; licensed to hold the archdeaconry of Dorset, Nov. 9, 1539. Bishop of Hereford, 1539–52. He revised the Epistle to the Hebrews, for the Bible of 1540; and was one of the compilers of the Institution of a Christian Man. He preached a sermon in the King's chapel, on Passion Sunday, 1536, which as seeming to reflect on the action of the King and Parliament was charged with sedition (Cal. of State Papers). He is doubtless the "Sir Skypp, bachelor" referred to in the will of Margaret Norman, of Norwich, widow, 1516: "Being in Cambridge shall have this year's service towards his exhibition. And if that I depart before he be priested, he shall sing for me and my friends his first mass in St John's church Berstreet Norwich; and so for a year after his first mass singing, for to continue at Cambridge for his increasing and learning and praying for me and my friends" (Norf. Arch. I. 124). Died in London, March 30, 1552; buried at St Mary Mounthaw. He gave a copy of Valerius Maximus to the college library. Will proved (P. C. C.) Ap. 9, 1552. It is nuncupative, dated March 18, 1551–2, in the presence of the Bp of Norwich, Dr Wendy, and others. He leaves all his property to his brother Robert Skyppe, John Harford, and Richard Willyson, to be distributed at their discretion amongst his kinsfolk and servants. (v. Ath. Cant.)

*Hoor (Hoare). Scholar, Lady Day 1513–5. Fellow, Lady Day 1515 to Lady Day 1521. Richard Hoare, B.A. 1510–1: M.A. 1515. President of Physwick Hostel in 1518, 19. University preacher, 1520–1. He appears to have been chaplain to Lord Lisle, lord deputy of Calais. The Archbishop sent him to the latter, March 4, 1535–6:—"whom, as you liked so well last Lent, I have appointed again to preach with you." Lisle replies that he is much satisfied with him, and hopes to have him every Lent (Cal. of State Papers). Rector of All Hallows, Lombard Street, 1534–8: when he died. Will dated June 30, 1537; proved (P. C. C.) Nov. 5, 1538: described as parson of N. Tuddenham, Norf.; desires to be buried there.

Becham: pensioner in 1513. Probably Robert Bekham, a canon of Westacre Priory, who certainly was, together with the next two, a student at Cambridge at this time (v. Vis. of Norf. Monasteries, Camden Soc., 1888).

Mayner: pensioner 1513 to 1520. William Mayner (Maynard), canon of Westacre. B.D. 1519–20. Had studied arts and theology 14 years; nine here and five in his monastery and elsewhere. Had preached before the University and at St Paul's Cross, &c. Described in the Visitation of the Monastery, in 1520, as "idoneus preceptor pro confratribus." One of these names, parish priest, was buried in the chapel of St James' Church, Norwich, 1526. Gave a legacy to Gresham church, where he was born, and to St Stephen's, where he sang his first mass.

Brygott (Byrkhed): pensioner 1514 to 1523. B.D. 1520: when he had studied two years and a half in his monastery, two in Paris, and seven years in Cambridge. Thomas Brygott, canon of Westacre; mentioned, in the Visitation of the Monastery, as a student at Cambridge (1514). Studied philosophy and theology two years at Paris, before coming to Cambridge. Prior of Westacre 1522–6. Probably the man of that name whose will was proved (P. C. C.) Aug. 12, 1556: described as B.D. and of Westminster. He mentions no parish church, but leaves £20 "to the house of the poor in London."

Carman: pensioner in 1513. One of this name (James) graduated B.A. 1495–6, M.A. in 1499; and was fellow of Pembroke in 1495, when a questionist. He was a native of Norfolk. Rector of Westwick, Norf., 1510–3.

Bolen: pensioner in 1513–4. Probably William Boleyn, B.A. 1503–4: M.A. 1507. University preacher, 1511. Preb. of St Paul's, 1516–7. Rector of St Peter, Cheap, London, 1516. Rector of Holt, Norf., 1534. Rector of Postwick, Norf., 1543–51. Archdeacon of Winchester, 1529–51. Mentioned as a priest in the Boleyn pedigree (v. Vis. of Norfolk); fourth son of Sir W. Boleyn, and uncle of Queen Anne Boleyn. Buried at Stiffkey, Norf., Feb. 6, 1551–2. Blomefield (VI. 388) must be wrong in assigning his death to 1571. (v. Lansd. 980: p. 93.)

Atherold : pensioner, 1513–5 ; and again in 1524–5. William Atherold, a Cluniac monk from Lewes. Afterwards at Oxford, where he was admitted to oppose, June 16 ; and graduated B.D. June 27, 1516. One of those who signed the surrender of their cell of Stanesgate Priory, Essex, at the dissolution of the smaller monasteries. As a monk of Lewes he received a pension at the surrender, Nov. 16, 1537. Rector of St John the Baptist, Wallbrook, 1545–7. Will proved (P. C. C.) June 24, 1547. Desires to be buried in S. John's, Wallbrook : Thomas Atherold, executor.

Crome : pensioner 1513–5. Doubtless a monk from Lewes, as he is bracketed with Atherold. Robert Crowham, prior of Lewes, 1526–37. B.D. 1521. Preb. of Lincoln in 1537, for a short time. Surrendered the priory, Nov. 16, 1537. He was charged by Layton, Cromwell's agent, with concealing treasonable preaching by his sub-prior (see on, Bolney), "I laid unto him concealment of treason, called him heinous traitor in the worst names I could devise, he all the time kneeling and making supplication unto me, not to utter to you the premises for his undoing : whose words I smally regarded, and commanded him to appear before you at the Court on All Hallows Day, wherever the King should happen to be, and bring with him his subprior" (Letter to Cromwell, Oct. 1535 ; in Cal. of State Pap.). Robert Croham, alias Peterson, late prior of Lewes, was preb. of St Paul's, 1537–55 ; vicar of Shere, Surrey ; treasurer of Chichester Cathedral ; and dean of South Malling, near Lewes. Will (proved P. C. C.) dated Jan. 18, 1554–5. He desires to be buried "without great pompe or solempnitie other than prayer, which I most heartelie desire all Christian people of their charite to make and effunde for my soul." He leaves small legacies to every member of the cathedral staff present at his obsequies, which were to last three days. Mentions his brother William Peterson, and John Randall "my scholar at Oxford," to whom he leaves £20 "towards his exhibition." Richard Brisley (see on, p. 25), executor.

Mallyn : pensioner, 1513–5. B.D. (Mallynge) 1518. A monk from Lewes. Doubtless Thomas Malling, the prior of Castleacre, Norf., which was a cell of Lewes, 1519–37 ; when he surrendered the house, Nov. 22. He was one of two persons nominated by the Bp of Norwich, as suffragan bishop of Thetford. Rector of Wickhampton, Norf., 1545—61 (Blomef.).

Cowncest (Cowncester) : pensioner 1513–5, and 1520–3. B.D. 1521. A monk from Lewes : not on the list at the surrender.

Hayle, John : pensioner, 1514–21. Described as "monachus Norwicensis" ; presumably therefore of the Norwich Benedictine Priory. Probably B.D. 1520.

*Stubbe, Walter : M.A., and fellow of the college at one time (Annals). Third son of John Stubbe, of Scottow, Norf., and brother of Edmund the master. Received a legacy in 1505, by the will of his mother Hawicia. Doubtless the Walter Stubbe, gentleman, whom Rightwyse appointed as one of his executors. Will dated June 1, proved (P. C. C.) July 10, 1514. Desires to be buried in the college chapel ; where his brass still remains. Leaves legacies to the churches of St Michael, Cambridge, and St Andrew, Holborn, "for tythes negligently forgotten." Mentions wife Audry, sons Walter, Edmond, John. Much property in various parts of Norfolk. (v. 'Stubby' in Vis. of Norf.).

Wood : scholar, Lady Day 1515 to Lady Day 1519. B.A. 1515–6.

Leder : scholar, L. Day 1515 to L. Day 1519. Doubtless Richard Leder, B.A. 1514–5 : M.A. 1518. Vicar of Foulden, Norf., 1519–40 ; buried Oct. 10, 1540. In a deed of gift of lands in Titchwell and Thornham (Coll. Treasury), dated July 6, 1530, he is described as "son and heir of Margaret Grene, widow, of Thornham, widow of Thomas Leder, of Thornham. (v. p. 28.)

Hadley: pensioner, 1515–9. William Hadley, canon of Westacre. B.D. 1518–9. He had spent eleven years in the study of arts and theology: nine here, and two absent owing to the plague; had preached before the University and at St Paul's, &c. One of these names was the last prior of Eye, Suffolk, which he surrendered at the Suppression.

Peppys: pensioner in 1515–6, and 1519–20. Thomas Peps, canon and sub-prior of St Osyth, Essex. B.D. 1517–8. There was another Pepys, William, inceptor in theology, who obtained permission from the prior of Norwich to take the required oaths, May 24, 1513. (Univ. Reg., Drawer I. 29); but our pensioner is probably the former, as he is termed 'dominus,' not 'magister,' in 1516.

Bokenham: scholar, L. Day 1516 to L. Day 1519. Probably Edward; B.A. 1518–9.

Robertus, 'cocus': appears as cook, 1516 to 1519. As he is termed Styham in 1519, this is presumably his surname.

*Chamberlyn, William: Fellow, Lady Day 1517 to Lady Day 1520. B.A. 1514–5: M.A. 1518. Ordained deacon (Ely) Dec. 19, 1517. Rector of Beeston Regis, Norf., 1521–5. Perhaps rector of St Olave, Hart St, 1528–31; when he resigned.

*Bacon, Thomas. B.A. 1517–18: M.A. 1521: D.D. 1556–7. Scholar, Mich[s] 1517 to 1519. Fellow, 1519 to 1527. President of Physwick Hostel in 1521. Master of the college, 1552–9. Rector of Hockwold, 1529–39. Chaplain to Henry VIII., who presented him to the rectory of Barrow, Suff., 1539. Vicar of Hoxne, Suff. Rector of Brandon, 1554. Canon of Stoke by Clare. Canon of Ely, 1544. Present at Ely at the condemnation of Wolsey and Pigot, for heresy, Nov. 9, 1555. (Foxe VII. 402.) Died at 'Shelfield' (?Chelsfield), Kent, Jan. 1, 1558–9. Died intestate: inventory of his goods (V. C. Court) £12. 0. 7. Dr Caius characterises his predecessor thus, "homo certe gravis mitis et amabilis, sed custos inutilis et negligens" (Annals). He adds that he died deeply in debt, and fraudulently disposed of his property to his brother Nicholas, a merchant in London. (v. Ath. Cant.)

Wade: pensioner in 1518.

Arthur: pensioner in 1518. Probably Thomas Arthur, or Archer; B.A. 1512–3: M.A. 1516: B.D. 1522. A Norfolk man, and friend of Bilney the Martyr, who was the means of attracting him to reforming views. Fellow of St John's 1518, and principal of St Mary's Hostel about the same time. In 1527 he was charged with heresy, but recanted and did penance. Died at Walsingham, 1532. Author:—Microcosmus (trag.), Mundus plumbeus (trag.), In quosdam Psalmos, Homeliæ Christianæ (v. Ath. Cant.). Will proved (Norw.) Jan. 18, 1532–3: to be buried in Lit. Walsingham: the bulk of his property to be divided between "(1) the persons that be in the Tower at London, called Balyes tower and Becham's tower, (2) the persons in Norwyche castell and Lynne convictis, (3) the lazars of Walsingham, and (4) such as lye bedrid or be blynde." (D. N. B.)

Stuard (Styward): pensioner, 1518 to 1525. Robert Steward, alias Wells, son of Nicholas Stuard, of Wells, Norf. B.A., 1516–7: M.A. 1520. Prior of Ely 1522; and first dean of Ely after the suppression of the monastery. In company with Shaxton and others he condemned two martyrs at Ely, Nov. 9, 1555 (Foxe VII. 402). Died Sep. 22, 1557: buried in Ely Cathedral, where there is a brass to his memory. Oliver Cromwell's mother was a descendant of his brother: he thence acquired estates about Ely and elsewhere, and his supposed claim to Royal descent. Author: Continuatio Historiæ Eliensis

(printed in Wharton's Anglia sacra): Genealogiæ et Arma gentilitia...(Lambeth MSS.). It was apparently he who fabricated the pedigree tracing his family descent from the Scottish kings. (v. Ath. Cant.; Genealogist, N. S., II. 34, x. 19.)

Thornham: pensioner, 1518. His name remains on the books till 1532, as in debt to the college. Probably a monk, as he is bracketed with Hadley. Either Robert Thornham, who graduated B.A. 1517–8: M.A. 1521; or Walter, who signed the surrender as a monk of St Faith's, Norwich.

Pathmer: pensioner, 1518–20. Doubtless Thomas Patmore: B.A. (Oxford) 1510–11: M.A. (Oxf.) 1515. Incorporated at Cambridge, 1518. Rector of Much Hadham, Herts., 1515–31; when he was deprived. An early reformer: committed to the Lollard's Tower, Lambeth, where he remained two years. He was charged with having read the works of Luther and Melancthon: having sanctioned the marriage of his curate (Simon Smith) with his servant, Joan Bennore; and with having declared, when at Cambridge, that he "did not set a bottle of hay by the pope's or bishop's curse." (v. Foxe II. 238; and Ath. Cant. I. 65).

*Wendy, Thomas. Fellow, Lady Day 1519 to 1524; and probably longer. B.A. 1518–9: M.A. 1522: M.D. (incorporated from Ferrara) 1527. President of the college. A native of Suffolk. Physician to Henry VIII., Edward VI., Mary, and Elizabeth. Fellow of the College of Physicians. One of the commissioners to visit the University in 1546 and 1559. He had a grant of the manor and rectory of Haslingfield, Cambs., from Henry VIII., whose will he testified, and from whom he received a legacy of £100. Died May, 1560: buried at Haslingfield, where there is a monument to his memory. Benefactor to the college by the foundation of a fellowship. He also gave very many books to our library, both medical and classical. His commemoration service is on May 11; described as an obit in the continuation of Sheriffe's Register by Dr Caius. Pedigree in Vis. of Cambs., 1619 (v. Ath. Cant. I. 205).

*Smith, Simon. B.A. 1518–9: M.A. 1522. Fellow, Lady Day 1519 for some years, his name remaining in the books till 1531. An early reformer: friend of Latimer and others of that party. Curate to Thomas Patmore (above) at Much Hadham; whose servant, Joan Bennore, he married. They were married abroad; but on their return were summoned before the bishop of London, 1531, compelled to abjure and suffer penance, and condemned to perpetual imprisonment. When at Cambridge, orders were given to the Vice-Chancellor to seize him for suspected heresy (v. Foxe, II. 265; and Ath. Cant.).

*Overy, Roger. Scholar, Lady Day, 1519; and afterwards fellow till 1540. B.A. 1520–1, when he was in priest's orders: M.A. 1524. Rector of St Michael Coslany, Norwich, 1540: deprived about 1556. Probably rector of Great Ryburgh, 1543–54: and of Sloley, 1557–8. Curate of St Andrew, Norwich, 1556–9. In 1538 he was appointed by Dr Buckenham to receive the rents of the lands at Barton left in trust to the college, by Reginald Elie, for his almshouses.

Harman, Geoffrey. Scholar, Mich[s] 1519 to 1523: and resident, apparently, till 1528. B.A. 1521–2: M.A. 1525. Incorporated at Oxford, 1525: B.D. there, 1531. One of the original members of Cardinal College: "proving a violent Lutheran was forced to leave" (Wood, Fasti Ox.). Afterwards fellow of Eton College, 1532: died, and was buried there 1533.

Styleman. Scholar, Mich[s] 1519.

Felton, Thomas. Pensioner, 1519. B.A. (Feltham) 1519–20.

Pecke. Scholar, Mich[s] 1519 to 1523.

Sanderson, Thomas. Appears on the list as 'cocus,' 1520–2.

Clark. Pensioner, 1520. As he occurs amongst the monks he is very probably John Clark, canon of Westacre, who was certainly at Cambridge at this time. Described, in the Bishop's Visitation of Westacre in 1520, as "idoneus pro novitiis et junioribus"; but having been absent as a scholar (scholaris) he does not know anything of the state of the monastery. "Magister novitiorum" in 1526, when he preached the sermon at the Bishop's Visitation: "supervisor evidentiarum" in 1532. One of these names was presented to South Lynn in 1542, by Dr Thomas Legh, assignee of the prior of Westacre; and held it till 1556. Will proved (Norw. C. C.) July 7, 1557. Perhaps rector of Northwold in 1538.

Sennock. Pensioner, 1520–5. A monk of Lewes Priory. John Sennock, B.D. 1522–3: had studied arts and theology 9 years here, and 18 months at Oxford, with 4 years of philosophy in his monastery. D.D. 1527. A Dr Boord, of Sussex, was charged, amongst other things, with "attempting to induce Dr Senocke to forsake his allegiance, and to leave the realm"; 1535 (Cal. of State Pap.). Sennock received a pension of £7 at the surrender, Nov. 16, 1537.

Nycholson, Sygar: pensioner, 1520–3. Best known as the University printer. An early reformer. Charged, about 1529, with holding protestant opinions, and having the works of Luther in his possession. Long imprisoned, and said to have been treated with great barbarity. "Do you not hold Nicholson, Smyth, Patmore,...with many others, in prison at this hour?" (Latimer to Huberden, 1535, Strype, Mem.; I. ii. 179). Late in life he was ordained by the Bp of London: deacon, Dec. 17; and priest, Dec. 21, 1564: from whose register we learn that he was then 64, resident in St Edward's parish, Cambridge, and that he was born in Maestricht. (v. Ath. Cant.)

Bolney. Pensioner, 1520–2. A monk: doubtless from Lewes, as he is bracketed with others of that house. If so, he was Anthony Bolney, and one of those who signed the surrender. As sub-prior he received a pension of £7, Nov. 16, 1537. If he was also sub-prior in 1535, he is referred to by Cromwell's agent Layton: "The sub-prior hath confessed to me treason in his preaching: I have caused him to subscribe his name to it, and submit himself to the King's mercy" (Cal. of State Pap.; and v. Crome, p. 22).

Horton, the prior of. Pensioner, 1521–3; and probably longer. His name first appears in our books ('Gloster') in 1510. Horton in Kent, a cell of Lewes priory. Richard Gloucester, alias Brisley, who graduated as B. Canon Law, 1519–20. Had, according to the Grace Book, studied arts four years here; and canon law six years, here, at Oxford, and in his monastery. Dr of the same faculty, 1522–3. He appears to have graduated also at Oxford; B.D. 1520; D.D. 1528. As prior he signed the surrender in 1538, and received a pension of £15. Collated to the archdeaconry of Lewes, 1551. Preb. of Chichester. Executor to the will of Robert Crome, of 1513. Richard Gloucester was presented to the rectory of All SS. Purleigh, Essex, by Edward Brysley, Nov. 13, 1527:—till then the presentation was in the hands of the prior and convent of Horton. Will proved (P. C. C.) Ap. 14, 1558. He beseeches "the holy virgin and all the blessed company of heaven to pray for me"..."my obsequies to be celebrated according to the order of Christ's Catholic Church, and my degree." Many legacies to relations, and books to the cathedral.

Devall (Vale), Peter. Pensioner, 1521–4. Doubtless Peter Valentius, a Frenchman by birth, and sympathiser with the Reformation. Many years chaplain and almoner to Goodrich, Bp of Ely. In 1555, he visited the martyrs Wolsey and Pigot in prison, bidding them "stand to the truth of the Gospel and Word...I know not myself how soon I shall be at the same point that you now are" (Foxe VII. 404). Shaxton and Steward (see back, pp. 19, 23) were on the commission which condemned them. (v. Ath. Cant.).

Cocksall. Pensioner, 1521–4. John Coksall, B.A. 1518–9: M.A. 1522. Probably the same who was "admitted to oppose" at Oxford, Dec. 1, 1519.

Elwyn, John. B.A. 1521–2: M.A. 1525. Probably of the college. Chantry priest of St Michael Coslany, Norwich, in 1536, when he was executor to Dr Buckenham, the master. Afterwards rector there, 1561–9. The nomination of the chantry priest was given to the college, with an endowment of ten marks, by Robert Thorpe of Norwich, and his wife, 1524. It was, of course, suppressed with other chantries (v. Reg. Mag. and Annals). He gave us, "by lease of 600 years, a tenement and parcel of ground (to be part of the parsonage of St Michael's) for the yearly rent of a peppercorn if demanded" (Reg. mag.). He left by will "to the Lyberarye of the said Colledge as many of my Lattyn Bookes as are meate for the same, to be delyvered by myn executors at the house of John Staller in Sainct Austin's parrish." He belonged to the Thurning family; Peter, of 1578, being his great nephew.

Witton (Wotton). Pensioner, 1522–3. B.A. 1521–2: M.A. 1525. From a note in our early copy of Geoffrey Knight's will (see under Endowments) he appears to be the William Wotton Esq., who, with Sir William Paston, was appointed recoverer of Knight's manor of Pattisley.

Rimpon. Pensioner, 1523–35. Probably the same as Rimpaine or Ricpaine of 1506.

Baily, John. D.D. Possibly of our college,—to which he is assigned by Cooper,—but certainly of Pembroke, where he was elected fellow in 1498. He gave £300: with £200 of which lands were bought in Haddenham, and a house in Cambridge, of Dr Buckenham, the master. He was rector of St Matthew's, Ipswich, 1510–25. His will (proved, P. C. C., Sep. 9, 1525) is given in full in Suff. Arch. (VII. 160). He desires to be buried before the High Altar of St Matthews; leaves his "crymsyn gowne ingreyned with the hood" to Dr Buckenham, who was left executor, with Edward Crome. He had a contest with Cardinal Wolsey about the alienation of the tithes of St Matthew's. The stone over his grave has disappeared during the last century. Dr Caius (Annals) gives Feb. 20, 1534, as the date of Baily's foundation, which has been copied in our Commemoration Service. This is the date of the deed by which the fellowship was founded. It is a covenant between Dr Buckenham and the college by which the former gives the lands above mentioned, and the latter undertakes to establish the fellowship. There is no reference here to its being the gift of Dr Baily; nor to Baily having owned the house in Cambridge (v. Ath. Cant.).

* Cake, William. B.A. 1524: M.A. 1526 (assigned to Queens'). His name appears in our books, as scholar and afterwards fellow, 1523–35. Probably the Mr Cake who was chaplain to Bp Shaxton in 1535. Proctor, 1532.

Granysend (? Gravesend): a monk. Pensioner in 1524.

Patchett, Robert. B. Civ. Law 1525–6; when he is described, in the Grace book, as of Gunwell Hall, and commissary of the Bp of Lincoln for Leicestershire. B. Can. Law, 1535.

Grene: scholar, 1525–7. William Green, B.A., 1527.

Dunston: pensioner, Mich^{s} 1525 to L. Day 1527. Probably Anthony Dunstan, alias Kitchin; a monk from Westminster. B.D. at Oxford, 1525. Abbot of Eynsham, Oxon., 1530–4. D.D. (Oxf.) 1538. Bp of Llandaff, 1545–65. Died Oct. 31, 1565: buried at Matherne, Monm. (v. Ath. Cant.; and D. N. B.)

Woodyard: pensioner, 1526.

*Clarke, Robert. In our books, probably as fellow, Mich^{s} 1526 to Mich^{s} 1528. Described as 'of Gunwell Hall' in his will, dated Dec. 4, 1528, and proved in the V. C. Court. He leaves "all his books of Chrysostom's works" to the library.

Betts: pensioner, 1526. William Betts, B.A. 1524. Incorporated at Oxford, 1525. M.A. (Oxf.) 1526. One of the original members of Cardinal's College, Oxford. Afterwards fellow of Corpus, Cambridge, 1531–3. Chaplain to Queen Anne Boleyn. Died March 1533 (v. Ath. Cant.)

Bretton, William: scholar, 1525–9. Probably B.A. 1527.

Stubbs, John: scholar, 1526. B.A. 1526–7.

Nicholas: a monk of Lewes: pensioner, 1527. Probably Nicholas Orrell, who received a pension at the surrender of the house, Nov. 16, 1537.

Penven: pensioner, 1528–30. A John Penwyn, or Penneon, was rector of Morningthorpe, Norf., 1524–30; when he is said to have died.

*Styrmin, John: scholar, and afterwards fellow, 1528–35; and probably longer. B.A. 1525–6: M.A. 1529: B.D. 1540. One of the first two priests, or 'salarists,' appointed on Dr Knight's foundation, by his deed dated Oct. 20, 1538. Master of the college, 1540–52. Archdeacon of Hereford, 1542. Preb. of Hereford, 1545. Will dated Feb. 1, 1551–2; proved (P. C. C.) June 2, 1552. The bulk of his property is left to be divided, at the discretion of his executors, amongst his kinsfolk. Richard Willison and Edward Cowper exors., and John Herford and Danyell, a clerk, witnesses:—most of these appearing in the will of Dr Skipp. (v. Ath. Cant.)

Bond: scholar, 1529.

*Barker, William. Scholar in 1529, and afterwards fellow for many years. Probably B.A. 1534–5: M.A. 1538. A native of Norwich, and intimate friend of Dr Caius. Knight's lecturer,—i.e. prælector rhetoricus,—in our college in 1546; being the first recorded holder of the office. He was still fellow in 1557, when he was one of those nominated in the charter of Caius; but not in 1559. In 1570 he presented seats for the chapel choir, at a cost of £20; and in 1571 collected £3 from friends for glass for the windows (Annals). In 1579, shortly before his death, he made a large present of books to the library, several of which (e.g. Epigrammata antiquæ urbis) have his name inscribed. Not to be confounded with his namesakes and contemporaries; (1) the author, (2) the fellow of Clare. (v. Ath. Cant.)

*Kees (Keys, Keis, Kesse, Cais, Kaius, Keyse, Cayus, Keysse, Caius:—for so his name occurs in the contemporary bursars' accounts, settling finally into Caius), our famous second founder. Scholar, Mich^{s} 1530 to 1533; and afterwards fellow. Born in Norwich, Oct 6, 1510, but stated (Parker's Skeletos) to have been of Yorkshire extraction. He entered the college Sep. 12, 1529. B.A. 1532–3; M.A. 1535: M.D. (incorp. from Padua) 1558. Fellow of the college Dec. 6, 1533; and resided probably till 1545. Master, Jan. 24, 1558–9, to his resignation, June 27, 1573. Died in London, July 29, 1573. For more, see under Masters. (D. N. B.)

Walker, Henry. Mentioned by Dr Caius (Annals) as having been at one time a member of the college with himself. I have not found him in our books, unless as a pensioner in 1512. Graduated M.D. in 1532; incorporated from the University of Angers. Regius professor of Physic about 1555. He was a zealous catholic, and active in the proceedings connected with the visitation of the University by Cardinal Pole. Signed the Marian articles, 1555. By his will, dated Ap. 2, 1564 (he died very soon after), he bequeathed his books, 68 in number, to the college: his son George to have the use and custody of them during his life. The titles and prices are given in the inventory attached to the will (Coll. MS. No. 714). He mentions his eldest son Henry, to whom he leaves lands at Langham, Norf.; and his wife Elenor. (v. Ath. Cant.)

Crome, Edward: scholar, 1529–33. B.A. 1532: M.A. (? as John) 1534.

Morley, Lord. Stated by Caius (Annals), to have been a member of the college about his own time. He must be Henry Parker, who succeeded his grandfather as ninth Baron Morley in 1556. A popish recusant: lived mostly abroad. Died Oct. 22, 1577. (D. N. B.)

Gresham, Thomas. The well-known founder of the Royal Exchange, and of Gresham College. It was only from a statement in the Annals, where Caius mentions some of his contemporaries, that Gresham's connection with our college was known, till the quite recent discovery of some of the missing bursarial accounts. It now appears that he was a pensioner, for a year at least, from Oct. 1530. (D. N. B.)

In a deed in our treasury (Richard Leder's gift of lands in Titchwell, July 6, 1530) the following names are mentioned, as members of the college:

William Buckenham, D.D.
Nicholas Shaxton.
William Medowes.
Edward Crome jun^{r}.
Nicholas Saxton jun^{r}.
Robert Clarke.
Thomas Oxborough.
John Keys.
William Breton.
Robert Farror.

The last seven are termed 'scholares.' Most of these names occur in our own records; but there seems no other reference to Nicholas Saxton (Shaxton) jun^{r}, or Thomas Oxborough. A Thomas Hewar, alias Oxborough, of Oxborough, died in 1585, aged 66.

Taverner, Richard: pensioner from 1530 to 1534. Dr Caius calls him a fellow (Annals), but I do not find his name as such. Son of John Taverner, of N. Elmham, Norfolk. Entered first at Corpus; subsequently became a canon of Cardinal College, Oxford. B.A. (Oxf.) 1527: M.A. (Camb.) 1530. Died July 14, 1575: buried at his residence, Woodeaton, Oxon. He was of eccentric character, and varied experience, and was a voluminous author. Translator of the Bible, clerk of the Signet, member of Parliament, licensed (though not in orders) to preach throughout the kingdom, H. Sheriff of Oxon., &c. (v. Ath. Cant. and Ath. Oxon.)

Spelman: pensioner, 1531.

Spurley: pensioner, 1531.

*Symons: 1531–40: probably a fellow.

Tuck: pensioner, 1531–3.

Fuller: pensioner, 1531.

Ferror, Robert: scholar, 1531–3. Perhaps vicar of Althorne, Ess., 1556: died 1557.

Gunnell, senior: pensioner, 1531–6. Perhaps William Gonell, of Landbeach, Cambs., the friend of Erasmus. B.A. 1484–5: M.A. 1488. Tutor in the family of Sir Thomas More. Rector of Conington, Cambs., 1517–44. (v. Ath. Cant. and D. N. B.)

*Maptid, Lawrence: 1531. B.A. 1529–30: M.A. 1533: B.D. 1549. A native of Suffolk. For many years fellow; and president in 1546. Deputed by the University to ride to Framlingham, with letters to Queen Mary, 1553. Master of Corpus, on the expulsion of Parker, 1553–7. Chantry priest at Haslingfield, Cambs., 1547; where he received a pension of £1, 1553. Rector of Teversham, Cambs., 1554–60. Signed the Marian articles of 1555. As chantry priest of Rainham, Norf., he received a pension of £6 per annum. Died Dec. 7, 1557: there is a brass to his memory in Trin. Hall. In his will, proved in the V. C. Court, he says, "I give unto Gonvill Hall, where I confess myself to have lyved an unprofitable member by the space of 21 years, for my neglicence and folly there committed, my Howse in Fowldon," with lands there and at Swaffham Market, &c., "provyded always that if the M^r and fellows of Gonvill Hall do charge myne executors hereafter wyth any matter or debt wherein they shall pretend me to be chargeable, by reason of any my doings there, then in that case I utterly revoke all legacys unto them." There are also legacies to Corpus, and a scholar is endowed at Trin. Hall, who is to pray for his soul. Mentions his brother Gregory, and his nephew John Mapted. Gregory was vicar of Foulden All SS., 1540–1566; and died rector of Gt Cressingham, 1560. He had been a monk of Bury St Edmunds; and is called "Maptet alias Illey," from his birthplace (Blomefield). His nephew John, and his descendants, resided for many years as a yeoman family at Foulden. (v. Masters' Hist. of Corpus.)

Dew: pensioner, 1532–5.

Turgesse: pensioner, 1532–4. Either Nicholas Turges (Sturess) B.A. 1527–8: M.A. 1531; or William Turges, B.D. 1532. The latter was vicar of Stepney, 1540—4.

Gunnell junior: pensioner, 1533.

Cobb: pensioner, 1533–5. Perhaps Thomas Cobb, B.A. 1528–9: M.A. (Corpus) 1532. Fellow of Corpus, 1531–44. Proctor, 1537. Rector of Landbeach, Cambs., 1544–5; when he died.

Rookwood: pensioner, 1533–6.

Dr Buckmaster: pensioner in 1533. William Buckmaster, fellow of King's Hall. Vice Chancellor, 1529, 38, 39. Lady Marg. Prof. of Divinity, 1532–8. Preb. of Hereford, 1539–45. Preb. of London, 1541–5. One of the authors of the Christian Man. Described in a letter to Cromwell, in 1535, as "of the old sort,...of great pertinacity to their old blindness" (Cal. of State Pap.). Will proved (P. C. C.) Dec. 2, 1546: "fellow of King's Hall." (Ath. Cant. and D.N.B.)

*Bottiswain, William. Scholar, 1534–8. B.A. 1535–6: M.A. 1539. Fellow in 1538, and probably till after 1547. Knight's priest, or salarist, 1544–6. Rector of Benacre, Suff., 1550–4: of Athelington, Suff., 1554–73: of St Mich. Coslany, Norwich, 1570–2. Rector of Thornham, Suff., at the time of his signing a bond, Sep. 16, 1570, for the safe keeping of the goods in the parsonage of St Michael's Coslany. Mr William Boteswayn, rector of Horham, was licensed to marry Joan Bobbett, of Ipswich, Sep. 23, 1563.

Cake, James: pensioner in 1534.

*Willison, Richard. Scholar in 1534, and afterwards fellow till 1538, or later. B.A. 1536–7: M.A. 1539. Born in Norwich, and a contemporary and close friend of Dr Caius. Of Sugwas, Hereford, Esq. He was probably a relation of Bp Skipp, the master, to whom he was executor. In his widow's deed (below) John Skipp, of Clifford, Hereford, is called his cousin and heir. He founded two scholarships, leaving lands in Haglo and Poulton, Gloucs., of the annual value of £7. 16. 0. These came into possession of the college, after his death, by the deed of gift of his widow Ann (called Margaret in the Annals). She died in 1595, when the first scholars were elected. Three interesting letters from him to Dr Caius are preserved in our library (MS. 714): printed in the Caian, No. 13. Will proved (P. C. C.) 1575.

*Denne (Deane), Andrew. Fellow in 1534, and for some years after. B.A. 1530–1: M.A. 1534. Rector of the mediety of Bixton, Norf., 1554; and of Welborne, Norf., 1554, for a short time. Fellow of Corpus in 1558. Vicar of Swaffham Bulbeck, Cambs. 1554-62; and of Downham, Cambs. 1559–65. Preb. of Ely 1559–1665. Buried at Downham Dec. 16, 1565. About 1543 he and Laurence Maptit, then fellows, purchased for the college 64 acres of land at Hockwold and Wilton. He was also a benefactor by the gift of £10 (Annals).

The following appears to be the list of actual fellows in 1535: they sign the Acknowledgement of the Royal Supremacy (Coll. MS. 391). They are all mentioned above.

Buckenham, William (master).
Overey, Roger.
Styrmin, John.
Maptid, Lawrence.
Deane, Andrew.
Caius, John.
Barker, William.

Hassett: pensioner, 1535. Perhaps of the Norfolk family of Bleverhasset.

Helperby: scholar, 1535–7. B.A. 1536: M.A. 1538: B.D. 1546. Described in the Univ. Reg. as of St Michael's Hostel. A James Helperby was rector of Stratton St Mary, Norf., 1554–5. Thomas Helperby was vicar of Stanton St Michael, Cambs., 1548.

Handley: pensioner, 1535–8. James Hanley, B.A. 1512–3: M.A. 1516: B.D. 1537.

*Ocley, Thomas. Originally of Oxford: graduated there B.A. 1520; "secular chaplain, and schoolmaster." Incorporated M.A. at Cambridge, 1534. Fellow of the college, 1535–7. Principal of Physwick's Hostel, 1537. One of the band of early Cambridge reformers. Will proved (V. C. Court) Aug. 24, 1537. He leaves all his goods to Dr Day, Dr Redman of St John's, and Nicholas Ridley of Pembroke, "to dispose as they do know, and shall by searching of Scripture, according to the will of God, all affections put away...decide.."

*Harman, Nicholas. Probably scholar; afterwards fellow to 1547, and probably later. B.A. 1537–8: M.A. 1540. Rector of Newtown, Montgom., 1546; and of All SS. Worcester, 1552.

King: pensioner, 1536–7.

Paris: pensioner in 1537.

Folklyng: pensioner, 1538.

Sole: pensioner, 1538.

Heydon: pensioner, 1538.

Beisser: pensioner, 1538.

Harewood: pensioner, 1538.

Boldero: scholar, and perhaps fellow. Francis Boldero, B.A. 1540.

*Skargell, Simon. B.A. 1533–4: M.A. 1537. Fellow in 1538, and until 1540, when his administration was granted, Oct. 20 (V. C. Court), to his father, William Skargell.

Hammond: pensioner, 1539.

Outlaw: pensioner, 1539.

Tilney: pensioner, 1539.

Thomson: resident in 1539. Probably William Thomson, of St Michael's Hostel. B.A. 1541–2: M.A. 1545. Perhaps rector of Ayott St Lawrence, Herts., 1546.

*Goldyng, William. First appears in 1540; as scholar, and afterwards fellow. B.A. 1544–5: M.A. 1548. Preb. of Hereford, 1548. His name occurs, with some notes, in our MS. No. 335:—"I Will. Goldinge, Fellowe of Gunvill Hall...in the year of our Lord 1559, write this, Avaritia radix omnium malorum." At one time fellow of Trin. Hall. Said to have been living in or near Norwich in 1578; and to have been the author of verses "Ad Civitatem Norwicensem de Adventu Serinissimæ Reginæ Elizabethæ." (v. Ath. Cant.)

Miller: scholar, 1541.

Barker: scholar, 1541. Perhaps William, of p. 27.

*Taverner, Silvester. Scholar, 1541; and afterwards fellow. B.A. 1543–4. By the pedigree (in the Beds. Vis.) he seems to have been a brother of Richard Taverner, and afterwards "of Marston, Beds." Rector there, 1562. One of these names was a purchaser of the chantry, &c., of Sprotton, Northants. (Strype, Mem. II. 2. 404.)

*Bagot (Bachot): resident 1542–5. Simon Baggot; B.A. 1535–6: M.A. 1542. Probably a fellow. Proctor, 1545. Rector of Fordham, Essex, 1544 to his death, 1558.

*Kytbald, Benedict. Resident in 1542. B.A. 1540–1 ('Cutbal'): M.A. 1543. Fellow of the college. Administration granted (V. C. Court) Oct. 19, 1545, for the benefit of his brother Simon.

Wytwood: scholar, 1543. An Otwell Wytwood was rector of Eccles, Norf., 1567–86; and of Wilby, 1563–86. Died in 1586.

*Perkins, William. First appears in 1543: afterwards fellow from about 1544 to 1551. B.A. (Parkyn) 1541–2: M.A. 1544. William Parkyn, vicar of Burwell, Cambs., 1549–54. Rector of Ashdon, Essex, 1552. On our books, as in debt to the college, till 1562; when he is described as "of Stoke Clare, deceased": Thomas Cropley, of Stoke, being executor or administrator.

*Vincent, John. First appears in 1545: afterwards fellow. B.A. 1542–3: M.A. 1546: B.D. 1556. He was a witness to Bp Shaxton's will. In his own will, proved (V. C. Court) Jan. 10, 1557–8, he leaves "to the master and every fellow, XII^{d}." One of the fellows mentioned in the charter of Dr Caius. Signed the Marian articles, 1555. Preached at Paul's Cross in 1557. There are several references to him in Mere's Diary.

Maner, Robert: pensioner in 1545. In the grace for his M.A. he is described as having studied four years in Cambridge and many years elsewhere, "tum in literis humanioribus tum etiam in sacris literis, passim verbum Dei predicando": to be examined by the master of Clare, and others, and to pay 26^{s}. 8^{d}. Rector of Watton, Herts., 1541–63; and of Datchworth, Herts., 1554–69.

*Bateman, John. Scholar, in 1545; and afterwards fellow for some years. Nominated in the charter of Dr Caius, 1557. B.A. 1545–6: M.A. 1549. Received the minor orders from the Bp of London, Dec. 20; ordained deacon, Dec. 21, 1553. Signed the Marian articles, 1555. One of the witnesses to Bp Shaxton's will in 1556. His own will was proved (V. C. Court) Oct. 29, 1559. There is a touching appeal in it to his executors,—William Goldyng of Trin. Hall (v. above), and John Cowell, fellow of Caius,—"all my goods at my executors' free disposal...only I require them for my discharge before Almighty God, and for very pitie sacke and charitie, to take some honest way for my little boye Robert (?) Trunden that he be not put out of the dores and beggyng, but rather put to some honest man to an occupation."

Maptytt (Maplet), John: scholar in 1545. Doubtless the nephew of Laurence Maptet, mentioned in his will. He farmed the rectory of Foulden of the college, apparently till his death in 1591, as also the land left to the college by his uncle Laurence. His son, John, was admitted to the college in 1577.

Crow, Christopher: scholar in 1545. Probably of E. Bilney, Norf.: son of Richard Crow, Esq. Married Susan Townsend. Died 1613. Father of William, of 1594.

*Burre, Thomas: scholar, 1545. B.A. 1549–50: M.A. 1553. Admitted at Corpus in 1544; where he again appears as fellow, after his B.A. degree. For some time fellow of our college, being nominated in the charter of 1557. There is a note against his name in a return of July 1559 (Univ. Registry) "absens æger." Appointed Knight's priest, or salarist, May 17, 1560. Rector of Little Massingham, Norf., 1558–61. Died in 1561.

(Some of the above names are taken from a valuable return, viz. the Report of the Royal Commission of Jan. 16, 37th Henry VIII.: i.e. 1545–6. Besides a minute account of the revenues of each college there is a list of the fellows and scholars at the time. See Parker MS. No. 108; in the Corpus Library.)

Donnell, Robert. Mentioned as M.A., and formerly of the college, at his son's admission in 1590. Rector of Birdbrook, Essex, 1572–1601. Described as "an unpreaching minister" in 1583 ("Part of a Register").

Drury, Sir William, is assigned to our college by Cooper (Ath. I. 412). Born 1527. A distinguished commander both by land and sea. Commanded at the siege of Edinburgh, 1573. President of the province of Munster, 1575. Lord deputy of Ireland, 1578. Died in Ireland, Sep. 30, 1579. (D. N. B.)

The foregoing names have been recovered from very miscellaneous sources, of which our own college records are naturally the most important. It was not till 1544 that the first attempt was made to record the name of every student in the University, by the Matriculation lists at the Registry. These, however, are decidedly imperfect. No parentage is recorded, and in some cases only surnames are given. The lists also are not complete; for many students who did not contemplate staying for a degree neglected to matriculate. And, for college purposes, they are still more imperfect; for they take no note of migrations from one college to another, before or after matriculation.

The following are the recorded matriculations at Gonville Hall until the commencement of our own Register in 1560. The first names,—May, 1544,—include, presumably, every student then resident: the succeeding names are, as a rule, those of the freshmen of each year.

Marchall: fellow-commoner.

Brookman, Thomas: pensioner.

Brookman, Charles: pensioner.

Fowler, James: pensioner. One of these names admitted at the Inner Temple, Feb. 5, 1546–7: perhaps the same who was buried at Weeting in 1585, member of a local family.

Wyseman, John: pensioner. One of these names vicar of Newnham, Herts., 1566–80.

Timperley, Nicholas. Probably son of William Timperley, of Hintlesham, Suffolk.

Doell, Thomas: pensioner.

Goldyngham, Francis: pensioner. Perhaps eldest son of John Goldyngham, of Banham, Norf.

Whyte, Edward: pensioner.

Sackford, Thomas. A Thomas Sackford, of Dedham, Essex, died 1587.

Wood, Robert: pensioner. A Robert Wood, of 'Batterley,' Staffs., was admitted at the Inner Temple, Nov. 17, 1548.

Saunders, George: pensioner.

Rugge, William: pensioner. Son of Robert Repps, or Rugge, mayor of Norwich, and brother of the bishop. Of Felmingham Esq. Admitted at Gray's Inn, 1548. Married Thomasina, daughter of Sir Robert Townsend, of Chester (Vis. of Norf.) Gave 40*s.* for the windows of the chapel in 1571 (Annals). Probably the magistrate reported in 1587 as "suspected, and reckoned to be backward in religion" (Strype Ann. III. ii. 460).

Goldynge: sizar. Afterwards fellow: v. above.

Bateman, John: sizar. Afterwards scholar, and fellow of the college: v. above.

Wyseman, Robert: sizar.

Panell: sizar.

Crane, Richard: sizar. Probably scholar, 1545.

Walpoole: sizar.

Maptytt, John. Afterwards scholar: v. above.

Amye: sizar.

Russell: sizar.

Lawes: sizar.

Buckenham, William. Perhaps son of Thomas, of Wortham, who died about 1559; and is mentioned in the will of William Buckenham, the master.

Hartstongue, James: sizar. Probably of South Repps, Norfolk. Married Margaret, daughter of Henry Repps, of S. Repps (see Vis. of Norf.). James Hartstongue, of S. Repps, was lay rector of Houghton: it is reported at the diocesan visitation of 1597 that "the seates in the churche are very fowly kept, with birdes and fowles."

Morton, Richard: pensioner: Nov. 1544. One of these names was rector of Illington, Norf., 1556–66.

Cornewallis, William: pensioner: Nov. 1544. Probably fourth son of Sir John Cornwallis, of Brome. (v. Vis. of Suff.)

Wylmer, John: pensioner: Nov. 1544. Scholar, 1547–9.

Townsend, John: pensioner: May 1545.

Alltam, Richard: sizar: May 1545.

*Smythe, Sabine: sizar: May 1545. Scholar 1551–3: B.A. 1553–4: M.A. 1558. One of the fellows nominated in the charter of Dr Caius, 1557. Ordained acolyte and sub-deacon (Linc.) Dec. 18, 1557; "ad titulum societatis de Gonv. et Caius":—the earliest reference I have seen to the new name of the college. 'Knight's salarist,' Aug. 2, 1560. Rector of Worlingworth, Suff., 1573–99. Probably nephew of William Sabine, bailiff of Ipswich, whose sister married a Smith (Davy).

Layer, John: sizar: May 1545. Probably eldest son of William Layer, of Norwich. If so, married Anne, daughter of Robert Skite, and died 1560. (Vis. of Norf.).

*Vincent, John: fellow-commoner: Nov. 1545. Doubtless the same who is mentioned above, as a fellow of the college in 1546.

Hare, Michael: fellow-commoner: Nov. 1545. Eldest son of Sir Nicholas Hare, (see back, p. 18): from whom he inherited an estate at Bruisyard, Suff. Admitted at the Inner Temple, Dec. 1, 1547. Married (1) Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Hubbard, of Hale's Hall, Norf.; (2) Mary, daughter of Sir Thos Brudenell, of Deene, Northants. Buried at Bruisyard, Suff., Ap. 11, 1611. Left his manors to his brother Robert. Doubtless the same who is returned as a recusant in 1586, fine £50; and in 1594, £140 (Strype; Ann. III. ii. 422); and was imprisoned in Norwich Gaol, 1580, as a Papist. Previously imprisoned by Grindal, Nov. 15, 1570, who expressed a good opinion of him, "very gentle-natured, but nothing relenting in religion" (Strype; Grindal, 223). "Being a Popish Recusant his payments in those times were more than ordinary, yet did he notwithstanding his great buildings,—(of Friston Hall and Bruisyard Hall,)—keep very good hospitality." (Add. 19100; Bruisyard.)

Hare, Robert: fellow-commoner: Nov. 1545. Brother of the above, "An esquire of good worship and wealth, a great lover and preserver of antiquities" (Fuller). Admitted at the Inner Temple, Dec. 1, 1547. Clerk of the Pells. M.P. for Dunwich, 1563. Shortly before his death he inherited Bruisyard from his brother. Donor of MSS. to Trin. Hall, and to the University library. Two small volumes of his collections are in our library. Well known in the University as the compiler of several volumes of Charters and other University documents in the Registry. These were finished in 1587, and he soon after received the thanks of the University. Still more familiar,—by deed, if not by name,—to Cambridge residents by his addition to Dr Mowse's (Master of Trin. H.) "Causey Fund"; a benefaction left in trust of that college for the improvement of the roadways about Cambridge: whence the college arms on the mile stones. Died, unmarried, Nov. 2, 1611: buried in old St Paul's Cathedral. (v. Ath. Cant. and D. N. B.)

Cunstable, Robert: sizar: May 1546. Perhaps rector of Irstead, Norf., 1554–6.

Shaxton, Leonard: sizar: May 1546. Probably of W. Bilney, Norf., gent. Will proved (Norw.) 1621. See Vis. of Norf.

Pope, Henry. Matriculated May 1546.

Gonell, William: fellow-commoner: Nov. 1546. Relative perhaps of the William Gonell of Landbeach, Cambs (v. p. 28), the friend and correspondent of Erasmus. (v. Cooper, Ath. I. 94).

Tyrell, Thomas: fellow-commoner: Nov. 1546. One of these names rector of Birdbrook, Essex; presented by Richard Tyrell, Esq., Dec. 1551. Richard Tirrell, Esq. was buried at Ashdon, Ess., June 26, 1566.

Buttey: pensioner in 1546.

Cornwallis, Thomas: fellow-commoner: Nov. 1546. Perhaps elder brother of William above; afterwards Sir Thomas Cornwallis, of Brome, Suffolk.

Brand, Simon: fellow-commoner: Nov. 1546. One of these names was canon of Walsingham Priory: surrendered, 1538–9: in receipt of a pension of £4. 6. 8 in 1555. Rector of St Peter's, Thetford, 1571: died there, 1572–3. Rector of Hilgay, Norf., till 1572. Will proved at Norwich.

Walker, Henry: sizar: Nov. 1546. Probably son of Henry Walker, M.D., Regius Prof. of Physic (see p. 27). If so, he inherited lands from his father, in 1564, at Langham, Norfolk; together with the lease of the rectory.

Paston, William: pensioner: Nov. 1546. Son of Erasmus Paston. Of Oxnead,

Norf., knt. Married Frances, daughter of Sir Thomas Clere, of Stokesby. One of the Norfolk magistrates described by Bp Feak, in 1587, as "observers of laws" (Strype, Ann. III. ii. 460). Gave £100 towards the building of the college hall in 1606. Died 1610: buried at N. Walsham. (v. Vis. of Norf.)

Paston, Thomas: pensioner: Nov. 1546. Brother of William above. Probably admitted at Lincoln's Inn, Oct. 31, 1552. Died without issue.

Man: pensioner, 1546–7. B.A. 1544.

Butt: scholar in 1547. Not improbably Thomas, second son of Sir William Butts, formerly of the college (p. 17). Of Great Ryburgh, Norf., gent.; where he built the hall. Married Bridget, daughter of Henry Bures, Esq., of Acton, Suff. Buried at Ryburgh, Jan. 22, 1592–3. M. I. there. Will proved (Norw.) 1593. Some verses by him are given by Masters, in his Hist. of Corpus, to which college he left a legacy.

Reve, Robert: sizar: May 1548.

Goldynge, Edward: sizar: May 1548. An Edmund Golding was rector of Gt Dunham, Norf., 1566–72; and of Birdbrook, Essex, 1572. Died the same year.

Bolney, Nicholas: sizar: May 1548.

Goldinge, Robert: sizar: May 1548. Scholar in 1551.

Bullocke, Robert: sizar: May 1548. Scholar in 1547. Perhaps rector of Avington, Hants., 1554; and of Itchin Abbas, 1560.

Barrett, Edward: sizar: May 1548. Scholar in 1551. B.A. (Pemb.) 1552–3: M.A. 1556. Fellow of Pembroke, 1556. Incorporated at Oxford, July 29, 1560. Fellow of Eton College, 1563.

Cocker, Robert: sizar: May 1548.

Germyn, Thomas: sizar: Nov. 1548. Perhaps son of Edmund Jermyn, of Sturston, Norfolk.

Germyn, John. Presumably brother of above; admitted at Gray's Inn, 1552.

Payton, Thomas: sizar: Nov. 1548.

Fryer, Alexander: sizar: Nov. 1548. Scholar, 1551. Perhaps son of Thomas Frier or Frere, of Occold, Suffolk. (v. Vis. of Norf. 1563.)

Lovell, Francis: sizar: Nov. 1548. Probably son and heir of Sir Francis Lovell, knt., whose will was proved (P. C. C.) May 17, 1552.

*Soon (Sone); resident, probably as fellow, 1548–55. William Sone, B.A. 1546–7: M.A. 1549. Reg. Prof. of Law, 1561. Afterwards refused to conform to the reformed doctrines, went abroad, and was for many years professor of Law at Louvain. Afterwards at Cologne, where he assisted Ortelius the geographer. Living there in 1575. Author. Annotationes in Pomponium Melam 1575. In Novos Orbis Terrarum Incolas. Account of the University of Cambridge. Epistolæ Variæ. (v. Ath. Cant.)

Brooke, Thomas: fellow-commoner: May 1549.

Waterman, William: pensioner: May 1549. One of these names, said to be of Cambridge (Cooper, Ath. I. 155), was author of 'A Fardle of Facions conteining the aunciente Maners, Customes, and Lawes of the peoples inhabiting the two partes of the earth called Affricke and Asie, 1555' (translation). Also Latin verses on the death of Jane Seymour; and on the two Dukes of Suffolk:—these latter died in 1551. The Fardle is published in Hakluyt (Vol. v. 1809). The dedication suggests an older man than an average student of this date: but I can find no one else of the name at Cambridge. William Waterman, M.A., was Master of Bury St Edmund's school, 1553–83.

Sutfylde, Thomas: sizar: May 1549.

Simons, William: pensioner: May 1550.

Buckenham, John: pensioner: May 1550. Perhaps the younger brother of William, of 1544. William and John are mentioned in the father's will, 1559.

Norton, Walter: sizar: May 1550. One of these names admitted at Gray's Inn, 1553.

Coote, Francis: pensioner: Nov. 1550. One of these names, gentleman usher to Queen Elizabeth, was buried in the chancel of S. Lopham, Norf., June 15, 1589. (v. Norf. Vis.)

Poste; fellow-commoner, 1551.

*Wilkinson: fellow, apparently, 1551–7.

Hawes, John: scholar in 1551. Ordained deacon (Lond.) Oct. 4, 1551: "scholaris in Gunwell Hall, ubi morans fuit per septem annos": born in Walsham in the Willows, Suff.: age 36.

Watson, Thomas. Ordained at Norwich, June 4, 1563: described as being of Gonv. and Caius College; 28 years of age. "Mediocriter intelligit linguam latinam." Perhaps rector of Wacton, Norf., 1567–1613.

Wynkefylde, Humfrey: pensioner: May 1551. Perhaps son of Robert Winckfield. Of Brantham, Suff., Esq. Married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Nevill, of 'Owldholt,' Essex (v. Suff. Arch. VII. 67). Will proved (Norw. C. C.) Nov. 9, 1612. Mentions wife Anne; son Thomas, to whom he leaves the manor of Cressing Hall, Stutton: brother Thomas executor.

Goldingham, Anthony: pensioner: May 1551. B.A. 1559: M.A. 1562. One of these names, clerk, of Suffolk, was certified as a fugitive over the sea, Jan. 29, 1576–7 (Strype, Ann. II. ii. 596): perhaps the same who was vicar of Little Belstead, Suff., 1561–3.

Goldynge, Thomas: sizar: May 1551. A Thomas Golding, son and heir of Richard, of Henny, Essex, was admitted at the Mid. Temple, Nov. 15, 1559.

Gybbons, Humfrey: pensioner: May 1552. Humphrey Guybon, of Stradsett, Norf., was Sheriff of the county, 1596. Died Aug. 6, 1601: buried at Castleacre. Probably the Humfrey Gibbon, described as a magistrate "rich, but of no religion" in a report by the bishop to the Lord Treasurer, Oct. 1587 (Strype, Ann. III. ii. 460). Pedigree in Vis. of Norfolk.

Hynton, Thomas: sizar: May 1552.

Pagrave, John: pensioner: Nov. 1552. Perhaps son and heir of Clement Pagrave of Barningham, Norf., Esq; admitted at the Middle Temple, Aug. 18, 1554.

Cobbe, Geoffrey: pensioner: Nov. 1552. Either a son of William, of Sandringham, a minor in 1546; died 1581:—or third son of Edmond, born before 1536, and living in 1584. (Vis. of Norf.)

Rowlands, John: sizar: Nov. 1552. B.A. 1556–7. M.A. 1560. Our earliest "wrangler": his name appears as 6th out of 28, in the list of seniority.

Owen, Richard: sizar: Nov. 1552. Perhaps rector of Ravensden, Beds., 1554.

Bushoppe, Gregory: fellow-commoner: May 1553. Perhaps M.A. 1555, and rector of Hockwold, 1547–80.

Tyndall, William: pensioner: aged 12. May 1553. Admitted at Lincoln's Inn, Dec. 8, 1562. Afterwards Sir W. Tyndall, knight, of Hockwold, Norf. Will proved (P. C. C.) Oct. 8, 1591. Eldest son of Sir Thomas.

Tyndall, John: pensioner: aged 10. May 1553. Admitted at Lincoln's Inn, Dec. 8, 1562. Of Great Maplestead, Essex. LL.D. Master in Chancery. Knighted July 23, 1603. Married Anne, daughter of Thomas Egerton, Esq. His daughter, Margaret, married John Winthrop, Governor of Massachusetts. Murdered by John Bertman, Nov. 12, 1616, for giving judgment in a cause against him.

Tyndall, Henry: pensioner: age 8. May 1553. Youngest son of Sir Thomas Tyndall, knight: brother of John, above, and of Humphrey, of 1555; and half-brother of William above (v. Searle's Queens' College).

Bakon, William: pensioner: 1553.

Davys, Richard: pensioner: 1553.

Ratclyffe, Charles: pensioner: 1553. Scholar, 1556.

Winkefelde, Thomas: fellow-commoner: May 1554. Probably brother of Humphrey, above; his executor in 1612.

Wythypoll, Paul: pensioner: May 1554. Eldest son of Edmund Wythypoll, Esq., of Ipswich. Admitted at Gray's Inn, 1555. Of Rendlesham, Suff., Esq. Married Dorothy, daughter of Thomas, Lord Wentworth: (she afterwards married Sir Martin Frobisher). Died during his father's lifetime. For him and his brothers see Metcalfe's Vis. of Suffolk. The father is presumably the "old Mr Wythipoll of Ipswich," who was a friend of Gabriel Harvey (v. Three proper letters, &c. 1580).

Wythypoll, Bartholomew: pensioner: May 1554. Third son. Died during his father's lifetime. He and his brother Daniel are mentioned in G. Harvey's Letter-book (Camden Soc. 1884, p. 57):

> "But prey the see where Withipolls cum,
> Daniel and Batt both atonse
> In soothe their old copesmate thou wert
> Else would they not voutsafe the onse."

Wythypoll, Edward: pensioner: May 1554. Fourth son. Admitted at Gray's Inn, 1553. Of Ipswich, Esq. Married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Brewsse, knight, of Wenham.

Wythypoll, Daniel: pensioner: May 1554. Probably scholar, as "Whypple," in 1554. Fifth son. B.A. 1559–60. Died without issue.

Grymstone, Edward: pensioner: May 1554. Perhaps of Oxburgh, Norf. (See Vis. of Norf.). One of these names admitted at Gray's Inn, 1559.

Southwell, John: pensioner: May 1554. Probably eldest son of John, of Barham, Suff.: ancestor of the Viscounts Southwell. (v. Vis. of Suff.)

Vaghan, Stephen: pensioner: May 1554. Probably 'Stephen Vaughan, of London,' admitted at the Inner Temple, Oct. 21, 1564: and the Inquis. post mortem of whose father,—the owner of considerable property in London,—is given in the Index Library (Rec. Soc.). He was at that time (1552) over 12 years of age. Probably father of Stephen of Oct. 16, 1580.

Coulthurst, Edward: pensioner: May 1554.

Casselton, Hugh: sizar: May 1554. Scholar 1556–8. B.A. 1559–60: M.A. 1563: B.D. 1569. A tutor in college from Sep. 1561 to 1562. Rector of a mediety of Scarning, Norf., 1567; and of the other mediety 1568. (A. J.) Rector of Pulham, Norf., and of Thornden, Suff., 1583. Vicar of St Peter Mancroft, Norwich, 1572–88. Rector of Melton All SS., Norf., 1579. Preb. of Norwich, 1577. Described in 1586 as "a preacher; negligent; non-resident (at Pulham); three or four benefices" (Part of a Register). In 1588 he was deputed by the dean of Norwich, Gardiner, to refer a dispute in which the chapter was involved to the Lord Treasurer (Strype, Ann. III. ii. 61). Died 1614–5. Will proved (Dean and chap. C. Norw.) Feb. 25, 1615–6 : wife Ann executrix.

Upkoberts, John : sizar : May 1554.

Ardds (?), John : sizar : May 1554.

Sherman, Francis : pensioner : Nov. 1554.

Bakon, Nicholas : pensioner : Nov. 1554. Not improbably the eldest son of Sir Nicholas, the Lord Keeper. If so, he was of Redgrave, Suffolk. Admitted at Gray's Inn, 1562 : 'ancient,' 1576. Knighted at Norwich, Aug. 22, 1578. H. Sheriff of Suff., 1571. M.P. for Suff. 1572–83. Created baronet 1611. Died Nov. 22, 1624 : buried at Redgrave. (D. N. B.)

Chapman, Edmund : sizar : 1554. B.A. (Trin.) 1558–9 : M.A. 1562 : B.D. 1569 : D.D. 1578. Incorporated at Oxford, 1578. Fellow of Trin., 1562. Ordained deacon (Norw.), as 'Chapman alias Barker,' June 8, 1566. Canon of Norwich, 1569–76 : when he was deprived. A zealous puritan, "entered into the choir at Norwich, with some other prebendaries, forcibly broke down the organs, and committed other disorders." Preacher at Bedford, 1572 ; and at Dedham, Essex, 1577. Married a sister of William Cardinal, of Bromley. Monument at Dedham. (v. Cooper Ath. I. 382.)

Fawcet, Miles : sizar : Nov. 1554.

Denbye, Michael : sizar : Nov. 1554. Scholar 1556–9, when he was butler ('promus'). B.A. 1560–1. Ordained deacon (Ely) 1560. Rector of Scarning, Norf,, 1584 ; where he kept school for many years. Rector of Tivetshall, Norf., 1596 :—in the diocesan Visitation of 1597 he is reported, "hath not read the injunctions this twelve months : he teacheth a few children." Rector of Kempston, Norf., where he is referred to in Part of a Register as "no preacher : a benefice-monger." Will proved (Norw.) as 'of Tivetshall,' 1599. In a chapel at Scarning, which now serves as vestry, his name is cut, "A.D. 1576, M. Denby" (A. J.).

Brodocke, Henry : sizar : Nov. 1554. Scholar 1555–9. One of these names "L. L. B." was rector of Hanworth, Midds., 1572–82.

*Dyrrycke (Dethick), Henry : sizar : Nov. 1554. B.A. 1556–7 : M.A. 1560. (Apparently incorporated at Oxford : B.A. 1568–9 : M.A. 1572.) B.D. 1565. One of the fellows nominated in the charter of Dr Caius, 1557. Tutor in the college for some time till Oct. 1562. Steward, 1559. Bursar, 1559–60. Arts lecturer, 1560. Salarist, 1565. Probably youngest son of Simon Dethick, of Wormegay, Norf., who died 1542 (v. Norf. Vis.) One of the witnesses to Bp Shaxton's will in 1565. University preacher, 1565. Obtained the college testimonial for holy orders, June 23, 1561. Expelled by the master during the disputes of 1565, and appealed to the Archbishop. "The drift was as he (Abp. Parker) judged, for Dethick to continue such sticklers in the College, of his pupils, as might win him in time by hook or by crook, the Master's room..... He meant, within the compass of that year, to have bestowed Dethick in some benefice....but because they liked not of this, as trusting of further friendship elsewhere, the Archbishop gave them over" (Strype, Parker I. 396). Perhaps vicar of Orpington, Kent, 1567. He was imprisoned by the mandate of Parker, but was released in July 1571, and allowed to go abroad on making a present to the college of £40 (Annals). It seems therefore very probable that he is the "Dr Dethick" mentioned in a list of "rebels, traitors, &c., beyond sea," Dec. 23, 1590 (Lansd. 68, p. 157). He was apparently living at Liège, and is called a canon of St Paul's there, "a man of great riches in money and jewells." There is a note against his name, in an early hand, "preb. of Norwich." Perhaps author of, Feriæ sacræ VIII libris comprehensæ, in quibus naturæ Fabularum et Gratiæ Leges exprimuntur carmine. Lond. 1577.

Goodwyn, Vincent: sizar: Nov. 1554. Ordained priest (Linc.), Ap. 8, 1562. Rector of Oakington, Cambs, 1564. Rector of Cley, Norf.: in 1603 the value of Cley is returned as £22. 13. 4: Vincent is described as "homo infirmus; non comparuit." Rector of Whissonset, 1572–7. Rector of Maltby, 1571. Preacher at Yarmouth, 1570–84; when he was suspended. (v. Browne's Norf. and Suff.) Will proved (Norw.), as 'of Cley,' 1606.

Vowell, George: pensioner: May 1555. Perhaps rector of Colney, Norf., 1592–1600.

Vowell, William: pensioner: May 1555. Perhaps rector of Gunton, Norf., 1580. Will of Wm Vowell, clerk, of Brancaster, proved (Norw. C. C.) 1583–4.

Harte, Francis: pensioner: May 1555. One of these names admitted at Gray's Inn, 1564.

Rudston, Thomas: pensioner: May 1555. One of these names was lord of the manor in Swaffham Bulbeck, Cambs., at this time: son of William of Ely; and father of Thomas, who married Jane, daughter of Edward Ridge. Our student is perhaps the latter.

Copwood, John: pensioner: Nov. 1555.

Fyldinge, Ferdinand: pensioner: Nov. 1555. Probably admitted at Lincoln's Inn, Aug. 21, 1560.

Pegeon, Charles: pensioner: Nov. 1555. Probably fourth son of Thomas Pigion, of East Beckham, Norf. (v. Vis. of Norf.)

Tyndall, Humfrey: pensioner: Nov. 1555. B.A. 1565–6: M.A. 1569: B.D. 1577: D.D. 1582. Scholar of Christ's. Fellow of Pembroke, 1572. Ordained at Peterborough, 1572. Vicar of Soham, Cambs., 1577–1614. Rector of Wentworth, Cambs., 1591–1610. Chancellor of Lichfield, 1586. Preb. of Southwell, 1588–99. President of Queens' College, 1579–1614. Dean of Ely, 1591–1614. Admitted at Gray's Inn, Feb. 20, 1593–4. Died at Ely, Oct. 16, 1614. Monument in the cathedral. (v. Searle's Queens' Coll.)

Holland, Henry: fellow-commoner: May 1556. Son of Sir Thomas Holland, knight, of Estovening, Lincs. B.A. 1559–60: M.A. 1563: B.D. 1570. Fellow and tutor from about 1561 to Mich^s^ 1572. President of the college, 1568. Knight's salarist, 1564. Ordained deacon (Linc.) July 11, 1564. Vicar of Boston, 1571–84. Died 1584. 'Of his liberality he constructed, at a cost of £5, a window of white stone, with iron and glass work, in his college rooms' (Annals).

'Dratsab,' Thomas: pensioner: May 1556. The illegitimate son of Thomas Alabaster, of Hadley, Suff.: mentioned in Bp Shaxton's will: possibly the bishop's sizar or servant.

Garnische, John: sizar: May 1555. Probably of Kenton, Suff.; son of Robert Garneys. Admitted at Gray's Inn, 1562. Married Anne Rokewood.

Symons, William: pensioner: Nov. 1556. B.A. 1559–60: M.A. 1563. One of these names rector of Stock, Essex, 1587; and curate of Buttsbury, Essex, 1592.

Cranwyse, Thomas: pensioner: Nov. 1556. Scholar in 1559.

Bryce, Bernard: sizar: Nov. 1556.

Bakon, William: sizar: Nov. 1556.

Gennye, Christopher: pensioner: May 1557. Perhaps son of John Jenney, of Cressingham: admitted at Lincoln's Inn, Oct. 7, 1560.

Clemans, John: pensioner: May 1557.

Tanne, William: pensioner: May 1557.

Mason, Richard: pensioner: March, 1557–8. B.A. 1563–4. Scholar in 1559. Perhaps rector of Rawreth, Essex, 1576. Rector of Henny Magna, Essex; 1571–82. Rector of Cavendish, 1571–1604.

Tyrrell, William: pensioner: March 1557–8.

*Warner, Stephen: pensioner: March, 1557–8. B.A. 1560–1: M.A. 1564. Scholar in 1559. Fellow till 1566, when he was expelled by the master. He and Dethick appealed to the Chancellor, who supported the master. "It is ordered that henceforth the said Stephen Warner be deprived of all voice or suffrage within the said college and that before the fourth day of February next he depart" (State Pap. Dom. Jan. 4, 1565–6): to be allowed however to retain his fellowship till Michaelmas. They complain "of our most myserable condition if that we (havinge allwayes gyven ourselves to studdie) shall nowe be excluded the colledge, not havinge ellswhere to abyde." A Stephen Warner, of Norfolk, was admitted at Lincoln's Inn, Aug. 4, 1567.

Reade, Richard: pensioner: March 1557–8. One of these names, 'of London,' was admitted at Lincoln's Inn, May 4, 1559.

Sadler, Henry: pensioner: March 1557–8.

Sydnor, William: pensioner: March 1557–8.

Smythe, Thomas: sizar: March 1557–8. B.A. 1560–1. Fellow and tutor in 1561. Died in college: buried at St Michael's, March 23, 1561–2. In the MS. lists in the University Registry he is supposed to proceed to M.A. and B.D. degrees, in 1565 and 1573.

Lunt, William: sizar: March 1557–8. B.A. 1560–1. Scholar in 1559. Fellow and tutor in 1562. Son of John Lunt, of Bury St Edmund's.

Sorratt, Robert: sizar: May 1558.

Betts, John: sizar: Nov. 1558. Perhaps of Irmingland. (v. Vis. of Norf.)

Cownstable, Ch.: sizar: Nov. 1558. Probably Christopher, who was ordained deacon (Norw.) June 8, 1566; and priest (do.) May 23, 1567. Vicar of Methwold, Norf., 1573–1604. Will proved at Norwich, 'of Methwold,' 1604.

Bulward, John: sizar: Nov. 1558.

Mollose, W.: sizar: Nov. 1558.

Paget, Thomas: fellow-commoner: May 1559. Second son of William Lord Paget, of Beaudesert. Succeeded his elder brother Henry as third Lord Paget, Dec. 28, 1568. Admitted at the Middle Temple, May 24, 1561. Like his brother, he was an adherent of Mary Queen of Scots, and much involved in plots. In 1584, on Throgmorton's apprehension, he fled the country. The Bishop of Lichfield complained of him in 1582, as encouraging his servants in disturbing the congregation on Easter Sunday: also at Burton "being bound to find the parishioners communion bread, his officers would have forced them to use little singing cakes, after the old Popish fashion....a pattern whereof I myself do keep to show to your lordships." (v. Strype's Annals III. ii. 216.) The same, probably, who was under-treasurer of the Inner Temple in 1569, and examined by Archbishop Parker as a supposed Papist. (D. N. B.)

Paget, Charles: fellow-commoner: May 1559. Brother of the above. Admitted at the Middle Temple, May 24, 1561. A dangerous and pertinacious plotter against Queen Elizabeth, in favour of Mary. He was involved, amongst other plots, in that of Babington; being a friend and accomplice of John Ballard (afterwards of the college) who was executed for treason. He passed under the name of "Mope." There is an interesting account of him in the confessions of an accomplice,—then in prison,—in 1593. "Paget keeps himself, as he hath ever been, a notable rebel, and a monstrous traitor. He will give anything to hear of her majesty's death.... This old traitor will give money to such as come over to undertake a villainy against the state of England." (Strype's Annals IV. 231.) He lived mostly abroad. Author: An answere made by me, Charles Paget, esquire, to certain untruthes and falsityes, toching myselfe, contayned in a booke, intituled a briefe Apologie or Defence of the Catholic Hierarchie...published about 1602 (v. Jesuits and Seculars, by T. G. Law, 1889). (D. N. B.)

Heathe, Thomas: fellow-commoner: May 1559. One of these names rector of Feltwell St Nicholas, Norf., 1575–85. Vicar of Easton, Norf., 1594–7. Rector of Sutton, Norf., 1617–25.

Heath, Anthony: sizar: aged 9: May 1559. B.A. 1564–5: M.A. 1568.

Est, William: sizar: aged 12: May 1559.

Savery, Thomas: sizar: May 1559.

Genye, W.: sizar: May 1559. Perhaps brother of Christopher, of 1557; and admitted at Lincoln's Inn, Aug. 6, 1565 (v. Vis. of Norf.)

Hayhow, Thomas: sizar: May 1559.

Adam, Henry: pensioner: Nov. 1559.

Fynne, Robert: pensioner: Nov. 1559. Probably admitted at Gray's Inn, 1564.

Welbye, Humfrey: pensioner: Nov. 1559. Doubtless of the family of Gedney, Lincs.; son of Thomas Welby, and cousin of the next student. Admitted at the Middle Temple, Feb. 11, 1564–5: second son of Thomas of Fosdyke, Lincs.

Walpole, John: pensioner: Nov. 1559. Second son of Thomas Walpole of Whaplode. Admitted at Lincoln's Inn, Aug. 11, 1565. Married, Sep. 19, 1569, Jane, daughter of John Roberts. Succeeded to the estates of his elder brother. Buried at Sleaford, 1590. M. I. there. (A. J.)

Hunston, Richard: pensioner: aged 13: Nov. 1559.

Hunston, Henry: pensioner: aged 9. Nov. 1559. Perhaps son of William Hunston, of Walpole, Norf. (v. Vis. of Norf.)

Welbye, Thomas: pensioner: Nov. 1559. Probably brother of Humphrey above. Admitted at Lincoln's Inn, from Furnival's Inn, June 7, 1580.

Irby, Anthony: pensioner: Nov. 1559. Son of Thomas Irby, Esq., of Whaplode Hall, Lincs. Admitted at Lincoln's Inn, May 5, 1569. Bencher of Lincoln's Inn. Recorder of Boston, 1613. M.P. for Boston, 1588–1604. Married Alice, daughter of Thomas Welby, of Moulton. Buried at Whaplode, Oct. 6, 1625 (A. R. M.)

Worlich, Peter: pensioner: Nov. 1559.

Gillie, Martin: pensioner: Nov. 1559.

Holland, Ralph: pensioner: Nov. 1559. Perhaps son of Thurston Holland, of Denton, Norf.

Gaslyng, Nicholas: pensioner: Nov. 1559.

Wolman, Thomas: pensioner: Nov. 1559. Rector of Eriswell, Suff., 1565.

*Spenser, Robert: pensioner: Nov. 1559. B.A. 1562–3. Elected fellow, May 23, 1562; the first of those on the new foundation of Dr Caius. Tutor for a short time. Together with Dethick and Clarke, he was expelled, about 1565, by the Master, who charged him also with perjury. He and Warner complain to the Chancellor, begging "that our master may be ruled by some good man's counsel hereafter, and not to drive the fellows to such chargeable suits and troubles, wherein he delighteth to undo poor men, he never being quiet since he came to the college, as may appear in the number of his expulsions which have been above twenty" (State Pap. Dom., 1565). They appealed to Abp Parker, who thought both parties to blame. They afterwards appealed to the Chancellor (Cecil), who, on Parker's advice, decided "that the fellows should appear willingly to depart from their fellowships, and yet to have one year's profits for their ultimum vale: to be borne for Spencer out of Caius' own purse, and for the other two to be borne by the college" (v. Strype's Parker I. 396). Of these names were the rectors of Skipworth, Yorks., 1571; of Frittenden, Kent, 1574; and of Ingrave, Ess., 1590.

Our last public source of information, before the commencement of our own Admission Lists, is in a Commission of Enquiry, preserved in the University Registry. This gives a list of all the residents in the various colleges in July 1559. The names in our own college are as follows:—

John Caius, Custos.
Hugo Glyn, M.D. (absens, in componendis litibus).
Willelmus Clarke, M.A. (in partibus transmarinis).
Sabinus Smythe, M.A.
Thomas Burre (absens, æger).
John Kettilston (absens, æger).
John Cowell, M.A. (suspens, quousque).
Henry Dethick, B.A.

SCHOLASTICI.

Henry Brodocke.
Robert Norton.
Thomas Cranwise.
Stephen Warner.
Richard Mason.
William Lunte.
Michael Denbie (promus).
Richard Mendham (coquus).

PENSIONARII MAJORES.

Mr William Whinke, B.D.
Mr Thomas Paget } filii Dni Paget de Beaudesert.
Mr Charles Paget }
Mr Robert Welles.
Mr Henry Holland.
Mr Thomas Healthe [Heath].

Most of these have been already mentioned: of the others;

*Glyn, Hugh. B.A. 1548–9: M.A. 1552: M.D. 1559. Proctor in 1556; in which capacity he is frequently referred to in Mere's Diary. One of the fellows in the charter of Sep. 4, 1557, obtained by Dr Caius on his re-foundation of the college. Appointed president by Dr Caius on his election to the mastership, Jan. 1559, but did not reside long: "Mr Glyn did depart from the college, Oct. 15, 1559" (note in Pandectæ). He presented several books to the library, Sep. 8, 1559, including a copy of Seneca, and works of Galen and Pliny:—the notes in the Galen are supposed to be by him. In the first page of the Pliny are the lines, in his hand,

Si tibi sim votis et tu sis utilis illi
Cujus, qui tribuit, Chartula nomen habet.

Afterwards practised physic at Chester, where the College of Physicians gave him a commission to prosecute empirics. (v. Ath. Cant.)

*Clarke, William. B.A. (Peterhouse) 1551–2: M.A. (Gonville H.) 1555. LL.D. 1569. One of the fellows in the charter of 1557. Signed the Marian articles in 1555. Tutor in the college for some time, till about April 1562. Expelled by Dr Caius about 1565, but elected fellow at Clare. He seems to have been involved, with Dethick, in the quarrel with the master, and to have appealed with him to Abp Parker. In our Treasury is an 'acquittance' by him, signed before the V. Chancellor, July 1, 1565, terminating all disputes &c. between himself and the college which he "habuit, habet, vel habere potest, ab initio mundi usque ad presentem diem." Regius Professor of Law, 1563. Advocate of the Court of Arches, 1573. Vicar general and chancellor of Canterbury, 1578. M.P. for Saltash, 1585. (v. Cooper, Ath. I. 382.)

*Kettilston, John. B.A. 1550–1: M.A. 1554. Ordained sub-deacon (Lond.), Dec. 21, 1554. Fellow of Corpus in 1555: signed the Marian articles the same year. One of the fellows nominated in the charter of Dr Caius, 1557. Appointed a lecturer at Caius, Jan. 24, 1559; and to "the Service of St Mary's,"—i.e. Whitaker's salarist,—May 14, 1560. Last appears as fellow, about May 1560.

*Cowell, John. B.A. 1552–3: M.A. 1556. One of the fellows nominated in the charter of Dr Caius, 1557. He relinquished his fellowship, Nov. 26, 1560. (Pandectæ). Probably rector of N. Creake, Norfolk, 1560; buried there in 1562. If so his will was proved (P. C. C.) 1562–3: mentions wife, father, mother, brothers Robert Cowell and Thomas Vowell, and two daughters.

*Norton, Robert. B.A. 1559–60: M.A. 1563: D.D. 1575. Nominated by Peter Hewet as his first scholar, in 1556; when he is described as son of Thomas Norton of Norwich. Resident as a fellow, with pupils, Oct. 1561. He was nominated as "Knight's priest," Ap. 7, 1561. The college regrets that they have "no auncieter man" to present, adding (the words seem those of Dr Caius) "perchance you shall fynde hym basheful of nature, which I have ever muche sett by in a yong man as a token of grace." University preacher, 1569. Rector of Aldborough, Suff., 1572. "To supply the vicarage he (Parker) placed one R. Norton, B.D., a learned man and a good preacher, who was to live amongst them" (Strype, Parker II. 157). Rector of Endgate, Beccles, 1572–80. Principal common-preacher at Ipswich, 1576–85. Rector of Sproughton, 1581–7. Author: Certaine Godlye Homilies on Abdias and Jonas by Rodolph Gualter (translation) 1573. (v. Cooper, Ath. I. 516.) There are some Latin verses by him at the end of the volume, Three proper letters, &c. (between Gab. Harvey and Spenser; Brit. Mus.) (D. N. B.)

Mendham, Richard.

Whinke, William. Elected from Eton to King's College in 1536. B.A. 1540–1: M.A. 1544: B.D. 1555. Ordained deacon and priest (London) Dec. 21, 1553. Vice-provost of King's; but deprived, on the accession of Elizabeth, on account of his attachment to the R. Catholic religion. Probably attracted to the college, like some others about this time, by the known Romish leanings of several of its members. A recusant in 1561: described in a list of Popish clergy as "not unlearned, but subtle and stiff" (v. Cooper, Ath. I. 214), "A little man but a great scholar" (Cole MS. XIV.)

Welles, Robert. Probably a relative of Robert Stuard 'alias Wells,' of 1518: see p. 23. Perhaps rector of Howell, Lincs., 1574.

Our earliest College Admission Register commences in March, 1559–60. From this time onwards the names which follow are taken almost exclusively from it. The omissions appear to be very few, and consist mainly of those who first entered the college as fellows.

MICH^s 1559—MICH^s 1560.

*Paman (Paymont), Clement: of Chevington, Suffolk: son of Robert Paman, mediocris fortunæ, deceased. Age 18. School, Bury St Edmunds, four years. Admitted March 1, 1559–60. Tutor and surety Mr Henry Dethic, M.A. Assigned a cubicle above the well.

B.A. 1562–3. Mentioned as a fellow of the college, taking pupils, during 1564. Ordained deacon and priest (Norw.) Ap. 1, 1569. Parish chaplain of St Pet. Mancroft, Norwich, 1569. Rector of Rushbrook, Suff., 1573–99. Rector of Broome, Norf., 1591–4. Will proved (Norw. C. C.) Dec. 12, 1599. At that time of Ubbeston; where he owned land, and desires to be buried. Mentions wife Mary.

*Sherman, Richard. Brother of John Sherman, below. Appears as fellow and tutor, July 1560 to Dec. 1562. B.A. (Joh.) 1556–7: M.A. (do.) 1560: M.D. (Cai.) 1567. For a short time fellow of St John's. Ordained deacon and priest (Norw.) Jan. 1, 1595–6; as rector of Stratton St Mich. and St Pet., Norf. Rector of Horham, Suff., 1599–1606. There is a reference to him in the register of Bramfield, Suff., by the vicar, "Mr Rabbet, my parishioner, upon causes unto me by him set down, and Mr Sherman, of Moulton, M.D., for the preservation of his health, have given leave to observe such diet as in such causes Mr Sherman have for him set down, according to a statute in such cases made and provided" (dated Lent, 1579).

Stradlyng, Mr John: of Donington in Holland, Lincolnshire. A Welshman ('Patria Camber'). Age 25. Admitted fellow-commoner, Aug. 9, 1560. Assigned the sixth lower cubicle.

Ordained deacon and priest (Lond.) March 25, 1558; when he is described as of Llandaff diocese: title Donington. Doubtless of the family of St Donat's, Glamorgan. Perhaps the man of these names who was a friend and correspondent of W. Camden (v. Epp. p. 50).

Welby, William: of Sutton (in the fens), Lincolnshire: son of Thomas Welbye, gent., deceased. Age 17. School, Whaplode, Lincolnshire, and elsewhere, four years. Admitted July 16, 1560. Assigned the fourth lower cubicle with John Walpole, pensioner. Tutor and surety Richard Sherman, M.A., fellow of the college.

Cousin of his companion, who was a Walpole of Whaplode (see back, 1559). The father, who was of Gedney, Lincs., died in 1557 (A. J.).

Styles, Christopher: matriculated sizar, Dec. 1560. Rector of St Nicholas Acon, Lond., 1573–9; and of St Nich. Cole-abbey, 1582–4. See the admission, Jan. 7, 1597–8, of his son.

Hall, Robert: of Scottow, Norfolk: son of John Hall, gent. of Norwich, deceased. Age 14. School, Norwich, four years. Admitted Sep. 14, 1560. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Mr Henry Dethic, M.A., fellow of the college.

MICH^s 1560—MICH^s 1561.

Sherman, Mr John: of Moulton, Norwich diocese (Little Moulton): son of John Sherman. Age 25. Admitted fellow-commoner, Jan. 13, 1560–1. Assigned a cubicle with his brother and surety, Mr Sherman.

Of Wacton, Norf., gent. Probably the same who married Barbara, daughter of William Drake of Hardley (v. Drake, in Vis. of Norf.). Will dated Ap. 4, proved May 26, 1597; (Norw. C. C.). Mentions brother Richard, the tutor; leaves to son Timothy lands in Moulton, &c.; desires to be buried in Moulton. Pedigree in Vis. of Suff., 1612. (J. J. M.)

Bury, William: of Geldeston ('Gelson'), Norfolk: son of John Burye. Age 19. School, Beccles, three years. Admitted Dec. 18, 1560. Assigned the first lower cubicle. Tutor and surety Mr Henry Dethike, M.A., fellow of the college.

Of Gisleham, Suff., Esq. (next parish to Geldeston). Administration of his effects granted June 28, 1616 (Norw.). Second son of John Bury of Worlingham (v. Vis. of Suff. for pedigree). A William Burye was ordained deacon (Norw.) Sep. 27, 1570.

Ellys, Henry: of Thorpe, Norfolk: son of Hugh Ellys, gent. Age 14. School, Norwich, one year. Admitted Dec. 19, 1560. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Mr Dethic, fellow of the college.

Elys, Hugh: gent.: of Thorpe, Norfolk. Admitted fellow-commoner, and assigned a cubicle.

Presumably he came into residence for a time with his son; he did not matriculate.

Porter, John: of Norwich: son of John Porter. Age 16. School, Norwich, four years. Admitted Feb. 7, 1560–1. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Mr Dethike, fellow.

Smythe, Robert: B.A.: of Thornton, Yorkshire: son of William Smythe. Age 22. School, Pocklington, three years. Admitted Feb. 1, 1560–1. Tutor and surety Mr Richard Sherman, M.A. Assigned the second lower cubicle to the east.

B.A. (St John's) 1560–1.

Whitlam, Rodolph: of Swineshead, Lincolnshire: son of John Whitelam, mediocris fortunæ. School, Swineshead, seven years. Age 12. Admitted pensioner, Feb. 1, 1560–1. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Mr Holland.

Whinke, William: of Terrington St John, Norfolk: son of John Whinke, mediocris fortunæ. School, Lynn, four years. Age 14. Admitted pensioner, Feb. 1, 1560–1. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety Mr Holland.

One of these names was rector of Kirkley, Suff., in 1603.

Sutton, Thomas: of Norwich: son of John Sutton, deceased. Age 16. School, Norwich, five years. Admitted April 8, 1561. Tutor and surety Mr Henry Dethike. Assigned the third lower cubicle.

B.A. 1564–5: M.A. 1568. Ordained deacon (Linc.) 1565: priest (Norw.) Sep. 27, 1570. Probably rector of Eriswell, Suff., 1571: still there in 1603. Suspended in 1584, on account of Abp Whitgift's Articles.

Woulfe, Michael. Matriculated sizar, May 1561.

Remchinge, Henry: of Cove, Suffolk: son of Richard Remchinge, mediocris fortunæ. Age 16. Schools, Swaffham ('Swapham Market'), and Necton, four years. Admitted June 10, 1561. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety Mr Richard Sherman.

Kynge, William: of the city of London. Archdeacon of Northumberland: formerly fellow of King's College. Admitted fellow-commoner, June 10, 1561. Age 29. Assigned the fourth upper cubicle.

B.A. (King's) 1552–3: M.A. 1556: B.D. 1570. Admitted scholar at King's 1548. Archdeacon of Northumberland, 1560–6; when he was deprived for non-residence. Canon of Canterbury, 1564–90. Canon of Windsor, 1573–90. Vicar of Appledore, Kent, 1568–76. Chaplain to Queen Elizabeth. Died at Windsor, Sep. 23, 1590. M.I. in St George's Chapel. (v. Ath. Cant.)

Papworth, John: of Harston, Cambs: son of Silvester Papworth, mediocris fortunæ. Age 12. Schools, Harston, and Newton. Admitted June 10, 1561. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor, Mr Kynge above-mentioned.

Probably the John Papworth of Duxford St John (five miles from Harston) who had a license to practise medicine in 1584 (Marr. Lic. Bk at Ely).

Hall, Richard: M.A., formerly fellow of Pembroke Hall. Of Lincoln diocese. Admitted fellow-commoner, June 12, 1561. Age 25. Assigned the seventh upper cubicle.

B.A. (Pemb.) 1555–6: M.A. (do.) 1559. Fellow of Pembroke till his resignation, July 15, 1560. "Junior thesaurarius" there, 1556, and 1558. Afterwards at Christ's. Ordained deacon (Linc.) 1565. Bp Wren says of him (MS. at Pemb.) "Temporibus Marianis religionem Protestantium probe coluit; sed post tamen ad Pontificios defecit." In 1575 he came to Douay college, where he was made a lecturer; and in 1599, visitor. For some time regent of Marchiennes college; and canon of Cambray. Graduated as D.D. at St Omer. Died at Douay, Feb. 26, 1603–4. Author: De quinque-partita conscientia; Life and death of Bp Fisher; &c. (v. Ath. Cant., and Douay Diary.) (D. N. B.)

*Hammond, Henry: of Swaffham, Norfolk: son of John Hammond, mediocris fortunæ. Age 15. School, Swaffham, three years. Admitted Sep. 13, 1561. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Ds Thomas Smyth, B.A. fellow.

Named by the Bp of Lincoln, in 1574, as one of the four chief moderators who were to be present at the prophesyings. Died 1592. (v. Urwick's Herts.) Will proved (P. C. C.) Sep. 11, 1592. Mentions wife and seven children: legacies to the poor of Letchworth and Broxbourne. One of the same names was vicar of Didlington, Norf., 1570.

Clayton, Edmund: of Retford ('Retforth Luteus') Notts.: son of John Clayton. Age 20. School, Lincoln, three years. Admitted Sep. 13, 1561. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Mr Kinge.

Shancke, Robert: of Rollesby, Norfolk: son of Thomas Shancke, mediocr. fort. Age 14. School, Norwich, two years. Admitted Sep. 14, 1561. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Ds Cusselton, B.A.

Died without issue (Davy). For pedigree, see Suff. Visitation.

MICH^s 1561—MICH^s 1562.

*Staller (Stallard), John: of Norwich: son of John Staller, mediocr. fort. Age 18. School, Norwich, five years. Admitted Oct. 7, 1561. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Ds Norton, B.A.

B.A. 1564–5: M.A. 1568. Appears as fellow and tutor, 1567–72. Bursar 1570–2. Ordained priest (Norw.) Ap. 28, 1564. Rector of St Mich. Coslany, Norw., 1572–80; of Drayton, Norf., 1576–1617; and of St August. Norw., 1590–1617. Held Drayton and St Augustine's together; value £6. 2. 0, and £7. Chaplain to Lord Montagu (Harl. 595). There is a letter from John Elwin (v. p. 26) to the master, in which he says, "I pray you and your company to be good masters unto John Staller, that he may prosper in his learning." Will proved (Norw.) 1618.

Woode, Richard: of Norwich: son of William Woode, mediocris fortunæ. Age 18. School, Norwich, three years. Admitted Oct. 7, 1561. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Ds Norton.

B.A. 1565–6: M.A. 1569: B.D. 1577. Incorporated at Oxford, 1579. D.D. 1583. Fellow of Trinity, 1567. Senior fellow, 1570. Greek lecturer, 1571: senior bursar, 1579: dean, 1580. Canon of St Paul's, 1584; and of Wells, 1587. Rector of Merstham, Surrey, 1584–91. Vicar of All Hallows, Barking, 1584–91. Canon of Westminster, 1587. Rector of Bocking, 1591. Canon of Canterbury, 1597. Rector of Stisted, Essex, 1600–9. Recommended by Whitgift for the deanery of Peterborough or Ely, 1584. Commissioner to visit the deanery of Bocking, 1591. Died Sept. 15, 1609: buried in St Paul's Cathedral. (v. Fasti; and Ath. Cant.)

Gardiner, George: M.A.: of Berwick on Tweed. Formerly fellow of Queens' College. Age 28. Admitted fellow-commoner, Oct. 24, 1561. Assigned the seventh upper cubicle.

B.A. (Qu.) 1554–5: M.A. (Qu.) 1558. D.D. 1570. Ordained acolyte and sub-deacon (Linc.) Dec. 18, 1557: title from the master of Christ's. "A pluralist amongst pluralists...had been conspicuous as a persecutor of the gospellers in Cambridge in Mary's time...now become a violent Puritan. He held at various times no less than 14 pieces of preferment: at his death he was Dean, Chancellor, and Archdeacon of Norwich, and rector of Ashill, Blofield and Forncett, besides holding one or two other benefices" (A. J.). Chaplain to the Queen; preb. of Norwich; minister of St Andrew's, Norwich; rector of St Martin Outwich, London; rector of Swaffham, Hellesdon, and West Stow, Norf. Buried in Norwich Cathedral, 1588; M. I. there. According to his brother's admission entry his father's name was Cuthbert, not George as generally stated. (v. D. N. B.; and Ath. Cant.)

Aldred, W. Matriculated pensioner, Nov. 1561.

Burton, Ralph. Matriculated pensioner, Nov. 1561.

Bullocke, Simon: B.A.: of Berwick on Tweed: son of George Bullocke, gent. Age 19. School, Durham, four years. Admitted Nov. 14, 1561. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Mr Gardiner.

B.A. (Qu.) 1560–1: M.A. 1569. Ordained deacon (Norw.) Oct. 13, 1564. Rector of Gt Hautbois, Norf., 1564–9. Vicar of Scottow, 1564–8. Rector of St Clem. Norw., 1568–74. Will proved (Norw.) 1574: brother in law, George Gardiner, above, supervisor.

Gardiner, German: of Berwick on Tweed: son of Cuthbert Gardiner, gent. Age 21. School, Durham, four years. Admitted Nov. 14, 1561. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Mr Gardiner, his brother.

Rector of St Sim. and St Jude, Norw., 1579–82: of Thorpe, Norf., 1569–86: of Kirkby Kane, 1570–71: of Beighton, 1583. He is referred to in the "Part of a Register," 1586, as having left Thorpe: "no preacher: run away to Durham." The father's name, 'Cuthbert,' seems a correction.

Tendall (Tyndall), Francis: born at Burnham Market, Norfolk: son of Thomas Tendall, knt., of Hockwold, Norfolk. Age 17. Educated in the house of William Farmer, knt., at East Barsham, for four years. Admitted Nov. 14,

1561. Tutor and surety Mr H. Dethicke, M.A., fellow. Assigned a cubicle under the library. (Three of his brothers were admitted in 1553.)

Of Lincoln's Inn: admitted Aug. 14, 1585. Died unmarried in 1631, and left a legacy to Queens' Coll., of which his brother Humphrey was president (v. p. 39). Described as of Pinner, Middx. (v. Vis. of Essex, 1634.)

Catlyn, Richard: of Norwich: son of Richard Catlin, gent., 'legum Angliæ peritus.' Age 14. At school at Norwich and in London, four years. Admitted Nov. 14, 1561. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Mr H. Dethicke, M.A.

Re-admitted, as fellow-commoner, Feb. 16, 1563–4. Admitted at Lincoln's Inn, Nov. 25, 1566. Lord of the manor of Woolverstone, Suff. Married Dionysia, daughter of Thos Marsh, Esq., clerk of the Star Chamber. Died July 17, 1596. Will proved (Norw. C. C.) Oct. 1, 1598, "of Woolverstone." His father, who was of Honingham, Serjeant-at-Law, purchased the Chantry of St Mich. Coslany. (Strype, Mem. II. ii. 402.)

Cousen, Edmund: B.D.: of Bedfordshire. Age 50. Formerly Master of St Catharine's Hall. Admitted Nov. 20, 1561. Assigned the first upper cubicle.

B.A. (King's Hall) 1534–5: M.A. 1541. Fellow of King's Hall, 1537. Original fellow of Trin. Coll., 1546. Proctor, 1545. Master of Cath. Hall, 1554–9; when he was expelled, after the accession of Queen Elizabeth. Vicar of Caistor H. Trin., about 1554. Rector of Oxburgh, 1554–8. Rector of Thorpland, 1554–8. Commissary of the archdeacon of Norf., 1555–9; and official to the same, 1553–7. (v. Ath. Cant., and D. N. B.)

Dorington, John: of Stafford: son of Robert Dorington, gent. Age 14. School, Stafford, one year. At St Catharine's Hall three years. Admitted Dec. 19, 1561. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Mr E. Cousen.

A John Dorington was knighted at Whitehall, July 23, 1603. M.P. for Hunts., 1584. Of Spaldwick, Hunts. Will proved, 1604. (Howard's Misc. II. 29.)

Vulpe, John: of Quinqueecclesiæ (i.e. Fünfkirchen, or Pecs), Hungary: gent. Age 37. Admitted fellow-commoner, Feb. 11, 1561–2. Assigned a cubicle next the Master.

M.D. 1569. Physician to the Earl of Sussex. Archdeacon of Glendaloch, Ireland, 1569–72. Probably lived till 1594. (v. Ath. Cant.)

Stile, Henry: M.A.: of Enfield, Middlesex: formerly fellow of Trinity College, but afterwards a monk ('Monachus Monasteriensis'). Age 40. Admitted Feb. 12, 1561–2. Assigned the eighth cubicle, with Ds Hollonde.

B.A. 1550–1: M.A. 1554. Subscribed the Marian articles, 1554. Fellow of Trinity in 1551, 3, and 5. If, as I presume, 'Monasteriensis' refers to the re-foundation of Westminster under Mary (for where else could he well have been a monk after 1555?) he is doubtless the old monk, Henry Stils, whose death is recorded at the Abbey of St Ghislain, Flanders, Oct. 17, 1588. He was blind, and "had a long time before taken refuge from the religious troubles in England, and the persecutions of Catholics and above all of the religious, many of whom came to seek an asylum in the Low Countries" (v. Gasquet's English Monasteries II. 475). He arrived at Douay College, May 18, 1579.

Fernesley, Samuel: of Reed, Herts.: son of John Fernesley, mediocris fortunæ. Age 16. School, Elmdon? ('Elmdam') Suffolk, for two years. Admitted March 15, 1561–2. Tutor and surety Mr Hollond, fellow.

Longe, Henry: gent.: of London. Son of Richard Longe, knt. (gent. of the Privy Chamber of Henry VIII.). Age 18. Admitted fellow-commoner March 15, 1561–2. Assigned the seventh upper cubicle.

Afterwards of Shingay, Esq. Married Dorothy, daughter of Nicholas Clarke Esq. of Weston. Died Ap. 15, 1573, leaving one daughter. M.I. in St Andrew in the Wardrobe, London (Stow, p. 407)

Nomine Longus (? erat) vita brevis, inclitus ortu,
Ingenio præstans et pietatis amans.

Trivilian, Walter: gent.: of 'Churchdown, near Moulton,' Durham (error for Devon). Son of Henry Trivilian, gent. Age 25. Admitted fellow-commoner, March 15, 1561–2. Assigned the seventh cubicle, with Henry Longe.

Ordained deacon by the Abp of Cant., Feb. 7, 1562–3; when he is described as of Exeter diocese.

Clerke, Edward: of Bures, Suff.: son of Thomas Clerke, mediocris fortunæ. Age 15. School, Bures, five years. Admitted Ap. 7, 1562. Assigned a cubicle with his brother, Mr Clerke, his tutor and surety.

One of these names was rector of Morley, Norf., 1571–89.

Ruthall, Edward: matriculated pensioner, May 1562.

Cutts, Henry: gent.: of Thornham, Kent. Age 29. Son of Henry Cutts, gent. Admitted fellow-commoner, May 1, 1562. Assigned the ninth lower cubicle.

Sir Henry Cutts, knight, of Binbury, Thornham, Kent. Married Barbara, daughter of Matthew Bradbury of Littlebury, Essex. Died without issue, Dec. 12, 1603. Buried in Thornham Church, in a chancel built by his wife,—who afterwards married three times,—to his memory (v. Hasted, II. 495; and Howard's Misc. Gen. and Herald. II. 28). There is a Latin letter from him to Sir W. Cecil, dated June 4, 1590, "domicilio meo Bemberig" (Lansd. 64).

*Valenger, Stephen: B.A.: of Watlington, Norfolk: son of Robert Valenger, gent. Age 21. School, Aylsham, five years. Admitted fellow-commoner, May 11, 1562. Tutor and surety Mr Henry Dethike, M.A. Assigned the sixth lower cubicle.

B.A. 1559–60: M.A. 1563. Fellow and tutor, 1562–8. MS. 103, in our library (extracts from Henry of Huntingdon, and Geoffrey of Monmouth), was his gift. Probably the Stephen Valenger who was in the Fleet prison in 1586,—having then been confined four years,—for a "libel," i.e. a ballad in favour of Campian, the Jesuit martyr; and who was condemned to lose his ears, and stand in the pillory (v. Foley, III. 608). Also reported as a recusant in 1587 (Strype, Ann. III. ii. 600). It seems probable; as the sufferer, a known ballad writer of the time, is mentioned in a letter by Gabriel Harvey, written from Cambridge to Spenser in 1580, as a poet, and as "our Mr Valenger" (Three proper letters, &c.: the ballad is printed by the Ballad Society, in Ballads from MSS.).

Nicolls, William: of Norwich: son of Edmund Nicholls, mediocris fortunæ. Age 38. School, Norwich, seven years. Admitted fellow-commoner, Oct. 19, 1562. Tutor and surety Mr H. Dethike, M.A. Assigned the fifth lower cubicle.

Lunt, John: of Bury St Edmunds: son of John Lunt, mediocris fortunæ. Age 18. School, Bury, one year. Admitted Nov. 10, 1562. Assigned a cubicle with his brother, W. Lunt, fellow of the college, his tutor and surety.

Stephens, John: of Teffont ('Tevent'), Wilts.: son of John Stephens, mediocris fortunæ. Age 23. School, Norwich, four years. Admitted Nov. 10, 1562. Assigned a cubicle with Mr R. Sherman, M.A., his tutor and surety.

Probably the same who was ordained deacon June 4, and priest Oct. 18, 1560; by Bp of London. Rector of Long Stratton, Norf., 1562–96:—so described when readmitted ('Stephens alias Baberstocke') Nov. 28, 1569.

Wylkyns, Charles: of Stanningfield, Suffolk: son of William Wylkyns, mediocris fortunæ. Age 20. School, Bury St Edmunds, four years. Admitted Dec. 3, 1562. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Mr R. Spencer, fellow.

Roccatagliata, Sebastian: son of Bartholomew Roccatagliata. Born at Genoa. At school there as a boy, and afterwards 'in Aula Archiepiscopali' till 22. Age 33. Admitted to the scholars' table, Dec. 29, 1562. Tutor and surety Mr Francis Dorington, president. Assigned a cubicle with Ds Holand.

Ordained deacon and priest (Lond.) Oct. 18, 1560; when he is described as of Winchester diocese.

*Dorington, Francis. Mentioned as fellow and tutor from about Dec. 1562 to Dec. 1565. Doubtless from Stafford. B.A. 1555–6: M.A. 1559: B.D. (Queens') 1565: D.D. 1575. Knight's priest, 1561. President, 1564. Rector of Saham Toney, Norf., 1563–89; and of Warboys, Hunts., 1565. A prominent character in the college quarrels between master and fellows, 1565. They complain of "the contumacy towards Mr Vice-Chancellor, the fighting with the fellows, and the bloodshed committed by Mr Dorington"; and pray the chancellor "that he be not further maintained in the college" (State Pap. Dom. 1565). They also state that he persisted in remaining in college though "he had two cured livings." It is ordered that he relinquish his fellowship before March 26, 1566. He seems to have returned to a friendly feeling by 1582, as he gave a sum of money towards an East window for the chapel, containing the arms of Gonville, Caius, Bateman, and himself, with the inscription "amice dedit" (Annals). In 1589 he gave a window to the hall.

*Trott, Matthew. Occurs as fellow and tutor, Feb. 1562–3 to Nov. 1567. B.A. (Trin.) 1559–60: M.A. 1563. We have a letter from him to Dr Caius, dated Cambridge, June 4, 1566; on college business (MS. 714). In 1595, Frances, wife of a Matthew Trott, gent., of Hockering, was returned a recusant. Patron of Hingham rectory, Norfolk, 1584 (v. Blomef. II. 424).

Parker, Edward: of Brent Pelham, Herts.: son of (Sir Henry Parker) Lord Morley. Age 11. Admitted Feb. 10, 1562–3. Tutor and surety Mr Trott, fellow. Assigned the eighth upper cubicle to the west, between the Chapel and the Library. Paid seven pounds for the decorations of his room, which were afterwards presented to the college.

Succeeded his father, as Lord Morley 1577 (G. E. C.). Married Elizabeth, daughter of William Stanley, Lord Monteagle. Father of the Lord Monteagle through whom the Gunpowder Plot was discovered. One of the peers who gave judgment upon Mary Queen of Scots. Died at Stepney, Ap. 1, 1618: buried there. See Thomas Parcar, p. 61.

Baker, Thomas: of East Walton, Norfolk: son of Thomas Baker, gent. Age 15. School, Swaffham, three years. Admitted Feb. 13, 1562–3. Assigned a cubicle with Ds Valenger, B.A., his tutor and surety.

The wife of Thomas Baker, gent., of E. Walton is returned as a Popish recusant in 1596: "his living £50 a year" (E. Ang. II. 160). He married Cicely, daughter of....Madder of Norwich, by whom he had three daughters (Vis. of Norf. 1589). A sister of his married Leonard Shaxton of W. Bilney.

Nephew of the 'Apostle of the North.' His father, Randolph, died in 1587 (J. J. M.). Pedigree in Hunter's Fam. Min. Gentium, p. 1099.

Ball, Robert: of Scottow, Norfolk: son of John Ball, gent. Age 18. School, Scottow, three years. Admitted fellow-commoner, Feb. 12, 1563–4. Tutor and surety Mr Dorington, fellow. Assigned the sixth lower cubicle to the east.

Robert Ball, gent., had a præcipe, 18th Eliz., to render to Robert Duke the manor of Wace's, Thuxton (Blomef. x. 253).

Busbey, Humfrey: of Eye, Suffolk. Doctor of Laws. Age 53. At Trinity Hall 23 years. Admitted fellow-commoner, March 28, 1564. Surety Mr Dorington, fellow. Assigned the fourth upper cubicle.

LL.B. (Tr. Hall) 1535–6: LL.D. 1543. Regius Prof. of Law, 1545–50. Rector of Boxford, Suff., 1553–63: of Bexwell, Norf., 1556–7: of St Stephen Walbrook, 1557: of All SS. Fulbourn, Cambs., about 1560; where he is described, "non residet ibidem, sed commoratur Londini, ut fertur: non est ad predicandum habilis" (Cole XII. 97). Rector of St Mich. Coslany, Norw., 1568–70, when he resigned: rector of Barrow, Suff., 1570–8. Died 1580. He was a benefactor by the foundation of a scholarship. He gave £40 (July 23, 1571) with which the manor of Woburn, Dorset, was partly bought. A scholar was to be chosen, if possible, from Eye School, Suff. From this deed we gather that his father's name was Robert, and his mother's Elizabeth (De Lacy). In 1564 he built, at a cost of £5, a stone window to his college room; it was found, during the alterations of 1753, with the inscription "Humfri Busbi fecit hanc fenestram." He also gave money for warming the hall, in 1565. There is an interesting account in the Annals of the large iron grate, and of the precautions against waste. The fire was only to be lighted between All Saints' and Candlemas and the fuel was strictly limited. A grace was prescribed for the students, in a Latin hymn and prayer, on the omission of which the gift was to lapse for a time to Trin. Hall. Before this the hall was unwarmed. There is a Latin letter from him to Sir Wm Cecil (Jan. 6, 1550–1) 'desiring to be released from some employment in the University of which he was weary' (Lansd. 2, p. 49: and v. Ath. Cant.).

Dorington, William: of Stafford: son of Robert Dorington, gent. School, Eton, four years. Age 18. Admitted pensioner, May 3, 1564. Assigned a cubicle with his brother Mr Dorington, fellow of the college, his tutor and surety.

B.A. (King's) 1569–70: M.A. 1573. Probably admitted scholar at King's, Aug. 27, 1565; after residing for a year with his brother.

Clappam, Luke: of Bedale ('Bidell'), Yorkshire: son of Thomas Clappam, mediocris fortunæ. School, Bedale, four years. Age 21. Admitted May 4, 1564. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor, Mr Trott, fellow.

Perhaps the man of these names, son of Thomas, of 'Thurby,' Yorks., who married Julian, daughter of.....Knell, of Appledore, Kent. Father of John, one of the Six clerks in Chancery (Vis. of Warw. 1619, p. 367). A Luke Clappam was rector of Pebmarsh, Ess., 1583–1604: described as "an unpreaching minister" (Part of a Reg.).

Throckmarton, Robert: scholar: son of Gabriel Throckmarton, gent. (of Ellington and Warboys). School, Warboys, three years. Age 12. Admitted June 24, 1564. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Mr Dorington, M.A., fellow.

Of Warboys, Esq. Married Elizabeth, daughter of John Pickering; and was living in 1613. It was for bewitching his five children that Alice Samwell, her husband, and daughter, were executed at Huntingdon, 1593 (Searle, Hist. of Queens' Coll., p. 379). Pedigree in Vis. of Hunts., 1623.

Kinder, Edmond: of Wath, Yorkshire: son of John Kinder, gent. Age 22. School, Boston, three years. Admitted June 25, 1564. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Mr Hollond, fellow.

Perhaps the 'Sir Kinder' described in Part of a Register as "no preacher." He was then at St Mark's, Lincoln.

Davys, Thomas: of Howden ('Holden'), Yorkshire: son of Thomas Davys, mediocris fortunæ. Age 27. At Trinity College four years. Admitted fellow-commoner, June 26, 1564. Surety, Mr Trot, fellow. Assigned the fifth lower cubicle.

B.A. (Trin.) 1559–60. One of the "attornies" for Trinity College who managed the purchase of some buildings by Dr Caius, in 1564 (Annals); i.e. what was afterwards, in part, the site of the Perse and Legge buildings. One of these names was rector of Shelfhanger, Norf., 1579–80.

Carre, Robert: of Moulton, Suffolk: son of William Carre, mediocris fortunæ. Age 18. School, Bury St Edmunds, four years. Admitted July 2, 1564. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Ds Paymont, fellow.

Kedington, Henry: of Reed ('Ryde'), Suffolk: (fifth) son of Henry Kedington, mediocris fortunæ. Age 14. Schools, Bury St Edmunds, and Glemsford, three years. Admitted July 5, 1564. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Ds Paimont, fellow.

One of these names was ordained deacon (Norw.) March 31, 1574. Rector of Bergh Apton, Norf., 1582, till his death in 1606. The family pedigree is given by Davy (Add. 19,138).

Newgate, Robert (matriculated as Edmund): of Holkham, Norfolk: son of Edmond Newgate, mediocris fortunæ. Age 16. School, Burnham Westgate, three years. Admitted Aug. 1, 1564. Tutor and surety Ds Spenser.

Family pedigree of 'Newgate of Holkham' in Norf. Vis. of 1664.

Drury, William: of Hawstead, Suffolk: son of Robert Drury, Esq. Age 15. School, Groton ('Gratton'), three years. Admitted Aug. 4, 1564. Tutor and surety Mr Dorington, fellow. Assigned the fifth lower cubicle.

Afterwards Sir William, knight. High Sheriff of Suff., 1583: M.P., Suff., 1585. Sent in command of a regiment in an expedition to France in aid of Henry IV. Fought a duel with Sir John Borough, in a quarrel about precedency, there, in 1589. His wound mortified, and he died Jan. 18, 1589–90. Buried at Hawstead. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Wm Stafford of Northants. "Vir genere et omni elegantia splendidus" (Camden). There is a grand monument to him at Hawstead (Drury MSS.).

Drury, Thomas: younger brother of the above. Born at Hawstead. Age 12. Admitted pensioner, Aug. 4, 1564. Tutor and surety Mr Dorington. Assigned the same cubicle as his brother.

Third son: born May 8, 1551. Married a daughter of.....Fitzharding of Ratcliff. Died without issue, 1602. Pedigree in Vis. of Suffolk.

Froste, William: of Brockley, Suffolk: son of Richard Frost, mediocris fortunæ. Age 16. School, Groton, three years. Admitted Aug. 4, 1564. Tutor and surety Mr Dorington, fellow. Assigned the fifth lower cubicle.

Underdowne, Thomas: of Sussex: son of Henry Underdown, gent. Age 21. Educated for three years at Clare Hall. Admitted Aug. 6, 1564. Tutor and surety Mr Dorington, fellow. Assigned the first lower cubicle.

B.A. (Clare) 1564–5: M.A. 1568. Ordained deacon (Abp of Dublin) Jan. 13, 1571–2. Preb. of St Patrick's, 1572. Rector of St Peter and St Mary Lewes, 1580. Rector of St John sub Castro, Lewes, 1580. Suspended in 1584 for non-subscription to Abp Whitgift's articles. Summoned to Lambeth, with others, and examined. Finally subscribed, and was released from suspension (Brook, Puritans, I. 264; and E. H. W. D.). Cooper (Ath. Cant.) identifies him with the author of Theseus and Ariadne, and other poems.

Richardson, Raynold: of Howden ('Hovidon'), Yorkshire: son of William Richardson, mediocris fortunæ. Age 12. School, Howden ('Houldon'), three years. Admitted Sep. 11, 1564. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Ds Davys, fellow-commoner of the college.

Mich^s 1564—Mich^s 1565.

*Wiseman, Francis. From Jes. College. B.A. 1563–4. Appears as fellow and tutor in 1565. Perhaps the same who was rector of Graveley, Cambs., from about 1600: and who, as a widower, married Joan Huit, there, Oct. 24, 1611: Administration granted to his widow in 1613.

Cobbe, Nicholas: of Hedingham ('Henningham'), Essex: son of Avillus Cobb, mediocris fortunæ. Age 25. Formerly fellow of St John's College. Admitted fellow-commoner, Oct. 20, 1564. Surety Mr Dorington. Assigned the second upper cubicle.

B.A. (Jes.) 1556–7. Fellow of St John's, Ap. 8, 1557. From the following entries he seems to have been, for a short time, a popular tutor with the Essex men in our college; but apparently not a fellow.

Greene, William: son and heir of Rooke Grene, Esq. Born at Sampford, Essex. Age 19. Educated at home. Admitted fellow-commoner, Oct. 20, 1564. Assigned a cubicle with his tutor and surety, Mr Nicholas Cobbe, above-named.

B.A. 1568–9: M.D. 1581. Fellow, Mich^s 1571 to his death, Sep. 30, 1615. One of the largest benefactors to the college. He seems to have spent the whole of his life here, where for several years he was bursar of the college. He was in holy orders:—the fellows complain (Lansd. 33) that being a minister he was allowed to shift to a medical fellowship and back again. It is supposed that his large fortune (over £9000) was partly acquired by his practice. Some account of the fellowships and scholarships which he founded is given under Endowments. He also founded the town grammar school, called after his name; left £500 for new college buildings; large legacies to the towns of Cambridge, Bury, and Lynn; &c. His will (proved P. C. C. 1615) is printed in Cooper's Annals, III. 94. He is buried in the college chapel, where there is a large mural monument to him. The following is the English part of the inscription :—

Christian, surnamde, Stephan Perse I hight,
Sole Life with God alone, my Crowne my Light,
With living God, eternall Life I live,
This now my Song; to sole God praise I give.
This Epitaph by me Perse was deviz'd,
To none else my Thoughts better were compriz'd.

Migrated to Oxford, 1574. B.A. (Oxf.) 1575–6. A celebrated Jesuit priest: one of the few who, though constantly hunted by spies, escaped apprehension. Described by an informer, about 1593, as "a little man, with a reddish beard, about the age of 43." Most of his labours were in his own county of Yorkshire, where he died in extreme old age, May 25, 1640. So remarkable does his immunity seem—he frequently visited York Castle whilst H. Walpole was a prisoner there—that Dr Jessopp thinks he must have had some powerful friends in the background. He became Superior of the English Jesuits, after the execution of Garnet, May 3, 1606. (v. Foley's Records, Vol. III. and D. N. B.)

Patricke, Giles: M.A.: of Shineton ('Sheinketon'), Shropshire: son of Thomas Patrick, mediocris fortunæ. School, Worcester: afterwards at Jesus College. Age 30. Fingley, John: matriculated sizar, Dec. 1573. Born at Barnby, Yorkshire. Afterwards a seminary priest and martyr. Admitted at Douay College, Feb. 13, 1579–80. Ordained sub-deacon Feb. 21, 1580–1; and priest at Rheims, by the Bp of Chalons, March 25, 1581. Sent to England Ap. 24, 1581, about the same time as Ed. Osburne. Apprehended and committed to York gaol; tried there; and hanged and quartered, Aug. 8, 1586. He appears to have resided three years or more in college, and his real character seems to have been at once suspected by the fellows. He was at first sizar to Hugh Cressy, and afterwards appointed butler by Dr Legge, an office usually held by a scholar. He was the subject of violent complaints against the master by the anti-Romish party in college. "That the said Finglye was made butler[1] by the master without consent of the fellows...that the common rumour was that he did labour to pervert youth secretly...came very seldom or never to prayer or sermons...could not be drawn unto them by warning and correction often used by this deponent (H. Paman)...was not sent away by the master, but that his lewd dealing being detected he ran away." "There was very much speech of a mass reported to be said by Fingley in the master's great chamber, and that he was by some suspected to be a priest" (Lansd. 33). There is a reference to him as "a priest of God, put into a low prison, into a deep and darksome dungeon," at York (v. Foley III. 251; and D. N. B.). For more see Caian, Vol. v.

[1] The butler was a college officer who ranked with the scholars, and should have been appointed, like them, by the master and fellows together.

Osburne, Edward: of Kelmarsh, Northants.: (second) son of John Osburne, mediocris fortunæ. School, Kelmarsh, four years. Age 19. Admitted pensioner, May 15, 1574. Tutor and surety, Mr John Depup, M.A., fellow.

Afterwards a seminary priest. Ordained priest from Douay College, 1581; and sent to England the same year. Returned in 1583, bringing John Roberts (see p. 88) with him. Afterwards, under family pressure, he recanted; but rejoined the church of Rome in 1587, "valde pœnitens." He was refused his degree at Cambridge, on account of his opinions. One of the complaints of the fellows was "that Osburne, being convicted of Papistry, the master did not expulse him" (Lansd. 33). In a letter from the Recorder of London it is stated that "one Osborne a seminary priest came drooping into a chamber where Mr Topcliffe and myself were. Him we examined, and it appeared that he was a seminary priest and had dwelt at the Hospital at Rome four years, and after he was professed into the house of the Franciscans being barefoot friars that lived by begging: and that he lived by begging, and that he laboured by cutting wood and bearing of it upon his back" (Strype, Ann. III. 1. 125).

Markham, Gervase: of Laneham, Notts.: son of Elis Markham, Esq. School, Laneham, four years. At St John's College, one year. Age 17. Admitted pensioner minor, 'primi ordinis,' Ap. 21, 1576. Surety, Mr R. Swaile, M.A. Assigned the first lower cubicle to the north, on the west side of the Caius Court.

Of Laneham and Dunham, Notts. Soon after leaving college he had a desperate duel, on a family quarrel, with John Holles (father of Denzil) in Sherwood forest, in which he was dangerously wounded. He vowed "never to eat supper nor take the sacrament, till he was avenged" of this. He is described (Biog. Brit. "Holles") as "a proper handsome gentleman, and of a great courage." There are several letters in the Cal. of State Papers referring to his later life. He was the only important man in Notts. who refused ship-money, for which he was imprisoned; apparently in his house. Said to be very wealthy, with no legitimate family. Bed-ridden for two years, in 1635; "so infirm and useless in all parts of his body that he is not portable to London." He seems to have been notorious as a miser. Died Jan. 17, 1636–7, and buried at Laneham. Described, on his monument, as "Captaine of the Horse in the said Countie, who long served her Majesty in her warre, with extraordinary prooff in Ireland (under Essex, 1599) and the Low Countries."

Markham, Jerome: brother of the above. Born at Laneham, Notts. At school there, four years. At St John's College, one year. Age 16. Admitted pensioner, 'primi ordinis,' April 21, 1576. Surety, Mr R. Swaile. Assigned a cubicle with his brother.

The great scholar. As he was not on the foundation we have no evidence as to how long he was in residence. In one of his letters to Camden (Epp. p. 135) dated 1611, he makes a kindly reference to his old tutor: "si circa vos versatur D. Rob. Swayle, velim mille aliquot salutibus meis mactes: fuit enim mihi tutor in collegio Gunwelli et Caii." He afterwards studied at Leyden; and was successively professor at Wittemberg and Heidelberg. At the latter place he was also librarian, and lost his own collection of books at the siege of 1622. His Fax Artium, in 12 vols., was presented to our library by Dr Parr. We have his likeness in the college; reproduced from the portrait at Heidelberg, where he died, Sep. 20, 1627.

Purie, Leonard: of Algarkirk ('Alderchurch'), Lincolnshire: son of Thomas Purie, gent., (of Kirton in Holland.) Schools, Spalding, Wisbech and Boston. Age 17. Admitted pensioner minor, 'primi ordinis,' Aug. 3, 1577. Surety, Mr R. Swaile, M.A., fellow. Re-admitted as fellow-commoner, Ap. 19, 1579.

Married Beatrix, daughter of Thos Ogle, of Pinchbeck, Lincs., Nov. 28, 1587. Will proved (Linc.), March 5, 1610–1. Lived at Evesham Place, Kirton; where he was succeeded by his son William; and died 1592.

Oliver, John: of Paxton, Hunts.: son of Richard Oliver, yeoman, 'tenuis fortunæ.' Taught by Mr White at St Neot's. Age 17. Admitted pensioner, Aug. 25, 1577. Surety, Mr S. Perse, M.A., fellow.

B.D. 1596. Incorporated at Oxford, Aug. 30, 1605. Ordained deacon (Linc.) Jan. 7, 1586–7: priest (Lond.) Ap. 26, 1587; as curate of Barking. Rector of Layer Parva, Ess., 1598–1607.

Smythe, Edmund: of Burton on Trent: son of Matthew Smith, merchant. School, Burton. Age 16. Admitted pensioner minor, 'secundi ordinis,' Sep. 12, 1577. Surety, Mr R. Swaile, M.A., fellow and president.

Scholar to Mich^s 1582.

Burlingham, Christopher: son of Peter Burlingham, carpenter, mediocris fortunæ. Born at Brinton, Norfolk. Schools, Norwich, under Mr Limbert; and Holt, under Mr Harrison. Age 17. Admitted pensioner minor, July 6, 1577. Surety, Mr Paman, M.A., fellow.

B.A. 1581–2: M.A. 1585. Scholar to Mich^s 1585. Ordained priest (Norw.) Ap. 10, 1586. Rector of Brinton, 1586–1618; and also of Thornage. He held the two livings together: value respectively, in 1603, 6*s.* 6½*d.*, and £6. 18*s.* 4*d.* Married Dorothy (? Avis), daughter of Nicholas Layer of Norwich. Buried Oct. 15, 1618. (Pedigree in Vis. of Norf. 1664.)

Graye, Walter: of Eaton Socon, Beds.: son of Robert Graye, gent., mediocris fortunæ. School, Eaton Socon, under Mr Huckle. Age 17. Admitted pensioner, Sep. 23, 1577. Surety, Mr S. Perse, M.A., fellow.

Burgoine, John: of Quick's Wood (near Baldock), Herts.: son of George Burgoine, Esq. School, Ely, seven years. Age 16. Admitted pensioner minor, 'primi ordinis,' Sep. 29, 1577. Surety, Mr R. Swaile, M.A., fellow and president.

B.A. (Jes.) 1580–1: M.A. 1584. Vicar of Notley Alba, Essex, 1599–1603. (v. Vis. of Cambs., 1619.)

Cobbe. Admitted pensioner.

Mich^s 1577—Mich^s 1578.

Clarke, William: of Bocking, Essex: son of Clement Clarke, gent. School, Marks Hall, under Mr Lewes. Age 16. Admitted pensioner minor, 'secundi ordinis,' Oct. 3, 1577. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr Robert Churche, M.A., fellow.

Eaton, Reginald: of Southwell, Notts.: son of John Eaton, mediocris fortunæ. At first a chorister at Southwell under Mr Thetford, 'musicus'; and at school there under Mr Baskerville. Age 17. Admitted pensioner minor, 'tertii ordinis,' Oct. 25, 1577. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Dr Legge, Master of the college.

Afterwards a seminary priest. Arrived at the Douay College, 1586; and ordained priest at Rheims 1587. Entered the Jesuit Society in 1610. Was a missioner for four years in the College of St Francis Xavier, and died there March 23, 1641. Reported by a spy in 1591 as "a little shorte felowe, a broad flaxey beard" (v. State Papers, Dom., 1580–1; and Foley's Records, VII. 218).

Deane, William: son of Thomas Deane, mediocris fortunæ. Born in Grassington, Yorkshire. Schools, Leeds, and Clitheroe? ('Cletherall'), Lancashire, four years. At Magdalene College, two years. Age 20. Admitted pensioner minor, 'tertii ordinis,' Nov. 4, 1577. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr R. Draper, M.A., fellow.

Probably the seminary priest and martyr, described as of Yorkshire, who was ordained priest from the Douay College, Dec. 21, 1581. Sent to England, Jan. 25, 1581–2: banished thence, but returned, soon after, Nov. 21, 1585. Tried and condemned, Aug. 22, 1588, as a priest ordained abroad. Executed at Mile End, Aug. 28, 1588. "Vir morum gravitate, et doctrina, conspicuus" (v. Challoner, and Douay Diary).

Browne, John: of Horseheath ('Horside'), Cambs.: son of Thomas Browne, Esq. School, Walden, under Mr Disborough. Age 18. Admitted fellow-commoner, Nov. 5, 1577. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, the Master, Dr Legge.

Probably B.A. (Corp.) 1580–1: M.A. 1584: B.D. 1591.

Barwicke, Thomas: of Westhorpe, Suffolk: son of Richard Barwicke, gent. School, Bury St Edmunds, three years, under Mr Philip Manfeild and Mr Thomas Cravis. Age 16. Admitted pensioner, to the bachelors' table, Nov. 3, 1577. Surety, Dr Legge, Master of the college. Assigned the first lower cubicle by the chapel, on the east side of the Caius Court.

One of the strong popish faction in the college. "Sent away for professing himself an open papist." Amongst other charges against him was that "he would not receive the communion, for that there was not a priest to consecrate": others of the party contending that they might do so, if they treated the elements as mere bread and wine. We have, in his case, the only reference I have ever found in our records, to corporal punishment. Mr Swale declared, after Barwick's expulsion "for Papistry," he "would only have beaten him openly in the hall for the same, and so have retained him, whosoever had said nay, for he was but a boy, and so to be used." (Lansd. 33: for pedigree see Metcalfe's Vis. of Suff.)

Mapted, John: son of John Mapted, mediocris fortunæ (formerly of the college). Born at Foulden, Norfolk. School, Ely, four years, under Mr Spight. Age 15. Admitted pensioner to the scholars' table Nov. 12, 1577. Assigned the first lower cubicle by the chapel in the Gonville Court, with his surety, Mr S. Perse, M.A., fellow.

B.A. 1581–2: M.A. 1585. Scholar, to Mich^{s} 1585. Rector of Bawsey, 1593–1603; of Bodney, 1596–1603; and of Langford, 1596–1603: all in Norf. Will proved (Norw. C. C.) 1603; "of Bodney." See John Whight, 1575.

Cockely, Andrew: of Haverhill, Essex: son of Robert Cockely, mediocris fortunæ. School, Chesterton, under Mr Adderton, three years. Age 18. Admitted pensioner, Jan. 20, 1577–8. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr Robert Churche, M.A., fellow.

Tayler, Guy: of Drax, Yorkshire: son of Thomas Tayler, yeoman. School, York, three years, under Mr Pullane. Age 16. Admitted to the scholars' table, Jan. 27, 1577–8. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr Richard Swaile, M.A., president.

B.A. 1581–2.

Smyth, Roger: son of Thomas Smyth, mediocris fortunæ. Born in London. Educated at Blackfriars School, under Mr Waddington, four years. Age 16. Admitted pensioner minor, 'tertii ordinis,' Feb. 3, 1577–8. Assigned the lower cubicle by the Chapel, in the Caius Court, with his surety, Mr Stephen Perse, M.A., fellow.

B.A. (Pet.) 1581–2: M.A. 1585. Incorporated at Oxford, as B.A., July 11, 1585. Perhaps rector of Tothill, Lincs.; or vicar of St Sepulchre, Cambridge, 1586.

*Fletcher, John: son of Thomas Fletcher, husbandman. Born at Hebden, Yorkshire. School, Leeds, under Mr Hargraves, three years. Age 21. Admitted pensioner minor, 'tertii ordinis,' Feb. 5, 1577–8. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr Paul Goulde, M.A., fellow.

B.A. 1580–1: M.A. 1584. Scholar to Mich^s 1584. Fellow, L. Day 1587 to Mich^s 1613. Catechist, 1592: bursar, 1594, 1601: salarist, 1611. Died of apoplexy Oct. 14, 1613: buried in the chapel. He seems to have had considerable reputation as an astrologer. In his examination in London, 1593, one witness, Jane Shelley, 'testifies that she had consulted him at Cambridge, as to the recovery of certain money and jewels. She also asked him as to the fate of her husband who was now in prison. Also what had become of her deed of jointure...he answered knaves be knaves. She was in hand with him to set a figure to know whether her husband would escape...he told her he could not do it unless he had her husband's nativity.' (Cal. of State Papers, Dom. 1593.) There was formerly a monument to him in the floor of the chapel entrance: long since worn out. He was largely consulted by Sir Chr. Heydon in the production of his Defence of Judicial Astrology (see 19 letters from the latter; MS. 73, Coll. Library). He was tutor to William Heydon (see on, 1597–8). He gave to our library a "sphæra ænea cum capsula":—this must be the larger of the two old astrolabes now in our college. The Annals admit that "in arcana naturæ penetrare ausus est," especially devoting himself to Astrology, and that he thereby came into some obloquy; but it is claimed that he was very distinguished in mathematics and medicine, and that he was the teacher of Henry Briggs and of other mathematicians. It is added that such writings as he left behind, with the exception of one medical tract, were in some way turned, by his heirs, to their own profit. (For more see Caian, Vol. VI.)

Farmarie, William: son of Nicholas Farmarie, husbandman. Born at Burton Gate, Lincolnshire. School, Kettlethorpe, four years, under Mr Becke. Age 16. Admitted to the scholars' table, Feb. 12, 1577–8. Assigned a cubicle with Mr John Paman, M.A., fellow.

B.A. 1581–2: M.A. 1585. Ordained deacon (Linc.) Sep. 6, 1586. Rector of Springthorpe, Lincs., 1588; and of Heapham, 1588. Chaplain to the Bp of Lincoln. Perhaps also the vicar of W. Saltfleetby described in Part of a Register as a preacher, but non-resident. Father's will proved at Lincoln, 1580.

Coe, William: of Cley, Norfolk: son of Thomas Coe, mediocris fortunæ. School, Holt, under Mr Harryson, three years. Age 18. Admitted to the scholars' table, Feb. 13, 1577–8. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr Simon Canhan, M.A., fellow.

B.A. 1581–2: M.A. 1585. Scholar to Mich^s 1585. Rector of Burgh Castle, Suff., 1586–1614.

Coke, Richard: of Yoxford? ('Exford'), Suffolk: son of William Coke, gent. School, Bury St Edmunds, six years, under Mr Manfeild. Age 18. Admitted to the scholars' table, March 5, 1577–8. Assigned a lower cubicle with his surety, Mr J. Paman, M.A., fellow.

Gerrard, Felix: of Harrow on the Hill: son of William Gerrard, gent. Schools, Harrow and Eton, three years. Age 17. Admitted to the scholars' table, March 10, 1577–8. Surety, his brother, Mr Richard Gerrard, fellow.

Scholar to L. Day 1582. Probably admitted at Gray's Inn, Feb. 2, 1591–2. Brother of Philip, of 1581–2.

Heydon, John: of Wroxham, Norfolk: son of William Heydon, Esq., J.P. Schools, Holt, Norwich, and Ryburgh, four years. Age 15. Admitted pensioner to the bachelors' table, March 14, 1577–8. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr R. Swaile, M.A., fellow and president.

Doubtless a younger brother of Sir Christopher, the writer on Astrology. Concerned with him in the conspiracy of Essex, but pardoned in 1601. Knighted by the Earl of Essex when on service under him in Ireland, 1599. About Nov. 1599 he was engaged in a desperate duel with Sir John Mansfield, near Norwich, in which he lost his left hand:—this is preserved in the Museum at Canterbury. In 1614 he was again in trouble, on account of a proposed duel with the young Earl of Essex, and was imprisoned in the Fleet. Known as "Heydon of the one hand" (v. Gent. Mag. 1853, I. 481). Pedigree in Vis. of Norfolk.

Prigion, Francis: matriculated pensioner, March 15, 1577–8. B.A. 1581–2: M.A. 1585. Of Boothby, Lincs. Ordained deacon and priest (Lond.) June 30, 1596; aged 35. Rector of Boothby, 1596. Licensed by the bishop of Lincoln to practise physic in the diocese, June 23, 1605.

Hammonde, Maurice: of Westmill, Herts.: son of George Hammonde, yeoman. Schools, Standon, under Mr Michswell, and Ely: three years. Age 16. Admitted pensioner minor, 'tertii ordinis,' Mar. 24, 1577–8. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr Paul Goulde, M.A., fellow.

B.A. (Christ's) 1581–2: M.A. 1585. Ordained deacon (Linc.) July 8, 1586. Rector of Barnwell All SS., Northants., 1592: buried there Feb. 16, 1616–7. Brother of George (p. 77), and of Robert (p. 81).

Smythe, Robert: born at Occold, Suffolk: son of John Smythe, gent. School, Sudbury, under Mr White. Age 18. Admitted to the scholars' table, March 28, 1578. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr Simon Canhan, M.A., fellow.

B.A. 1581–2. Robert Smith, second son of John, of Hundon, Suff., was admitted at the Middle Temple, Ap. 25, 1583.

Lath, William: of Kirton, Lincolnshire: son of Thomas Lath, mediocris fortunæ. School, Kirton: also at Pembroke Hall. Age 15. Admitted sizar, April 6, 1578. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr Thomas Hawes, M.A., fellow.

B.A. 1581–2. M.A. 1585. Scholar to Mich[s] 1585. Ordained deacon (Linc.) Ap. 14, 1586.

*Hawes, Thomas: the above fellow and tutor. Remains fellow to L. Day 1584. B.A. (Christ's) 1574–5: M.A. (Pemb.) 1578.

One of these names was rector of St Leonard's, Colchester, 1615–40.

Raulyns, John: B.A. (1571–2): from Trinity College: son of John Raulyns, gent. Born in London. At St Anthony's School there, and at Eton. Afterwards at Oxford. Age 22. Admitted pensioner, to the bachelors' table, Ap. 7, 1578. Surety, Mr John Paman, M.A., fellow.

At St Alban Hall, in or before 1572. B.A. (Oxf.) 1576–7. Probably vicar of Fressingfield, Suffolk, 1590–1629. Buried there Dec. 11, 1629. Will proved at Norwich. Wife Judith: son John, afterwards at Emmanuel. Another of the same names (of St John's) was rector of Attleborough, Norf.; and one was admitted to the Inner Temple in 1583, as "of London, gent."

Foule, Thomas: of Kirton (in Lindsey), Lincolnshire: son of Robert Foule. School, Kirton, three years, under Mr Grave. Age 20. Admitted to the scholars' table, Ap. 25, 1578. Surety, Mr Roger Brunninge, M.A., fellow.

A Thomas Fowle of Suffolk was suspended in 1584, on account of Abp Whitgift's Articles. Perhaps master of Botesdale School, Suff. (v. Greg. Hovell, 1608).

Stapilton, Richard: of Carlton, Yorkshire: son of Brian Stapilton, Esq. Educated at home, by Mr Hudson. Age 15. Admitted fellow-commoner, May 7, 1578. Surety, Dr Legge, Master of the college.

Second son. Succeeded to his father's estates. Married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Henry Pierpoint of Notts. (v. Vis. of Yorks., 1584, 1612). Admitted at Gray's Inn, May 25, 1582. In college he was one of the popish faction, favoured by the master. The fellows complain that "he was very well known by the master to be corrupt in religion, and to have been free in speech therein to others, and that this deponent (J. Paman) had complained unto the master of the said Stapleton" (Lansd. 33). Died about 1614.

Vavasour, John: of Copmanthorpe, Yorkshire: son of Henry Vavasour, Esq. School, Greenwich ('Grenovicensis'), five years. Age 16. Admitted fellow-commoner, May 1, 1578. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr Richard Swaile, M.A., fellow and president of the college.

Presumably the student who complained of his tutor's attempts to pervert him to popery. "On one occasion, when he asked him (Swale) to buy him a Calvin's Catechism or Beza's Confession, he was offended with him." "Being a sober wise young man he said unto Mr Church that he thought his tutor was a Papist" (Lansd. 36). Died without issue. See Foster's Yorks. pedigrees.

Noble, Andrew: of Bewcastle, Cumberland ('Bucastle, Yorkshire'): son of Robert Noble, yeoman, deceased. Schools, Giggleswick and Eton (? Hetton, near Skipton), four years. Age 19. Admitted pensioner, to the bachelors' table, May 28, 1578. Surety, Mr T. Hawes, M.A., fellow.

One of the witnesses against R. Booth (v. p. 110).

Etherington, Peter: of Saltfleetby All Saints, Lincolnshire: son of Robert Etherington, yeoman. Schools, Boston and Louth, under Messrs Goodale and Woddroffe, five years. Age 18. Admitted pensioner, July 5, 1578. Surety, Mr Paul Goulde, M.A., fellow.

Chymney, William: of East Dereham, Norfolk: son of Robert Chymney, mediocris fortunæ. School, East Dereham, three years, under Messrs Ledall and Clappham. Age 18. Admitted sizar, Sep. 9, 1578. Surety, Mr S. Canhan, M.A., fellow.

Probably of Scarning, Norf.; father of John, of 1626. If so, buried at Scarning, March 8, 1634–5. Will proved (Norw.) 1635.

Poynton, John: of Garvestone, Norfolk (bapt. Feb. 8, 1562–3): son of Robert Poynton, mediocris fortunæ. School, Hardingham, Norfolk, under Mr John Haywarde, five years. Age 16. Admitted sizar, Sep. 7, 1578. Surety, Mr S. Perse, M.A., fellow.

B.A. 1582–3. Ordained priest (Norw.) Ap. 2, 1587. Rector of Kilverstone, Norf., 1587–1641; buried there, June 18, 1641.

Mich^s^ 1578—Mich^s^ 1579.

Scotte, William: son of John Scotte, burgess of Cambridge. Born in Cambridge. At school there under Mr Wilkynson. At Trinity College, two years and a half. Age 19. Admitted pensioner, to the scholars' table, Oct. 1, 1578. Surety, Mr R. Swale, M.A., president.

Probably B.A. (Corp.) 1580–1: M.A. 1584. A Wm Scott was rector of Throcking, Herts., in 1592.

Barker, Edmund: of Sibton, Suffolk: son of John Barker, yeoman. Schools, Halesworth, Suffolk, and Dalling ('Dauling'), Norfolk, three years. Age 16. Admitted pensioner, to the bachelors' table, Oct. 10, 1578. Surety, Mr Richard Swale, M.A., president.

Lord of the Manor of Peasenhall, and patron of Sibton. Married Maryan, daughter of George Vesey, of Blythburgh, Suffolk. Died July 21, 1626. M.I. at Sibton. Will proved (P. C. C.) Feb. 6, 1626–7. (J. J. M.) The father is described (in Inq. p. m.) as 'Chapman alias Barker.' See Vis. of Suff.

Sayer, George: son of George Sayer, Esq. Born in Colchester. At school there, under Mr William Bartlet, four years. Age 14. Admitted pensioner, to the bachelors' table, Nov. 1, 1578. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr Robert Churche, B.D., fellow. (Re-admitted as fellow-commoner, June 5, 1579.)

Admitted at Gray's Inn, Jan. 4, 1581–2. Of Aldham, Essex. Knighted May 28, 1607. Married Dorothy, daughter of Sir John Higham, of Suffolk. Died 1630: buried at Aldham (v. Vis. of Essex, and of Suffolk).

Huddilston, John: of South Weald, Essex: son of Edmund Huddilston, Esq. Educated at home, under Mr Barnham, four years. Age 17. Admitted fellow-commoner, Nov. 4, 1578. Surety, Dr Legge, Master. Assigned the second lower cubicle, on the east side of the Gonville Court, next the Chapel.

Died in college, about 1580. The allowance of Popish observances over his body was one of the grounds of accusation against Dr Legge by a party of the fellows. It was reported that "he had been instructed in Papistry, and that Mr Barnham (his tutor, who seems to have lived with him) did read popish prayers to him during his sickness." One of the fellows asserts "that he did see wax candles carried to the said Huddleston's chamber, which he believeth were burning about the dead body until ten of the clock" (Lansd. 33).

Baker, Edward: B.A., of St John's College: son of Peter Baker, citizen of London. Age 23. Admitted fellow-commoner, Nov. 8, 1578. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr Thomas Hawes, M.A., fellow.

B.A. (Joh.) 1576: M.A. 1579. Subscribed for orders (deacon and priest) at Chester, Ap. 23, 1580. Vicar of Nazing, Essex, 1582–1589. Probably incorporated at Oxford, July 13, 1591: and curate of Waltham Cross in 1592.

Willoughby, Gilbert: of Nuneaton, Warwickshire: son of William Willoughby, gent. School, Nuneaton, under Mr Downes, four years. Age 18. Admitted pensioner, to the bachelors' table, Nov. 7, 1578. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr R. Swaile, M.A., president.

Of Normanton, Notts. Married (1) Frances, daughter of Samuel Marrow; (2) Frances, daughter of William Walkeden. Died about 1600. He left a silver cup to the college. (See Vis. of Notts., 1614; and Thoroton, I. 12.)

Pasmore, Francis: of Boston, Lincolnshire: son of Thomas Pasmore, yeoman. School, Wisbech, under Mr Belson, five years. Age 16. Admitted to the scholars' table, Nov. 13, 1578. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr John Paman, M.A., fellow.

Will of Thomas Pasmore, of Algarkirk, proved (Linc.) Nov. 17, 1573. Leaves to son Francis farming stock, three silver spoons, &c. The latter was under age, but appointed executor.

Dakyns, Edward: M.A., of Trinity Hall: of Brandsburton, Yorkshire: son of John Dakyns, gent. School, Pocklington. Age 24. Admitted fellow-commoner, Dec. 7, 1578. Surety, Dr Legge, Master. Assigned the first upper cubicle on the east side of the Caius Court, towards the south.

B.A. (Pet.) 1574–5: M.A. (Tr. H.) 1578. Afterwards joined the Church of Rome. Ordained sub-deacon (Laon) March 8, 1581–2: deacon (Chalons) March 31, 1582: priest Ap. 14, 1582. Sent to England in 1584: banished, and returned to Douay in 1585: sent again to England Jan. 20, 1585–6. He was tutor to R. Creswell. One of the complaints of the fellows against the master was "that they did never hear of any punishment that the same Creswell sustained for that fault (absenting himself from chapel), and that his tutor, Mr Dakyns, was very unlikely to correct him for such a fault" (Lansd. 33; and Douay Diary).

Creswell, Rodolph: of Nunkeeling ('Keling'), Yorkshire: son of George Creswell, gent. School, Pocklington, three years. Age 16. Admitted fellow-commoner, Dec. 7, 1578. Surety, Mr R. Swaile. Assigned a cubicle with Mr Dakyns.

Son and heir: described as 'aged 20' in the Yorks. Vis. of 1584–5. Married Elizabeth, daughter of ... Ingleby. A popish recusant in 1604, with others of his family: reported to retain "a suspected schoolmaster" for his children. When in college, Mr Paman, the dean, complained that having punished Creswell for not going to sermons, he, "to show his contempt shortly after used card playing all the sermon time in the chamber next the master's lodging,...neither did he ever hear of any punishment" (Lansd. 33).

Lusher, Nicholas: son of Nicholas Lusher, gent. Born at Shoelands ('Showland') in Puttenham, Surrey. School, Bletchingley, under Mr Pollarde, four years. Age 16. Admitted pensioner, to the bachelors' table, Nov. 22, 1578. Surety, the Master, Dr Legge. (Re-admitted as fellow-commoner, 1580.)

Afterwards Sir Nicholas Lusher. Of Shoelands in Puttenham. Married Dorothy, daughter of John Hunt, of Lindon, Ruts. A family of popish recusants: two of his sons became Jesuits (v. Foley, Rec. VII. 468). When in college the fellows complained of him that "being dehorted from Papistry by his reader, Mr Howse, he made answer that his mother had requested the Master to train him up in Papistry" (Lansd. 33).

Mayr (or Maior), John: matriculated sizar, Nov. 27, 1578. B.A. 1581–2.

Harrison, Guy: matriculated sizar, Nov. 27, 1578. He was steward (obsonator) of the college from Mich^s 1581 to Mich^s 1586, in which capacity his name appears amongst the scholars. It was one of the complaints of the fellows that the Master had, by his sole authority, conferred this office upon him (Lansd. 33). Harrison appears for many years after as in debt to the college for £3. 14. 6.

Grymston, John, Thwaites, Walter and Christopher: (third, fourth, fifth and sixth) sons of Thomas Grimstone, Esq., of Grimston, Yorkshire. Educated at home. Ages 14, 15, 16 and 18. Admitted pensioners, to the bachelors' table, Dec. 17, 1578. Surety, the Master, Dr Legge.

John. Married twice, and had issue. Signs the pedigree in the Vis. of Yorks. ('Grimston of Grimston') 1612.

Thwaites. Married Bridget, daughter of Henry Mainwaring of Cheshire (Foster's Pedigrees).

Walter. B.A. 1582–3: M.A. 1586. Married Dorothy, daughter of Marmaduke Thirkeld, of Easthorpe.

*Christopher. B.A. 1582–3: M.A. 1586. Fellow, Mich^s 1587 to Mich^s 1592. Bursar, 1588. Married Elizabeth, daughter of Martin Berney, Esq., of Norfolk. For many years his name occurs in our accounts as in debt to the college, for £12. 5. 10, from the time when he was bursar. Admitted at Gray's Inn, 1593.

Pearte, Francis: of Grassington? ('Girsington'), Yorkshire: son of James Pearte, husbandman. Schools, Sedbergh, Leeds, and Linton, Yorkshire, four years. Age 22. Admitted sizar, Dec. 13, 1578. Assigned a cubicle with his surety, Mr John Paman, M.A., fellow. B.A. (Cath.) 1581–2.

(Blomef. VIII., 396.)

Gamble, W. Matriculated sizar, May 8, 1580.

Weldon, John. Seminary priest. Executed at Mile End, Oct. 5, 1588. From an account in a contemporary pamphlet (quoted in Harl. Misc. x. 380) he appears to have been of our college; but I have not found his name in our records. He is described as "born at Tollerton, Yorks., sometime student at Caius College." Indicted Oct. 4, 1588 "for that being born within Her Majesty's dominions he was not only made priest at Paris by authority derived from the See of Rome," but had afterwards entered this land, sent by the Pope, &c. (v. Lansd. 982, p. 105).

According to an interesting notice in the Month (Jan. 1879) his real name was Hewett, son of William, draper, of York. Received the minor orders, from Rheims, Sep. 23, 1583; captured in York, Aug. 1585, and exiled; returned to the college at Rheims; afterwards, as a priest, captured in England and executed.

Vavasoure, William, of Kippax, Yorkshire: son of Rodolph Vavasoure, gent. Schools, Newton and Otley, Yorkshire. Age 14. Admitted fellow-commoner, Dec. 31, 1580. Surety, the Master, Dr Legge.

Admitted at Gray's Inn, Feb. 7, 1588–9. Probably the same who inherited the estate of Hazlewood from his uncle John in 1609; and who married Anne, daughter of Sir Thomas Manners. If so, he suffered much as a recusant, being imprisoned five years in Newgate. His eldest son Thomas was created a baronet by Charles I.; six other children became priests or nuns. He was a tertiary of the order of St Francis. Died near York, Nov. 26, 1637; aged 70. A letter from him (Lansd. 153) dated from Newgate, June 19, 1612, offers the king £700 for his release. (See Foley, IV. 690; and Vis. of Yorks., for 'Vavasour of Hazlewood,' where however he is called Walter.) Dr Legge left him by will (July 12, 1607) "my gilt cup, having the Earl of Essex arms on it": he is the only old pupil thus remembered.

*Booth, Remigius. B.A. (Christ's) 1574–5: M.A. (do.) 1578. Appears as fellow and tutor of Caius from Feb. 1580–1 to Mich[s] 1587. He was put out of commons on a charge of incontinence, but acquitted by the Vice-chancellor, Oct. 22, 1579. He got into trouble again in 1582 for remarks on the alleged illegal continuance in office of the Chancellor, who remits his offence "of compassion towards Boothe, being but poor." Later he was official of the archdeaconry of Notts. (v. Cooper, Ath. Cant.). There is a pitiful complaint against him by seven of the fellows, July 18, 1582, in which they declare that "we are more and more daily molested and contemned not only by the inferior scholars, from whom we have small redress, but especially by M[r] Booth, their common instrument, who to our faces openly doth deride us, and some by name shamefully revileth, and offereth also further violence"..."M[r] Booth is a man not only past shame, yet also without law...he is maintained amongst us to abuse and molest us" (Lands. 36). His name occurs in the Lib. Rat. till 1618, as farming the college rectory of Mattishall, Norf.: it was leased to him April 5, 1590.

Houlder, Clement. Scholar to Mich[s] 1582. B.A. 1582–3: M.A 1586. Probably incorporated as M.A. at Oxford, July 8, 1614. Canon of Southwell, 1590. Rector of South Wheatley, Notts., 1610. Buried at Southwell, Feb. 1, 1637–8.

Court) Aug. 9, 1608. Leaves a "parcell of books" to the college library;—amongst these Gerard's Herbal, Vesalius' Anatomy, and the works of Savonarola,—and lands to his wife, who is sole executrix. It is recorded, in the Annals, that on April 2, 1601, he "publice anatomiam sive dissectionem humani corporis fecit, non sine summa ejus laude et maximo auditorum fructu...." The subject of this dissection is recorded in St Michael's register, amongst the burials: "1601, Ap. 6, Mr Hutton the anatomyr of Keys College." I had, on first seeing this notice. supposed him to be a 'demonstrator' of some kind; from his title of Mr, which generally indicates an M.A. Probably this title is given in consequence of Caius' statute that such subjects were to be buried "tanta reverentia et ordine quanta si esset corpus dignioris personæ."

Awger (Aunger), Thomas: son of Henry Awger, mediocris fortunæ. Born at Peterborough. School, Barnack, Northants. Age 18. Admitted, Oct. 6, 1582, sizar of his surety, Mr Grimston, M.A., fellow.

Left Rome for England, May, 1609. He was a Jesuit; and bore the alias 'Kemp.' He died at Brussels in 1612. Robert Drury says of him, "I lived with him in Rome and ever esteem him as a man of probity, candour, and studiously observant of religious discipline." There is a long biographical sketch by himself on his admission at Rome. Of his Cambridge life he says, "Sometimes I applied myself to the humanities sometimes to philosophy; and, as it is the fashion everywhere, I was at one time eager to learn Greek, and at another Hebrew." (v. Foley I. 142.)

Payne, Edward, B.A. (there seems no graduate of this name and date): son of Thomas Payne, minister. Born in Cambridge. Age 22. Admitted pensioner to the bachelors' table, May 10, 1590. Surety, Mr John Fletcher, M.A., fellow.

Perhaps ordained deacon (Norw.) June 24, 1597, as "Edmund Payne, aged 29." Curate of Mattishall, 1597. Curate of Stoke Ferry, Norf., in 1597; "he is resident at Boughton, and serveth them both. Doth not walk the perambulation. No quarterly sermons" (Bishop's Vis.). Rector of East Dereham, 1598–1642.

B.A. 1650-1. Scholar, Mich^{s} 1648 to Mich^{s} 1650.

Gaudy, Bassingbourne: son of Bassingbourne Gaudy, gent., deceased, of West Harling, Norfolk. Born in Gelderland ('Teile in Geldria'). Schools, Bury St Edmunds, under Mr Stephens, three years; and Gressenhall, under Mr Greene, four years. Age 16. Admitted to the scholars' table, Jan. 22, 1648-9. Surety, Mr Foster.

Obtained a pass for France, Oct. 15, 1657, with a son of the Earl of Desmond, and two servants (Cal. of State Papers). The will of one of these names was proved at Bury in 1692. According to Davy (Suff. Ped.) the father was killed at Maestricht (? siege of 1632).

Estey, John: son of Benjamin Estey, vicar of West Bradenham, Norfolk. Born there. School, Lynn, under Mr Bell, eight years. Age 17. Admitted sizar, April 6, 1649. Surety, Mr Barker.

Earle, Edward: son of Erasmus Earle, serjeant at law. Born at Sall. Schools, Corpusty, under Mr Watts, five years; and Norwich, under Mr Lovering, six years. Age 17. Admitted to the scholars' table, April 9, 1649. Surety, Mr Barker.

Fourth son. Admitted at Lincoln's Inn, Nov. 4, 1648. Afterwards of Sall, Cawston, and Heydon. In the church of Sall is a monument to his son Erasmus, who died 1696 aged 27. He was a friend of Oliver Le Neve; many of his letters to whom, dated from Sall, are calendared in Rye's Correspondence of O. Le Neve. The father was M.P. for Norwich, 1640; and was considered one of the ablest lawyers of his time. He purchased the manor of Sall. Edward was his fourth son. (Blomef. VI. 246.)

*Boult, John: son of Nicholas Boult, vicar of Braiseworth, Suffolk. Born there. School, Eye, under Mr Browne, seven years. Age 16. Admitted sizar, April 13, 1649. Surety, Mr Foster.

B.A. 1652–3: M.A. 1656. Scholar, Mich^{s} 1650 to Mich^{s} 1654. Junior fellow, Mich^{s} 1654: senior, L. Day 1659 to Mids^{r} 1660, when he was temporarily removed to make place for Sherringham. Re-elected, as junior, Oct. 5, 1660: senior, Mids^{r} 1661 to his death, Dec. 1661. Usher of the Perse School, 1656. Ethical lecturer, 1656–9: Hebrew lecturer, 1659–60: chaplain, 1660–1. Died of small pox, Dec. 1661: buried in St Michael's. He was re-elected into a senior fellowship in Wheeler's place, who was ejected. "Ita pro nudâ sordidâque silice pretiosa et resplendens gemma; pro ligno et inutili pondere, decora stabilisque columna in senioritatem surrogatur" (Gostlin, Hist.). Author: Latin verses prefixed to the sermon of Wm. Godman, fellow of King's, 1660.

Spensley, Thomas: son of Thomas Spensley, gent., of Lynn, Norfolk. Born at Runcton Holme. School, Tottenhill, under Mr Armestronge one year; afterwards (Lynn) under Mr Bell, six years. Age 16. Admitted to the scholars' table, April 25, 1649. Surety, Mr Bradshaw.

B.A. 1652–3. Scholar, Mich^{s} 1650 to Mich^{s} 1654. Admitted at Lincoln's Inn, Feb. 9, 1653–4. Died before his father: i.e. before 1673 (M.I. at All SS. Lynn). Brother of Roger, 1659.

Obtained leave to travel for three years, Ap. 1665. F.R.S. 1665. For some time in practice at Exeter. In 1670 he published his celebrated treatise, De Respirationis usu primario diatriba: originally an academic exercise: published at the request of Dr Ward and Dr Williams. Soon after his mind failed, and he was visited by Dr Musgrave, who has given an account of the case: he attributes his disease to "the combined influence of a nervous temperament, an injury to the head in childhood, excess of study, the over use of coffee, gout," &c. He gives a very high estimate of him, "nemo unquam medicus illustrior, nec qui arti plus tribuerat." This judgment is confirmed by Dr Munk (v. N. and Q. 2^{d} Ser. Vol. II. p. 272). The latter years of his life were spent with his relations in Somerset. In a return by the master, as to those who had taken the oaths, dated Oct. 7, 1691, it is said of Dr Thurston, "He is a distracted man, and hath been so these 20 years." This worthy migrated to St John's, but took no degree at Cambridge. As regards his college career, Baker says that his tutor (then Sir John Ellis) told him that Oates "was a liar from the beginning: he stole or cheated his tailor of a gown, which he denied with horrid imprecations." Baker adds that his tutor at St John's said that "he was a dunce, ran into debt, and was sent away." Some further particulars of his early life are given in Adam Elliott's autobiographical sketch. "He and the plague both visited the University in the same year. He was very remarkable for a canting fanatical way conveyed to him with his Anabaptistical education; and in our Academical exercises when others declaimed Oates always preached" (v. Caian about Adam Elliott, Vol. II.). His baptism does not appear in the Oakham register.
